Key Decision On Medicare Coming Soon

Joint Conferees Give Little Hope On Passing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The key decision this year on starting a health care program under Social Security is expected to be reached at a Senate House conference Wednesday or Thursday.

Chances for adoption of the program appear slim. But some of its supporters among the 12 conferees have cautioned newsmen not to write it off completely.

President Johnson reportedly has been urging that some form of Social Security health provision be included in the final bill.

MILLS HOLDS KEY

The key figure among the 12 on the bitterly controversial health care issue is Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the conference and head of the five-member House group.

The four other House conferees are split even on the issue. If Mills voted with the two other Democrats, the House conferees would agree to accept the Senate health care plan or some version of it.

However, the close-mouthed Arkansan has been against such a program tied to Social Security for years, and his opposition seems to have hardened recently.

The conferees held three sessions last week on the Social Security bill to which the health proposal was added as a Senate amendment.

Mills has steadfastly declined to make any announcements on the sessions.

However, it was learned that at the third meeting last Thursday afternoon there was a lengthy discussion of how the Senate plan would operate but some conferees said they could detect no hint of Mills' stand from his questions and comments.

The seven Senate conferees voted 5-2 against the health amendment when it was adopted 49-44 in their branch. But they are understood to have given assurances they will stand behind the provision at least long enough to see if the House group will take it.

The showdown, several conferees said, probably will come on the first or second day after the sessions resume Tuesday.

Solons' Debate Not Expected On Liquor Law

BATON ROUGE (AP) — One of Gov. John McKeithen's legislative leaders said Saturday he doubted the controversial liquor price fixing law would be an issue in the upcoming special session.

Sen. Michael O'Keefe, New Orleans, one of the governor's Senate leaders, made the comment when questioned about latest developments.

Act 290 of 1964 comes up before Dist. Judge Jess Johnson in a court hearing Monday on a question of constitutionality.

Attorneys for three New Orleans liquor firms—Larry and Katz, Martin's Wine Cellar, and Schwegmann Brothers Giant Super Markets, Inc.—seek an injunction against enforcement of the new law until constitutionality is decided.

At least in the Baton Rouge area, the new liquor price fixing law which went into effect Sept. 1 is beginning to stir public interest.

Earlier this week the East Baton Rouge Parish legislative delegation—which includes two original House sponsors of the bill—went on record agreeing to ask that the law be reconsidered.

Sen. J. D. DeBlieux of Baton Rouge said, however, while the group agreed the matter would be reconsidered at the next session of the legislature, they had no plans to push it in the fall special session the governor seeks on other issues.

Only the governor spells out what is listed in a call for a special session. The next regular legislature is in 1966. But the 30-day fiscal legislature will meet next May, and sometimes sizzling issues can gain entrance in these fiscal sessions.

Sen. O'Keefe voted against the liquor bill when it won 27-12 Senate passage, after the House earlier approved it 79-15.

EX-SENATE AIDE

Senator Requests U.S. Sue Baker To Regain Profits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., prodded the Justice Department Saturday to sue Bobby G. Baker for any outside profits Baker realized while serving as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

Case made public a letter he wrote to Acting Atty. Gen. Nichols Katzenbach, protesting there has been no action on a suggestion he made early in July that the Justice Department file a recovery suit.

Baker, 36, resigned under fire from his $19,600-a-year Senate post last Oct. 7 after questions were raised about his multiple outside business and financial dealings.

ACCUMULATES RICHES

A subsequent Senate Rules Committee investigation disclosed that he had accumulated a claimed fortune in excess of $2 million while on the Senate payroll.

In a report to the Senate, the committee said Baker was "guilty of many gross improprieties" and had used his Senate office "as if it were a private business office."

Case, in his letter to Katzenbach, said he had submitted a memorandum early in July "suggesting that the Department of Justice institute a civil action to require Bobby Baker to pay over to the U.S. government any profits he has made through the use of his influence and the prestige of his office as secretary to the Senate majority."

Since then, Case said, he has heard nothing from the department other than a July 16 letter from Asst. Atty. Gen. John W. Douglas assuring him that "the department will examine your suggestions."

But Case said he has heard "from many outstanding members of the legal profession who are convinced, as I am, that a holder of a position of public trust is no less accountable for breach of his fiduciary duty than a holder of a position of private trust."

Goldwater: Secret Data Not Political

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater charged Saturday that President Johnson has used "highly classified defense information in a purely political manner."

Goldwater's staff said this was a reference to a speech Thursday by Johnson in Sacramento, Calif. Johnson announced that the United States had developed new radar that could detect missiles beyond the earth's curvature and could shoot down satellites carrying nuclear weapons.

NUCLEAR POWER

Goldwater said it also referred to an earlier Pentagon statement about the nation's nuclear megatonnage.

The charge came in a statement released by the Republican presidential nominee just before his plane took off from Fargo, N.D., for a campaign speech in St. Louis.

In the statement, Goldwater said Johnson's campaigning during the week had demonstrated that he had the support of: "the entire government propaganda machine; the campaign support of Cabinet officers who are making more and more political statements from their high offices; and even the support of highly classified defense information which the President feels free to use . . . in a purely political manner."

The Arizonan added, "He also has the support of public funds which he obviously understands how to use in a purely political manner.

"Add these assets to the fact that many newspapers support Johnson and most of the professional polls show the President ahead," Goldwater said.

"These are formidable odds to overcome — and we know it."

Summing up the past week's campaigning, he said he had covered 11,000 miles and had been in 12 states with more than 500,000 persons "who have greeted us at airports, auditoriums, parks, shopping centers and at other meetings we have held."

He denied that the week's campaigning in the South was purely a regional affair or that there was "only local significance to the strong and growing support that Republicans are getting in the South."

FROM DARK CANYON

Volunteers Rescue Bus Wreck Victims

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Deerhunters, vacation motorists and firemen quickly formed a human rescue chain in eerie darkness down into a steep canyon Saturday after a bus-truck crash killed two women and injured 36 other persons.

Five of the injured were in critical condition.

Bodies of dead and injured began the tortuous hand-to-hand passage up the cliff to ambulances in the glare of floodlights soon after the 3:30 a.m. mountain highway tragedy.

The highway patrol said a northbound Greyhound bus came around a curve and collided with a pickup truck, then swerved out of control, ripped out 80 feet of guard rail and rolled sideways over and over 90-feet deep into the canyon.

The swift volunteer action of motorists at the scene, on Highway 99, 16 miles north of Redding, drew praise from rescue leaders.

It was the opening of the deer season and most of the 30 volunteers in the human rescue chain were hunters.

One grabbed an axe and shovel out of his pickup truck and freed a bus passenger who was pinned under the overturned bus for 30 minutes.

Both highway patrol and ambulance officials said the quick action of the volunteers probably saved the lives of many.

"Immediately after the accident people began stopping and offering help," said D'Ole Priddy, head of a Redding ambulance service.

He found volunteers already forming the chain down into the canyon when he reached the scene 19 minutes after the accident.

"I sure would like to commend those people," Priddy said.

"They formed a chain down the hill. Volunteers brought out injured, passing them hand over hand on stretchers we sent down."

The bus driver, Tim Nauta, 46, Keno, Ore., was placed — under his own protest — in the first ambulance with a crushed left hand and right hand cuts.

Cypriot Says Soviet Union To Send Aid

Russian Account Reports Premier Studies Request

MOSCOW (AP) — The leader of a Greek Cypriot arms mission met with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on Saturday and said the Soviet leader agreed to send Cyprus military and other aid.

A Tass account of the meeting said only that Khrushchev agreed to consider the aid request "most attentively."

PREMIER WILLING

Andreas Araouzos, Cyprus' minister of trade and industry, told newsmen after the meeting that Khrushchev "expressed a willingness to accord assistance as requested by Cyprus."

Araouzos said he would continue talks with Soviet officials "to discuss the implementation of the assistance which is being offered in response to the Cyprus government request." Asked then by a newsman what kind of aid, Araouzos replied: "Military and general assistance."

Araouzos said his talk with Khrushchev was wholly satisfactory and details would be disclosed next week.

When Turkish planes attacked Greek Cypriots in early August, the government of President Makarios appealed for military help from the Russians. On Aug. 10, Khrushchev issued a vague offer to send aid but it never was made clear whether the offer was for military help.

The Tass account of the meeting said on this point: "Nikita Khrushchev declared that the requests and wishes expressed by the Cypriot side would be considered most attentively with a view to rendering the peoples of Cyprus disinterested assistance in the struggle for their freedom and independence."

That sentence was included in the final paragraph of an English-language dispatch of about 300 words. In an earlier part of the dispatch, Tass said Khrushchev expressed the hope that the Greek and Turkish Cypriots, feuding since December, could solve their differences without foreign intervention.

In Athens, Greek Premier George Papandreou told a news conference Greece would be forced to break with Cyprus if the government of President Makarios should align itself with the Communist bloc. He expressed the belief, however, that Cyprus would not take such a course.

Divers Free Sunken Ship's Trapped Men

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Police and civilian skindivers, working 35 feet below the surface, cut through the bottom of the hull of a capsized dredger in Moreton Bay, Queensland, on Saturday and freed 15 men trapped inside.

The men had been kept alive for hours by air pockets inside the hull of the vessel after it overturned late Friday night and, after floating for some time, settled on the bay's sandy bottom.

Seven other members of the 24-member crew of the Danish-owned Kaptajn J. Neilsen were drowned. Two others are missing.

First news of the capsize was brought by crewman Eric Paulsen, 25, who swam 2½ miles to Moreton Island. A rescue party from the island found two men clinging to the hull. Tapping on the hull revealed there were others inside and the work of cutting through to them began.

The rescued men, some injured or suffering from the effects of their ordeal, were taken to Brisbane Hospital.

Some were taken ashore in boats, others were flown by helicopter direct to the hospital.

Chief engineer Svend Fredericksen, 26, said he was on duty in the engine room when the dredge suddenly lurched and rolled over.

He and Borg Hanse, a greaser, found themselves in an air pocket with the engines above their heads. They forced open a sand pump 3 feet wide and clawed their way 30 feet along the pipe to the outlet. Then they dived into the bay, climbed onto the hull, and flashed a flashlight until a launch answered their SOS.

McNamara Confirms Tonkin Gulf Flareup

Says 4 Vessels Are Fired Upon

CROSS INDICATES where two U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin fired warning shots at four unidentified vessels, according to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. North Vietnamese said the action was off the North Viet Nam province of Nghe An. (AP Wirephoto Map)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced Saturday that two U. S. destroyers opened fire on four unidentified vessels which approached them Friday in the Gulf of Tonkin.

He thereby officially confirmed nearly 22 hours after first reports reached the Pentagon that there has been a fresh flareup in the waters off war-torn Viet Nam.

'HOSTILE INTENT'

McNamara said the unidentified vessels — presumably they were North Vietnamese torpedo boats but he didn't say so — "menaced" the American destroyers. And, he said, the vessels "because of their dispositions, courses and speed, indicated hostile intent."

But at no point in the secretary's 147-word statement did he indicate that the four vessels fired at the American destroyers.

The Pentagon chief said the incident occurred at night. A high White House source, meanwhile, also emphasized this and declared that if the U.S. destroyers had not responded as they did "you would want to know why."

McNamara did not stay for questions after reading his statement to newsmen at the Pentagon. Later, a Pentagon source who specified that he not be identified, said McNamara's report "apparently closed the incident for all practical purposes."

Elsewhere, though, the incident was anything but closed.

Foreign Minister Xuan Thuy of North Viet Nam said the U.S. government "must bear full responsibility for all serious consequences" arising from it.

"No battleship of any kind of the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam was present there at the moment," said a Hanoi broadcast quoting Le Trang, director of press and information for North Viet Nam.

Communist China roared threats and increased defense preparations.

In an editorial, Peking People's Daily, the official spokesman for the Chinese Communist party, accused the United States of preparing "to step over the brink of war and commit new acts of war" against North Viet Nam.

"The Chinese people will not sit idly by without lending a helping hand," the editorial declared.

On the American scene, there was no immediate reaction to McNamara's announcement Friday, taking note of the long delay in explaining just what happened in Tonkin. GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater said, "With this big communications system that Yo-Yo McNamara has been bragging about they're waiting for an air mail letter just to find out what happened."

The incident follows on two attacks by North Vietnamese patrol boats on American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin seven weeks ago.

Those clashes brought swift retaliation on North Vietnamese patrol boat bases and oil dump.

As McNamara described the incident, the American destroyers changed course "to minimize danger to themselves," but when the unidentified vessels continued to close in, the destroyers fired "warning rounds."

"The destroyers then properly opened fire," he said, "and the approaching craft disappeared without closing in sufficiently to fire on the destroyers.

"The destroyers are continuing their patrols in the international waters in the Gulf of Tonkin and U.S. air and sea forces remained prepared to respond immediately to any attack."

After the Aug. 2 and 4 clashes and the retaliatory U.S. strikes, President Johnson issued standing orders that U.S. forces patrolling the gulf respond to any attack. He is understood to have given the orders that sea and air patrols continue and is reported satisfied that the Americans' firing at the four vessels Friday is in accord with his standing instructions.

Late Saturday morning the President summoned top officials to the White House to discuss the incident.

Meeting with him were McNamara; Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance; Secretary of State Dean Rusk; Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Undersecretary of State George W. Ball; Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., a Soviet affairs expert, and Central Intelligence Agency representatives.

GLADYS CHURNS ON

Hurricane Holds Bead On Coasts

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Gladys, up to now an identical twin to Dora, took a northwestward course toward the U.S. mainland Saturday and posed a threat to the coasts of Georgia and the Carolinas.

Forecasters said that although Gladys was still two days away from land, winds and seas would increase today from Daytona Beach north to Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The latest advisory placed the center of Gladys, the season's fourth hurricane and ninth tropical storm, about 650 miles east of Fort Pierce, Fla., and the same distance southeast of Wilmington, N.C.

SPINS ALONG

Gladys was spinning along at a forward speed of only eight miles per hour and forecaster Arnold Sugg of the Miami Weather Bureau said a slight turn to the northwestward does not mean the big storm will make a quick turn to the north or change its general direction.

"Steering currents are weak and the storm is just dawdling along," Sugg added.

South Florida, hammered in late August by Hurricane Cleo, was called out of danger from Gladys. The possibility of it slamming into northeast Florida Gladys' striking like Dora, which thrashed ashore nine days ago, was becoming remote, forecasters said.

Gladys had top winds of 125 miles per hour in squalls near the center and hurricane force winds extended 115 miles to the east and 60 miles to the west.

Gale force winds stretched 275 miles to the northeast and 715 miles to the southwest. This would make Gladys larger than the State of New York, or the combined areas of Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Gladys was much like Dora — both formed 1,250 miles east-southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, 12 days apart, and both grew into hurricanes 24 hours later.

Six days after Dora's birth her gales extended 300 miles to the northeast and 150 miles to the southwest. At that time the big storm was about 650 miles east of Cape Kennedy, which is 70 miles north of Fort Pierce.

The Weather Bureau said interests along the south Atlantic coast should keep in close touch with Gladys advisories during the weekend and that Gladys was expected to continue on approximately the same course and at the same slow forward speed well into today.

Partly Cloudy Skies Forecast

The weatherman predicts partly cloudy skies through tonight over the Twin Cities with chances of isolated, mostly afternoon, thundershowers.

WARM Little or no important temperature changes are expected. Saturday's high was 90 and the overnight low was 62. No rain was recorded by FAA at Selman Field Saturday. The mercury today is expected to hit a high of 85 to 90 degrees. Tonight's low will fall down in the cool range of 66 to 70 on the temperature scale. Winds will be gentle five to fifteen miles an hour.

Football Fans Get Surprises Before Contest

HERNANDO, Miss. (AP) — A 21-car wreck involving fans going to the Mississippi-Memphis State football game injured dozens of persons Saturday and created a 20-mile traffic jam on Interstate 55.

Every ambulance in northwest Mississippi was called to shuttle the injured to hospitals from the wreck scene, 23 miles south of Memphis. Apparently none were seriously hurt.

A highway patrol officer termed it "the most fantastic mess of smashed cars I've ever seen."

Tom Clark of Memphis, who was in the wreck, described how it occurred:

"Cars were real close and going fast. Then a car pulled off the median strip into the traffic. There was a grinding crash . . . Then everything went mad. It was like a big accordion — the worst thing I have ever seen."

The wreckage was piled up over a quarter-mile area.

With not enough wreckers available, officers ordered everybody to dump their cars on the median strip to break up the traffic jam.

NOBEL WINNER SAYS

Virus May Be Key For Curing Cancer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Nobel Prize-winning scientist said Saturday there is a growing body of evidence that viruses may act only as the triggers — and not the primary causes — of cancer.

Dr. John F. Enders, world renowned virus expert, said that science will have to answer just what role the viruses have.

If the viruses did prove to be the primary cause, the road toward a vaccine against them might be more simple. But if viruses only trigger and help cancer growth, the answer will be more complex, Enders said.

He cited more and more viruses — some of them common to human beings — that are known to cause cancers in some experimental animals.

"This rich new harvest lends further weight to the hypothesis that in the etiology — cause — of some forms of human malignancy, a virus may be involved," Enders told a session of the fifth national cancer conference.

He was one of five Nobel Prize winners who spoke at the cancer meeting Saturday after receiving honorary degrees from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, celebrating its 200th anniversary.

The others are Drs. Wendell M. Stanley, University of California virologist; George Beadle, president of the University of Chicago and outstanding geneticist; Severo Ochoa, New York University biochemist, and Arthur Kornberg, Stanford University biochemist.

Certain cancer-causing viruses rapidly integrate with host cells in a noninfectious manner, and this could explain why it is so difficult to recover viruses from tumors in human beings, Enders said.

The question of whether viruses are a direct cause of cancer "has perhaps been rendered even more uncertain" Enders said, because more and more scientists have been finding normal appearing cells with great tumor-producing capacity.

UNITED GIVERS FUND

Large Business Drive To Begin

Some 500 Monroe firms will begin soliciation of their employees for gifts to the 1964-65 United Givers Fund Monday morning as the large business division officially kicks off.

Workers under division chairman Clark Boyce received their assignments and kits of materials at training meetings this past week. Some volunteers have been calling on firm managers to set up the employee campaigns. Firms in the Monroe area are being urged to actually begin solicitations on Monday.

The West Monroe and Sterlington campaigns among large businesses will follow in a few days.

Boyce announced that this year workers in the large business division will be soliciting employee gifts primarily. Most of the firm gifts, he pointed out, are being handled by volunteers in the Advance Gifts Division, which kicked off September 10.

General Campaign Chairman Ralph Caldwell praised the work of Advance Gifts workers. "The results of their early effort," he said, "make us all the more confident that this year's goal will be met. We are very grateful that a number of pacesetting firms have increased their gifts by at least eight per cent, which is the increase needed to reach the goal."

Caldwell also expressed appreciation to the nine Pilot firms which have been conducting early solicitations among their employees. "A number of these firms have already completed their campaigns. The response by their employees has been outstanding; we hope that other employee groups will follow the lead that these employees are setting," the chairman stated.

The nine Pilot firms are Ashland Oil and Refining, Clover-Leaf Dairies, Glenwood Hospital, Louisiana Training Institute, Monroe Glass, St. Francis Hospital, Southern Tool, Tyner-Petrus and West Monroe Post Office.

Southern Tool reported that 100 per cent of its employees have contributed their Fair Share of one hour's pay per month for 12 months. St. Francis Hospital employees showed an increase of 90 per cent over last year's gifts, and Ashland Oil employees' gifts were 50 per cent over last year. Other pilot results will be announced as the campaigns are completed, UGF officials said.

Large business division workers begin tomorrow setting up employees campaigns in industrial, commercial, merchandising firms and governmental offices. Section chairmen directing these activities include Allen Givens, industrial; Dave Agnew, business; T. H. "Tobo" Woods, commercial, and Fred Fudickar Jr., governmental-educational. Construction trades section workers under Robert H. Evans kicked off earlier.

This year, firms are being urged to set up meetings with their employees to allow volunteers from United Givers to show the film or to speak about the work of the 13 local UGF agencies. Film or speaking engagements may be scheduled by calling UFG Headquarters, FA 5-3869, campaign leaders pointed out.

Hourly employees are being asked to consider a gift of one hour's pay per month for 12 months. For salaried and professional people, campaign officials explained, this works out to be 6-10ths of one per cent, .006 times annual salary.

The 1965 Campaign goal for the 13 UGF agencies is $270,262.

Parish Teachers Hear Hackett At Meeting Here

An address by N. B. Hackett, executive secretary of the Louisiana Teachers Association, was the highlight of the Professional Day of Ouachita Parish Schools which was held at Ouachita Parish High School Saturday morning.

New officers of the Ouachita Teachers Association and Classroom Teachers Association were installed at the event by Wamul Owens, principle of Lenwil Elementary School and retiring OTA president.

Announcements were made before the group by Milton C. Hall, superintendent of schools, followed by an introduction of new teachers by P. B. Mangum, assistant superintendent of schools.

Elementary supervisor J. M. Waldrop recognized higher certificates, and a discussion of the credit union was given by Lloyd Puckitt, distributive education teacher at West Monroe High School.

C. Solon King, music supervisor for the parish school system, led the teachers in the pledge of allegiance and a song. Robert Warner, a teacher at Ouachita High School, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Oreatha Luttrell presided over the meeting. She is a first grade teacher at Drew Elementary School.

Officers Report Several Arrests In Twin Cities

Police made several arrests in the Twin Cities Saturday.

A 41-year-old Negro man, Robert Williams, was arrested by Monroe police at his residence at 1731 DeSiard St., and booked on a charge of aggravated battery. Bond was set at $500.

Melvin Drungo, 27-year-old Negro of 4313 Pippin St., was arrested early Saturday at 3418 Renwick St. and booked on a charge of illegal use of a weapon. Bond was set at $310.

West Monroe police Saturday booked Howard P. Jones, 54, of Downsville, on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. He was arrested on Trenton Street.

In activity late Friday Monroe police arrested and booked two Monroe men on charges of aggravated assault and disturbing the peace.

Booked were Jerry Lynn Toney, 17, of Selman Field, and John Clifford Baes, 21, of 112 Westchester Dr. Toney's bond was set at $450.

Police also charged Baes with illegal carrying of a dangerous weapon. His bond was set at $960. They were arrested at a local bar.

In other action Saturday, Monroe authorities made arrests at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital of two Negro women, Ocie Allen, 41, of 605 Stone St., and Ophelia Smith, 30, of 615 Ouachita St. They were each booked on a charge of aggravated battery and bond in each case was set at $500.

Julius K. Morehead, 21, of 220 Williams St., was arrested and booked Saturday on charges of reckless driving, driving with an invalid driver's license, and damaging property.

West Monroe police Saturday arrested a 29-year-old Negro, Eddie Water of 426 Teacher St., and booked him on a simple battery charge. Water was arrested at City Hall.

Youth Critically Injured In Twin Cities Accident

Jack Miles, a 15-year-old youth of 121 Grayson St., West Monroe, was reported to be in critical condition Saturday night after an automobile he was driving collided with a truck at Wellerman Road and Warren Drive, according to West Monroe police.

Police said the accident occurred about 5:40 Saturday afternoon when Miles, traveling west on Wellerman Road, apparently ran a stop sign at Warren Drive, colliding with a truck driven by Jodie Caldwell, 59, of 108 Avant St., West Monroe, who was also injured in the crash.

Other injured passengers in the car driven by Miles were Melvin Bell, 16, of 2010 Wellerman Rd., and two brothers, Kenneth Ashley, 17, and Larry Ashley, 15, both of 109 Madison St., West Monroe.

The injured passengers underwent emergency treatment at Glenwood Hospital where late Saturday night their conditions were listed as satisfactory by West Monroe police officials, with the exception of the Miles youth.

There were no passengers in the truck driven by Caldwell.

BLAZING GUN DUEL

Lawman, Convict Battle To Death

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A grizzled escaped convict and a rookie highway patrolman shot each other to death during a roadside gun battle between two troopers and two convicts near here early Saturday.

The second patrolman escaped unharmed and the second convict fled into woods only to be captured four hours later.

Capt. Tom B. Brown, commander of Highway Patrol Troop B, said the two convicts had been on a crime spree since they escaped from a Central Prison work gang Wednesday night.

Since their escape, Brown said, the two had stolen a car, armed themselves with weapons and ammunition taken from a National Guard armory, and seriously wounded a farm couple.

Brown said the dead patrolman was James Hugh Marshburn Jr., 21, who joined the patrol only seven weeks ago. The slain convict was Olin (Junior) Fowler, 40, Nichols, S.C., who was serving a 50-year term for accessory to murder.

Marshburn's fellow officer was Cecil Mack Denning, 42, a veteran of 14 years in the patrol. The other convict was William G. Perry, 32, Franklinton, N.C., who was serving a long sentence for robbery and other charges.

Brown said Marshburn and Denning were patroling Interstate 95 about 1:30 a.m. when they saw the two men walking on the southbound shoulder of the highway. Marshburn swung the cruiser around and pulled up before the men who were caught in the headlights.

The troop commander quoted Denning as saying that because the cruiser was unmarked and black, the two escapees did not realize at first they had been stopped by officers.

Brown said that Fowler ran to get out of the headlights and his course took him by the left side of the car and right by Denning who saw him pull a 45 from his shirt.

"He's armed," Denning called in warning to Marshburn and the two patrolmen scrambled from their car.

Fowler ran to the rear of the cruiser and to the right where he confronted Marshburn, now silhouetted in the backglow of the headlights. Brown said Fowler opened fire, Marshburn and then Denning fired at Fowler, and Perry fled into the woods, throwing away his fully loaded 45 as he did so.

Brown said Fowler and Marshburn went down in the hail of bullets. Marshburn, handsome and boyish appearing with his crew cut hair, was shot three times from belt buckle to shoulder. Fowler, unkept in a dirty summer uniform stolen from the armory, was hit in the chest and shoulder.

A posse flushed Perry from woods behind a church about five miles away four hours later.

Fowler was dead on arrival at a Lumberton Hospital. Marshburn died about two hours after the shooting.

Col. David T. Lambert, state highway patrol commander, flew from Raleigh to supervise the manhunt for Perry. He said the convicts, rated as honor grade, walked away from a work detail Wednesday night, stole a station wagon, and began their three-day crime spree.

Brown said Perry admitted the two broke into the National Guard armory at Youngsville in Franklin County and took seven 45 caliber pistols, three bayonets and khaki clothing in which both men were dressed.

Brown said Perry also admitted the two broke into the home of Paul P. Powell near Whiteville Thursday night and seriously wounded Powell and his wife. Powell was shot in the stomach and his wife in the right chest.

IN ADVANCE of the annual North Monroe Lions Club Light Bulb Sale, two members, Dick Wright and Bill Latham, called on Dr. and Mrs. George T. Walker for the first purchase. The entire membership of the club will work each evening from 6 to 8:30 p.m. this week in a door-to-door canvass of homes for the sale, Marcus Mapp, president, has announced. Proceeds from the drive will be used by the club for community projects. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

College Credit Given At Tech To 23 Freshmen

COLUMBIA (Special) — Two participants in the Caldwell Parish Library Art Festival to be held at the Community Center here Oct. 17 have been announced.

One is Leo. G. Askew, a Shreveport artist and instructor in painting and drawing.

Another is Miss Elizabeth Bethea, head of the Art Department at Louisiana Tech.

Kiwanis Names Local Delegates To Convention

Members of the Monroe Kiwanis Club have elected their official delegates to the 46th annual convention of the Louisiana-Mississippi-West Tennessee District of Kiwanis International to be held in Memphis, Tenn. Sept. 25-27, it was announced today by club vice president Eugene Holtzclaw.

The delegates are Holtzclaw, William Kelly, vice president, and Jimmy Plaisance, secretary.

Presiding officer at the meeting will be Andrew L. Gates of New Orleans, governor of the three-state district.

Ted R. Johnson, a trustee on the International Board from Denver, Colo. will bring the official message to the convention delegation on Saturday. To be heard on Saturday also are Eugene Hunt, governor of the Key Club district, and William Short, governor of the Circle K district.

The Honorable Frank Clement, governor of Tennessee, will deliver his talk Sunday.

Hosts for the convention will be members of the Kiwanis Clubs of Memphis, East Memphis and Whitehaven, Tenn. Some 119 clubs, with a total membership of almost 6,000 will be represented at the meeting.

Principal business will include committee conferences, a discussion of community service and administrative plans for the coming year and the election of a district governor and other officers for 1965.

Some 1,200 Kiwanians and their wives from the three-state district will gather at the Hotel Peabody in Memphis for the three-day convention. The annual meeting will hear speakers representing the international organization as well as its affiliated groups of Key Club and Circle K.

Clerks, Nurses Training Slated At Health Unit

The clerks and nurses of the Northeast Louisiana region of the State Board of Health will have inservice training sessions Tuesday, Sept. 22 at the Ouachita Parish Health Unit at 2913 DeSiard St.

Fifteen parishs will be represented at the two all-day meetings.

At 9 a.m. Velma Brusse, records consultant of the Southwest region will talk on "Individual Parish Administrative Clerical Problems" at the clerk's meeting. From 10 a.m. until 12 noon Dr. Andrew Hedmeg, director of the Division of Local Health Services of New Orleans, will discuss the "Clerk's Role in the Communicable Disease Program."

In the morning session slated for the nurses Billie Ware, public health nurse, will moderate a panel at 9 a.m. on "Nursing Implication of the Pediatric Institute-Practical Applications." Another panel at 10 a.m. on the "Nursing Implications of the Workshop Mental Retardation" will be presided over by Alyce Jones. At 10:45 a.m. Dr. John Bruce, chief of the communicable disease and tuberculosis section, will head a panel on "Nursing Implication of Tuberculosis."

A joint meeting of nurses and clerks is scheduled from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. when Dr. Hedmeg will speak on the "Responsibility of Personnel to Agencies and the Community."

At 3 p.m. the clerks will hold a business meeting and the nurses will hear Miss Lillian Jeffers, public health nurse, at the Public Health Nursing Section, District Nurses Association meeting.

Chairman for the clerks' training will be Mrs. Lucille Durham with the Northeast Louisiana Regional Health Unit. Secretary will be Mrs. Willie Jean Shields. Chairman for the nurses' section will be Jody Bergeron, public health nurse and recorder will be Rosemary Williams, public health nurse.

WANT CIVILIAN RULE

Saigon Students Join Fight Group

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Three hundred Saigon high school and college students, holding blazing torches aloft and standing in rigid ranks, were sworn into the fighting arm of the students' political organization Saturday night.

They assembled on one of the capital's main streets in the most impressive display of militant discipline by students since they began pressing demands on the South Viet Nam government last month.

The latest demand of the students is for representation on the advisory council being formed to take steps to place the country once more under civilian rule.

Nguyen Trong Nho, a student leader, said the recruits brought to about 1,500 the fighting strength of the "Students' Self-defense Group." The recuits included 30 girls.

The students' purpose "is to push the revolution to a conclusion so that Viet Nam can enjoy freedom in the literal sense," Nho told the crowd.

The students made this pledge: "Before the national flag, before the altar representing our nation and before the spirit of those who have died for the nation, we solemly vow to preserve the unity of the nation and to sacrifice ourselves to this unity."

"Down with communism, neutralism, dictatorship," they shouted. "Long live Viet Nam!"

During the past two months the students have torn down a statue, sacked the French Embassy, held constant demonstrations and clashed with other students. During the last week of August, they virtually ruled Saigon, directing traffic, and ordering all comers at the point of clubs and spears to do as directed. A dozen persons were killed in street fighting.

In another development, U.S. sources reported that two ranking U.S. Army military advisers have been reassigned in the wake of the latest coup attempt against Premier Nguyen Khanh

They were advisers to Vietnamese commanders who led the coup, but U.S. officials said the Americans were not involved. They are Co.. S.N. Homan, senior adviser to the 4th Corps, and Col. Frank J. Nemethy, senior adviser to the 7th Division.

Homan is being flown back to the United States in what the officials said was a normal rotation at the end of his tour of duty. Nemethy was reassigned to Saigon.

On the battlefront, Communist Viet Cong activity was reported fairly heavy during the past week, with attacks on outposts the main feature.

Pre-Dawn Fires Engulf Churches In Mississippi

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. — (UPI) — Two small churches were hit by fire early Saturday near this central Mississippi town where the bodies of three slain civil rights workers were found last month.

Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey said a predawn blaze gutted a Choctaw Indian church about 13 miles northeast of here. A Mennonite church which reportedly had been used for civil rights activities is situated near the reservation.

A small Negro church about three miles away, in neighboring Kemper County, also was damaged by a fire which apparently started about the same time.

Local officials and authorities from the state fire marshal's office were looking into the incidents.

The fire at the Kemper County church appeared to have been started by a homemade firebomb. Damage was confined mostly to the front door and steps.

More than 20 Negro churches have been damaged or destroyed by fires during the past few months in Mississippi. Civil rights workers have accused nightriding segregationists of starting the blazes in protest of a summer - long campaign to help Negroes register to vote.

Dupont Honored At Convention

Marion E. Dupont of Monroe, Louisiana department vice commander of Veterans of World War I, was honored at the group's national convention in Chicago, Sept. 12-17, for his selection as special advisor to National Chief of Staff R. D. Downs.

Downs cited Dupont, who shared his honor with Clarence Gibbs of Pennsylvania, for organizing more new barracks and signing up more new members for the group in the last 11 months than any other member in the 237,000 member organization.

Dupont will have been a member of the organization one year on Oct. 1.

The local man is also national chief of state, barracks commander of Leo Terzia Barracks No. 3279, commander of the Fifth District, general chairman of the department convention to be held in Monroe in 1965 and state chairman of membership.

COURT OF HONOR celebrating the 11th anniversary of Monroe Boy Scout Troop 128 included recognition of these two scouts, the only members of the troop holding the Eagle rank. They are, left and right, Bobby Trent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trent, 1201 S. 7th St., Monroe, and Don Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Ross, 1212 S. 8th St., Monroe. Both are members of the Order of the Arrow, scouting honorary organization.

Lawrences Set Family Reunion

The first annual Lawrence reunion, for descendants of Lee and Ellen Lawrence, will be held beginning 9 a.m. Sept. 27 at Olin Camp on Cheniere Lake.

Mrs. A. J. (Yvonne) Lawrence, who made the announcement, said dinner on the ground will be featured at the all-day event. She said an election of officers is planned, and that Henry Lawrence of West Monroe is the temporary chairman.

Faster Pace Marks Council Session

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council, at the end of the first week of its third session, appears to be moving with greater speed than ever before.

In the week since Pope Paul VI formally opened the latest session, the 2,500 Roman Catholic prelates sitting daily in St. Peter's have:

—Discussed the role of Mary in the Church, with a majority of speakers inclining to the positions that devotion to her must not become excessive and that giving her the formal title of "Mother of the Church" might cause confusion among non-Catholic Christians.

—Begun debate on the duties of bishops, a key topic of the entire council with the first speakers describing as invalid the papal-supported concept of shared papal-episcopal power over the full Church.

—Reviewed a document on the union between the earthly and heavenly Church, including aspects of death and sainthood.

—Voted interim approval of another section of the same document. This section expresses the idea that all baptized persons belong in a partial and hidden way to Christ's intended Church.

Never before had the council taken up such a variety of subjects in a single week.

Many of the almost 60 prelates who addressed the council last were interrupted by cardinal moderators and told they were wandering from the main subject at hand.

On the very first day of work all the council fathers were told to waste no time. They were informed that the two coffee bars built into alcoves would open an hour later than before and that the daily meetings would run almost a half-hour longer.

Reports circulated that the council session might be carried over into December without interruption, instead of ending Nov. 20, if it appeared all remaining work could be finished with a little extra time.

With the speed of the first week as a gauge, it seemed more and more likely to council sources that the remaining discussions and vote-taking could be almost completed by late November.

Seven of the 13 scheduled schemata have been reduced to "propositions," amounting to resolutions that need simple voting without prior discussions. They deal with areas like missions, training of priests, Catholic education, nuns and religious, and the sacrament of matrimony.

The big topics still to be debated in full include Christian unity, with its two added declarations on religious liberty and on Jews.

American bishops, with Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston in the forefront, made plans to press for a stronger council declaration on Jews — one that would put back into the revised draft a specific mention of all mankind as sharing in Christ's crucifixion and not Jews alone.

The Americans also were working out a common stand on the tolerance declaration, wanting to keep it phrased in precise language on the freedom of every man to worship God as his conscience tells him.

The council was in recess Saturday.

Two Oak Grove Youths Charged

OAK GROVE (Special) — Two men were apprehended by Deputy Marshal Willie Griffith and cafe owner Thurman Pippens while ransacking Pippen's Service Cafe here early Friday morning.

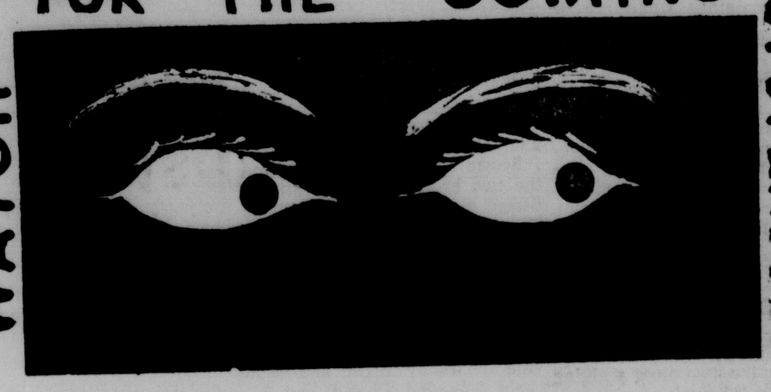

Carl Lester Lucas, 18, and Wayne Choate, 18, both of Oak Grove, are in the parish jail charged with breaking, entering and theft.

Entrance was gained through a side door. Small change amounting to $10.50 was found in their pockets and other items taken from the store were found in their possession, said officers.

Help Hoffa, Win Wrist Watch, We Pay Postage

WASHINGTON (AP) — HELP HOFFA AND WIN A WATCH."

That's the prize in a recent Teamsters Union letter-writing campaign. It was aimed at getting President Johnson to press for a congressional investigation of the Justice Department.

The campaign took place in at least one local in Texas. Another appeal went out to members of Detroit Local 299, home local of twice-convicted Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Local 968 of Houston distributed a brochure to its members earlier this summer, complete with a "helpful form" from which would-be epistlers could choose their favorite phrases.

The gist of the letter is that Hoffa got a raw deal in his Chattanooga, Tenn., jury-tampering trial and conviction last spring — at which he was sentenced to eight years in prison; that the writers are loyal Johnson supporters; that Johnson should see that Congress publicly investigates the behavior of the Justice Department and former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The House Judiciary Committee is now considering such an investigation.

"For the Teamsters who turns in the largest number of letters to President Johnson," the brochure said, "there will be a beautiful $70.00 wrist watch. Most of the work has been done for you already.

"Yes, you MAY use letters written by you, your wife, your children, your parents and in-laws, your friends and neighbors, in fact, anybody you know. Your family members can get their friends to write too.

"So — get hot on this — HELP HOFFA — AND — WIN A WATCH."

The local said it will pay postage, address and envelopes and mail them. "All you have to do is get letters."

Then follows the "handy form" — seven "sections" each containing several sentences that are worded differently but convey the same general meaning. The brochure terms the sentences "suggested topics," although the only topic seems to be the government's treatment of Hoffa.

Some samples:

Section 1 (Choose one here): "We Texans are proud of you", or "Here at home we're glad you are president," or "In Texas you are our favorite son for sure," combined with "The Teamsters are going to work for you," or "We plan to keep Texas Democratic" or "We Teamsters are glad to be able to support you."

Section 2 (Choose one here): "We in the Teamsters feel Jimmy Hoffa got a raw deal," or "It looks to me like something crooked might have gone on, the way our government acted in Jimmy Hoffa's trial," or "The government really should not cheat in trying to get one man in jail."

Section 3 (Choose one here): "Where there's smoke there's fire, and I have read quite a lot of funny-looking things about the trial in Chattanooga," or "It looks like the attorney general did some wrong things against Mr. Hoffa," or "There seems to be quite a bit of evidence that the trial was not on the up and up."

Section 4 (Choose one here): "That mess in Chattanooga needs a public airing," or "Please make Congress investigate the Hoffa trial in Chattanooga," or "We have heard that a congressional investigation is possible and I would like to see this investigated."

Joe Louis held the heavyweight boxing title 11 years, 8 months, 7 days, longer than any other fighter.

LEADER DENOUNCES WAR

Russian Weapon Offered For 'Anti-Colonialist' Fight

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev denounced war as terrible Saturday, but said people fighting colonialism are welcome to Soviet arms.

"We are for peaceful coexistence," Khrushchev told delegates to the pro-Communist World Youth Forum. Then, waving his right arm and clenching his fist, Khrushchev added:

"All people fighting colonialism who need weapons and can possibly take them from the Soviet Union, please take them.

"Many people who have won victory fought with our weapons. Many newly liberated states have our weapons.

"And for those who need them, we are ready to discuss in a brotherly fashion and give our help."

Khrushchev asserted, however, that public understanding of a people's fight is much more important than weapons.

In this portion of his 45-minute extemporaneous speech at a Kremlin reception, Khrushchev mentioned South Viet Nam and South Korea, which he said are "occupied by American imperialists."

The fight is on in Viet Nam, he said, because the people are ready for it. In South Korea, "The temperature is not the same because they (the people) are not ready," he said.

Nations most recently on the Soviet list for arms are Indonesia and India. Cyprus has asked for Soviet military aid in fear of a Turkish attack.

A Cypriot mission is now in Moscow and its chief, Andreas Araouzos, told a newsman after a meeting with Khrushchev that he expects the Russians to give military aid as well as general assistance to the Greek Cypriots on the eastern Mediterranean island.

Later, however, the Tass news agency said only that Khrushchev promised to consider the Cypriot request "most attentively."

An Indonesian arms mission was here in July seeking help for Indonesia's campaign to crush the new neighboring federation of Malaysia. The Indonesians charge that the British-backed federation is neo-colonialist.

India got a promise of planes and other equipment. The Indians will add this aid to that already given by the United States during and after India's border clashes with Red Chinese troops.

Driver Injured In Area Crash

BASTROP (Special) — Tom Hall, 44, of Wilmot, Ark., received leg injuries when his pickup truck overturned after colliding with an automobile, pinning him beneath the truck Saturday night near Bastrop.

Investigating officers said that Hall was traveling South on Hwy. 139, two and four-tenths miles North of Bastrop, when he hit a car, also traveling South, driven by Mrs. Hazel Owen Ratcliffe, Rt. 4 Bastrop. Mrs. Ratcliffe was attempting to make a left turn, officers said, when the collision resulted. Hall's truck overturned after the impact.

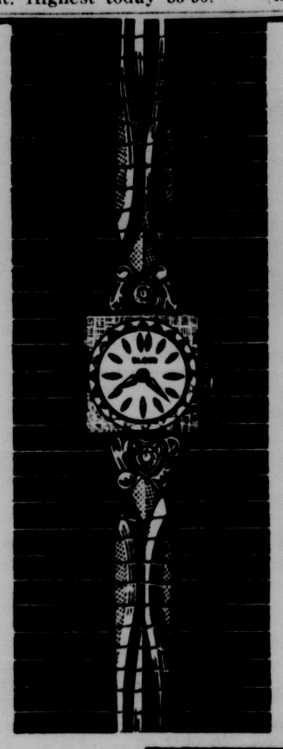

Hall was taken to Morehouse General Hospital at Bastrop where he was treated for a fractured leg and other leg injuries.

NORTHEAST CONCERTS

Folk Singers Set To Open Season

Back a decade or so ago, folk singing (what there was of it) was confined to the musty cellars of coffee houses in the bohemian sections of New York, San Francisco and other cosmopolitan cities.

To the American public in general, folk singing was an art form steeped in vagueness, something Burl Ives did when he informed us he didn't much care if Jimmy cracked corn. And that was about all there was to it.

Since then the entire nation has witnessed a revolution, and today even community concert organizations are highlighting such groups. Locally the fad has finally arrived, and one of the nation's greatest folk singing groups — The Brothers Four — promise to kick off the Northeast State Concerts Association season before an "S.R.O." audience.

"We have less than 100 reserved seats left for the 1964-65 series scheduled for Neville High School auditorium," series Chairman Thomas McCain said Saturday. Right at the moment, however, there are an ample number of general admission memberships available.

The annual concert association membership drive, directed by Mrs. Davis Bingham, is drawing to a close on Wednesday, Sept. 23. Headquarters are located at Lee Edwards, Inc., on Louisville Avenue. Memberships may be purchased directly by mail, if preferred.

As for The Brothers Four, they played one of the greatest roles in the emergence in the late 1950's of folk music as popular entertainment.

In the years that have lapsed since they burst upon the scene with their first recording, "Greenfields," The Brothers Four have piled one successful venture upon another with monotonous regularity. Somehow, they have managed through it all to remain enormously popular without compromising their material which, in itself, could hardly be called the stuff that popular hits are made of. This amounts to something of a miracle in the world of show business where compromise is accepted as a necessary evil.

Today, as always, their most devoted followers are found on college campuses across the nation. The appearance of a new Brothers Four album in the record shops of a college town constitutes an event of major importance, ranking as the musical counterpart to the publication of a new book by J. D. Salinger.

Just as spectacular has been the response to their records in Euorpe and the Orient. In the cold, dry language of statistics, Columbia Records reports that The Brothers Four are among the three biggest sellers in Columbia's overseas market for popular music.

To put it midly, four young men named Bob Flick, Mike Krikland, John Paine and Dick Foley have come a long way from Seattle which is where they met as fraternity brothers at the University of Washington.

In those days, there were no thoughts of a professional career. They started singing together almost by accident, as a kind of fraternity joke on a dull night.

Then one day they decided to cut a record and the rest, as the man said, is history.

STRICTLY COLLEGIATE is a good way to describe the popular folk singing group, The Brothers Four, who will appear at Neville High School auditorium on Oct. 20 at 8:15 p.m. to open the 1964-65 Northeast State Concerts Association season. The quartet began their vocalizing together as fraternity brothers at the University of Washington.

DEATH TOLL RISES

POLICE JURY TO VOTE

Ensminger Blasts Food Stamp Plan

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury is prepared to vote Monday night on whether or not to request federal food stamps for the parish under provisions of a law passed Aug. 31.

At least one member of the police jury has taken a public stand against the stamps and said Saturday he is prepared to wage a fight against requesting the stamps Monday night.

John Ensminger of Ward 10 issued a statement to the Morning World Saturday in which he lashed the stamp plan. He said he believed he would be able to muster the needed votes to defeat the proposal.

The law authorizes three-year programs designed to replace direct distribution of surplus food. Under the new plan, if state and local authorities request the aid, direct distribution will be cancelled and a stamp plan will be started.

Families certified by the welfare department as needy can buy for about $6 enough stamps redeemable in grocery stores for about $10 in food.

Washington sources said Saturday that in some instances the stamps are redeemable for liquor and certain "luxury" food items.

Ensminger said Saturday, in his statement, that "We don't often have the opportunity to say yes or no to these federal programs of intrusion at the local level. Personally, I am very much opposed to the food stamp plan.

"Someone is going to have to draw the line on these federal giveaway programs and if the Police Jury doesn't do it, how can we expect the individual to do it?"

Ensminger added, "We talk about conservatism a lot, but many times when it comes to actual issues — particularly ones that touch the pocketbook — we don't act like conservatives."

Food stamps were first tried in 1939 and again in 1943 but stamps were then redeemable only for designated surplus commodities. The idea was revived in the mid-1950's and was started on a pilot basis in 1961. It is now operating in 43 localities, including Evangeline and Avoyelles Parishes in Louisiana.

Another police juror, Leslie Hamm of Ward 5, last week indicated support for the stamp plan locally. He said it would "boost the area economy."

"There would also be a lot of money turned loose to be spent for other things than groceries," he said.

Hornets' Attack Results In Death

PLYMOUTH, Conn. (AP) — A 43-year-old man died Saturday after he was stung at least 12 times by a swarm of hornets.

Arthur C. Devenow died in his home after he complained of feeling ill.

Dr. Mark Coral, Plymouth medical examiner, said death was caused by the hornet stings.

Police said Devenow had gone out in the backyard to untie his dog Saturday morning when he saw that hornets were bothering the dog. The hornets, from a nest in the ground, attacked Devenow.

His son, Paul, 8, also was stung two or three times but did not become ill.

a Scheme to Waste $56,521,000 of Your Tax Money

That's what the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington is trying to do in approving a $56,521,000 loan to Louisiana electric cooperatives. This money would be used to build a 200,000 kilowatt generating plant and 1690 miles of electric lines . . . a wasteful duplication of existing investor-owned electric facilities.

WOULD PUT WASHINGTON'S HAND DEEPER INTO YOUR POCKET. This project would be financed with money loaned by REA to Louisiana co-ops at 2% . . . money which the government has to borrow at about 4%. So you not only would put up this original $56½ million, you would also pay about $20,000,000 in interest over the life of the loan.

WOULD ADD TO YOUR TAX BURDEN. By trying to duplicate tax paying investor-owned electric facilities with tax consuming electric facilities, the forces behind the REA would increase your personal tax burden. For, while the investor-owned companies pay about 24¢ out of every dollar of revenue as tax, the REA Co-ops in Louisiana pay only about 1¢.

WOULD NOT REDUCE COST OF ELECTRICITY TO CO-OPS. The REA Co-ops now buy all the electric power they need . . . at rates among the lowest in the nation . . . from the investor-owned companies. This loan can only result in increased cost of electricity.

NO NEW RURAL AREAS WOULD BE SERVED. Over 99% of rural homes in Louisiana now have electric service. Two out of three of these are served by investor-owned companies. So who would gain from this squandering of your $56½ million? Actually, everybody would lose — even the folks who are served by the co-ops.

ACT NOW TO HALT THIS DRAIN ON YOUR POCKETBOOK. Write today to your representatives in Washington to oppose the $56,521,000 loan to Louisiana electric cooperatives.

COIN OF THE REALM

Autumn Season For Collecting

By JOHN BLUCK

Early Autumn traditionally marks the beginning of a new season for coin collectors. It is then that coin clubs and state or regional associations begin to hold their coin shows. The new year for collectors in North Louisiana got off to an impressive start last Saturday and Sunday at the Monroe Area Coin Club third annual show at the Virginia Hotel.

Literally hundreds of collectors and visitors attended the show. And they should have been pleased with what they found. Non-collectors, and those just starting in the hobby, could not help but be impressed by the wide variety of coins, currency and medals displayed. Veteran collectors were faced with a bewildering choice of material. And to the credit of those responsible, the educational displays were the best in the three-year history of the show.

OPPORTUNITIES

Coin shows provide collectors with one of their best opportunities to buy coins they need, to trade their duplicate coins to other collectors and to sell any material they do not need. But of more importance is the opportunity the collector has to learn more about his hobby.

Anyone visiting the Monroe show could have spent many profitable hours studying the educational displays. One of the award winning exhibits was a type set of United States coins which the average collector can never hope to duplicate in extent or quality. Most of the coins were uncirculated, or virtually so, even those dating back to 18th century.

For many visitors it was their first opportunity to see some of the more interesting coins which have been issued by the United States. It comes as a surprise to many non-collectors to know that our country has struck half - cent pieces, two-cent pieces, three - cent pieces in two different metals, twenty-cent pieces and half dimes. These obsolete coins never appear in pocket change.

The fact that these coins are to be found on display in educational exhibits at a coin show make worth while the time and effort expended to organize and conduct the show. Just seeing such coins often prompts a casual visitor to become an avid collector.

Each coin show must have a "main attraction", and last week's show boasted a twin bill —an 1804 dollar and a 1787 half dollar, both from the Art Lovi collection Mention either of these coins to seasoned collectors and authorities would strong reactions! Both are controversial coins which some collectors and suthorities would banish to a "black museum" along with counterfeits and freaks. Take the 1804 dollar, for instance.

Don Taxay has written an authoritative and thoroughly readable book on the subject of "counterfeit' Mis - Struck and Unofficial U. S. Coins" in which he covers in detail the questionable pedigree of the 1804 dollar. On page 16 he made this notation: "Fantasy Restrikes — An impression from a pair of dies one or both of which were manufactured after the date shown, but for which year no originial dies or coins (of that denomination or type) ever existed. (e. g. 1804 dollar)."

On page 83 he says "modern scholars are of the opinion that none of the alleged 'originals' could have been struck before the renovation of mint machinery, 1832-36."

The 1804 dollar is thought to exist in proof only. On page 84 Taxay says, "it was not until 1817 that facilities for making proofs were introduced in the United States."

So there you have it. Taxay, an acknowledged authority, says the 1804 dollar was never struck officially by the U. S. Mint, and he goes on to detail the curious and unauthorized actions of early mint employees who used mint equipment for personal gain by striking coins which were never intended to exist or were not authorized by any government authority. Taxay's book is one which should be in the library of every collector of United States coins.

The 1804 dollar ranks along with the 1913 "V" nickel as a coin of doubtful pedigree and questionable authenticity. But the fact that these coins do exist will always make them interesting topics of conversation for coin collectors.

SPOTLIGHTING THE AREA

With Jimmy Hatten

Noted at the groundbreaking ceremony of the new Columbia lock and dam on the Ouachita River last weekend: The footwork of Rep. Otto Passman. When delivering a speech, he puts himself into it to the extent that as he supports himself on one foot, the other moves outward. At the outermost sway, the swinging foot comes down, and the stationary foot begins its swing. This keeps up throughout the talk, and though it's not noticeable from the audience, if you're directly behind him, he looks like a prizefighter trying to talk his opponent to death.

This is one characteristic of the Louisiana Fifth District congressman that aids him in his delivery of forceful speeches.

Gov. John McKeithen and Rep. Passman engaged for quite some time in antimated conversation. Sen. Allen J. Ellender, as usual, was talking about Creole gumbo. Conspicious by his absence was Sen. Russell Long, but he sent a telegram explaining why, and wishing the best for the project.

Morley Hudson, one of two Republican representatives to the State Legislature from Caddo Parish, passed through Monroe on his way to Winnsboro for a speaking engagement this past week.

Hudson says he believes that Republican Bob Angers has better than 50-50 chance to defeat Democratic incumbent Rep. Edwin Willis in the Nov. 3 election. Hudson also had a good word for Gov. John McKeithen, saying that he thought the state chief executive is "sincere" and that McKeithen is trying hard to restore dignity to the Governor's office.

When Winn Parish folks elect a representative to the State House, they can be pretty well assured he'll be around when his term is up.

The only representative from Winn Parish to die in office during the 111 years that the parish has been represented in the lower chamber was E. C. Willis of Sikes, who was elected in 1940.

The only one to resign was H. B. Bozeman, who gave up his post in 1929 to become chairman of the Louisiana Tax Commission.

Mississippi, which already is chocked full of historical sights, will soon have another. The United States Gunboat, "Cairo," which was sunk by a torpedo mine near Vicksburg in 1862, will be raised from the bottom of the Yazoo River where it has rested for more than 100 years.

Already, many artifacts, including armament, cannons, bells, pumps and furnishings have been recovered. Other valuable historic finds will undoubtedly be brought up with the boat. The project is sponsored by the Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board and the Board of Supervisors of Warren County, of which Vicksburg is the county seat.

RIVAL SUGGESTION

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Frank Wiedmer, an official of Southern Bell Telephone, was explaining "Direct - distance dialing" to the Rotary Club.

Someone suggested that a call be placed to Copenhagen.

"No, the call must be within the United States," Wiedmer explained.

"Let's call the Rotary International's president in Los Angeles," another member said. The president was boarding a plane and couldn't be reached.

DE GAULLE'S VISIT

Latin American Tour Scheduled

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle, aiming at tightening old bonds and emphasizing that France is a country with world interests, lands in Caracas, Venezuela, Monday for the start of a 10-nation South American tour.

It is a part of De Gaulle's insistent program to reestablish France as a powerful global voice, intellectually and physically able to act in the world's affairs.

As one informed source puts it:

"Now that France has recovered from the war and is freed from colonial problems and the Algerian question, she can at least approach world problems and perhaps do something to help."

POSITION

Practically, France is not in a position to offer great financial aid, and this is not De Gaulle's present plan. He wants to reopen avenues of communication between France and South America that were interrupted by World War II and never fully reestablished.

He also feels, informants say, that it is time South America had more than two choices: the United States or the Communist bloc. One said:

"He wants to show South American nations that they have the possibility of opening up their lines of communications with the outside world, unrestricted by only two choices."

To further this program, De Gaulle is going to press for a marked increase in technical assistance to South American countries, with the accent on the human level, such as labor relations, planning and educational organization.

It is extremely doubtful any spectacular agreements will be signed during the trip. But De Gaulle plans to take economic soundings and see what, if anything, can be done to help. Such help, as now envisaged, would be offered by France, acting with her European allies.

Highly qualified sources emphasize that De Gaulle will not be seeking to weaken U.S. influence in South America, as plans now stand, he is not expected to say anything during his three-week, 50-speech trip which could be construed as a slight to the United States. Neither is he expected to say anything about Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Goldwater Has High Hopes Of Scoring Win In Georgia

By BASCOM TIMMONS

AS GEORGIA GOES — Senator Barry Goldwater left Atlanta Tuesday with high hope of winning Georgia, which has heretofore been considered the most Democratic of all States. He found Goldwater supporters in Georgia buoyant after an analysis of the election a week before in which two of President Johnson's most dependable supporters in Congress had unexpectedly close races against what had been considered push-over opponents. Also the most outspoken of Johnson supporters, Earle Cocke, Jr., a former official of the World Bank, ran third in a newly-mapped Congressional District. It had been believed that Cocke would be the winner. Both Democrats and Republican agree that if Goldwater could carry Georgia he could take most of the South. But Governor Carl Sanders and other Democrats were saying that the State which has never gone Republican would not be in the G.O.P. column this time either.

MASSACHUSETTS RACE — Massachusetts Gubernatorial race, of special interest because it puts two candidates of Italian blood against one another, may be close. Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti who the Democratic nomination over Governor Endicott Peabody, despite the fact that Peabody had the support of Senator Edward M. Kennedy, is rated a slight favorite. But Republican John A. Volpe, who lost narrowly to Peabody two years ago after two years as Governor is a strong vote-getter. Going against Volpe is the tradition that in modern Bay State political history no Governor has ever again won after losing a re-election bid. The United States Senate seat from Massachusetts is not in doubt. Kennedy is figured a certain winner.

FARM LEGISLATOIN — Whoever wins the Presidency, Congress will be required to do much farm legislating in the session of Congress beginning in January. Expiration of present laws will make necessary new legislation for cotton, for corn and other feed grains, for wheat, for wool and there perhaps will be dairy legislation. Senator Allan J. Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, in preparation for the heavy farm legislative load, is sending out letters asking for the opinion of farm organizations, agricultural scientists and technicians, on how present laws should be changed. Ellender's letters emphasize that he expects in the end that the legislation "will provide agriculture with a strong foundation for future growth and prosperity at little or greatly reduced cost to the Government."

CLERGY IN CAMPAIGN — Clergymen have been notable slow in taking open stands in the Presidential race this year, and that fact accounts in large part for the attention attracted by criticism voiced by the Very Reverend Francis B. Sayre, Dean of Washington Cathedral, of both President Johnson and Senator Goldwater, neither of whom he mentioned by name, although leaving no doubt in his obvious references. His statement that "the electorate of this mighty Nation is left homeless, then, by such a pair of nominees," also got enhanced importance because he is a grandson of President Woodrow Wilson and was born in the White House."

DOUBTFUL STATE — Indiana Republicans claim a new surge there for Senator Goldwater. But race could be so close that outcome in Lake County (Gary) which Governor George C. Wallace carried by a surprise 41,629 to 40,321 in the Democratic Presidential primary, could be decisive. Democrats never carry Indiana without a big majority in Lake County. Governor Matthew E. Welsh won the county by a majority of 64,000 in 1960, yet carried the State by only 23,000. Democrats admit trouble in Lake County but count on cross-over Republicans in Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and Evansville, plus farm support, to tip the State for President Johnson.

DIRKSEN IN-LAW — Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois, Republican Senate Leader, has an especial interest in one Senate race this year. Howard H. Baker, Jr., who married Dirksen's daughter, Danice Joy, is the Republican nominee for the Senate in Tennessee against Representative Ross Bass, Democrat. Bass and Baker are seeking the final two-years of the term to which the late Senator Estes Kefauver was elected. Dirksen will make a Tennessee speech or two in Baker's behalf.

Annual Reunion Of Fergusons Is Held At Grayson

The twenty-seventh annual reunion of the descendants of the late R. R. Ferguson and Clemenzie Jane Everette was held Sunday, September 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Green B. Ferguson in Grayson.

The largest family group, numbering 66, was that of the eldest son, the late J. S. Ferguson, whose entire family of five sons and two daughters was present along with many of their children and children's children.

In this group were three sets of twins — 14-year-old James and Jonathan Lively, and 12-year-old Constance and Jaunita Lively, attending the reunion for the first time with their parents, Leo Lively, Lt. Cdr. U. S. N. retired, and Maria C. Lively of Alameda, California; one - year - old sons, Mike and Sam, of Mr. and Mrs. Charles David Ferguson of Ferriday, Louisiana. Also in this group was the surviving twin, Mary Ferguson Blanchard, in a set of daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ferguson of the preceding generation.

All four children, Jewel, Ed, Huddle, and Otto, of the late J. P. Ferguson were on hand with a total family group numbering 18.

Green B. Ferguson, 87, and his wife, who had celebrated her eighty-fourth birthday three days earlier, along with Ludie were the host and hostesses to the 174 kinsmen and friends assembled on the lawn of their home. Mable Lemons, a daughter living in Houston, Texas, was the only one of their eight children unable to attend. This family group ranked second in number, 31, representing four generations.

Mrs. Zelma Ferguson, widow of the late W. A. Ferguson, two sons and two daughters, five grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren made a family group of fifteen with four generations present.

The family of the late Bishop Ferguson was not represented and neither was the family of the late E. S. Ferguson. However, E. S. Ferguson, Jr., called W. O. Ferguson the evening before from Long Beach, California, and asked to be remembered to the group and offered his regrets at being unable to attend — this being the first time since 1939 that his family was not represented.

Only seven of the Mary Ferguson Martin family made it this year, but these seven spanned four generations—Mrs. Martin, son Hayes, grandson Ira D, and great grandsons Dana and Kendall.

The Allie Ferguson Gardner family group was all there with one exception, the son-in-law John Hicks. This is one of the younger groups and the smallest—Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Gardner, two sons, a daughter, and four grandchildren.

The youngest son, Clark, recently joined the great grandfather ranks. He had seven of his descendants present with him.

Around noon these seven large family groups along with nineteen close friends gathered under the shade trees around the tables which had been loaded from picnic baskets and graced by Abner Bryant.

Guest from five states — California, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana — were present for the largest attended reunion of this family in the twenty-seven which have been held.

Goldwater's Visit Boosts Chances Of Carrying State

By SAM HANNA
Political Editor

Sen. Barry Goldwater's chances of carrying Louisiana in the November 3rd presidential election received a boost Thursday when he jetted across the state campaigning before large crowds.

From the enthusiasm projected by people attending Goldwater's appearances at Shreveport and New Orleans, it was obvious that the Republican Senator has a strong following in Louisiana, a Democratic stronghold.

Even in New Orleans, where President Johnson's support probably is the strongest in the state, Goldwater's reception was warm despite a heavy downpour of rain just before he addressed about 30,000 persons.

Admirers pressed against a roped-off walkway for Goldwater at Sugar Bowl Stadium, some yelling, "I shook hands with him," while teenage girls squealed for a yellow rose from Mrs. Goldwater's bouquet.

Shreveport extended a similar reception with an airport crowd estimated by police at about 25,000, but that was to be expected since Goldwater is believed to be stronger in North Louisiana than in any other area of the state.

While veteran observers — including politicians and reporters—generally agreed with Goldwater was running ahead of President Johnson in Louisiana, the Arizona senator may have missed a vote-getting opportunity by not mentioning his feelings on the Louisiana tidelands issue.

He reportedly favors equal treatment for Louisiana in the tidelands matter, which involves millions of dollars tied up in oil and gas revenues over a dispute of the Louisiana boundary in the Gulf of Mexico.

This was discussed with Goldwater by the Louisiana leaders of the "Democrats for Goldwater" at the Roosevelt Hotel late Thursday night after the rally. A statement from the senator explaining his views on the tidelands is expected soon.

However, a reporter aboard Goldwater's 757 jet said Goldwater could have "cashed in" on local issues with a public statement at campaign stops in other states, but failed to do so.

Goldwater didn't mention "civil rights" in Louisiana, but stressed his hopes of "keeping the peace with strength" rather than taking the country to war — a charge leveled against him by the Democrats.

But from the cheers heard when Goldwater landed at Shreveport and when he spoke at New Orleans, he didn't have to say much to please the people that turned out to hear him.

"We want Barry; We want Barry," shouted a group at Shreveport as Goldwater took his position behind the microphone to speak.

"You've got him," replied the Senator.

50 NEWSMEN

About 50 newsmen representing the nation press flew with Goldwater on the big jet that flew from Shreveport to New Orleans in about 45 minutes, descending over Tiger Stadium at Baton Rouge in time to land at New Orleans.

But one of the "name" reporters got left behind at Shreveport — Roger Mudd, the CBS anchorman at the Democratic convention.

Mudd, however, got a lift to New Orleans aboard the private plane of Charles Brown, a Goldwater supporter, from Monroe. Aboard was an outspoken critic of the national networks — Jack Howard, the mayor of Monroe.

Brown and Howard — the mayor said later — kept Mudd on a friendly griddle on the flight to New Orleans.

Howard K. Smith, a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School who has been in the national spotlight as a television commentator, was in the press corps flying with Goldwater.

So was the AP's Warren Ragsdale, who got his training at Baton Rouge covering Louisiana politics.

CAMPAIGNER

Goldwater the campaigner is not what you might expect. His smile doesn't come quickly and he doesn't appear to enjoy handshaking with the hordes of people that swarm around the candidate.

As a speaker, he is almost motionless as he speaks with a prepared text. He does, however, gesture with his hands when he speaks off the cuff.

But Goldwater has a way in his own right with a crowd.

While attacking the Johnson administration at New Orleans for "holding back information" on various matters until "after the election," Goldwater trained the crowd to yell, "after the election," as he continued to hammer away at the Democrats.

He showed a dry sense of humor in saying Johnson used a "little dab of whitewash" on the Bobby Baker case, adding, "A little dab will do you."

Goldwater actually appeared to be embarrassed at moments by emotion shown him as the Republican standard - bearer by some people in the crowds, especially those who squealed when they reached out to touch him.

You might also think that a candidate's plane would be a beehive of activity between stops.

Perhaps it was an exception, but Goldwater thumbed through a magazine — the issue with an article on Goldwater and the press — after he boarded the jet at Shreveport.

A few feet away was an outline of a donkey (Democratic symbol) with a transposed picture of LBJ on the face.

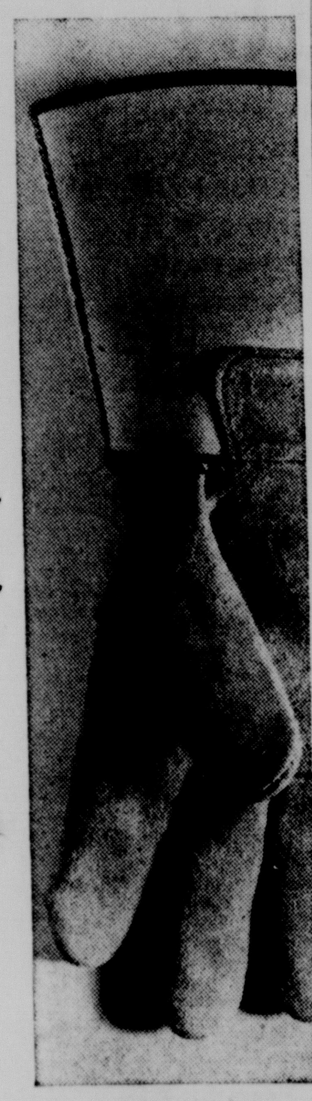

In another section of the plane, reporters relaxed or worked — some banging on portable typewriters in their laps.

One reporter said Goldwater didn't mingle among the newsmen on the plane, comparing him with Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, saying, "Scranton stayed all over us."

He also said that while Goldwater didn't spend any time with the reporters on board the Senator was not critical of their reporting.

As the jet nosed down toward the Moisant International Airport over a marshy area outside New Orleans, a Chicago newsman, eyeing the swamp, asked, "Can your walk on that?

Another northern newsman was head to say, "I hope we don't crash. There must be 20 million snakes out there."

WILL IT FIT TOMORROW?

Times are changing—and many of today's jobs won't exist in a few years. Your job might be one of them.

That's part of progress—but progress also brings opportunity. There will be new jobs, demanding new skills. That's where you—and your future—come in.

You won't get tomorrow's jobs with yesterday's skills

But you can get a head start on a new and better way to make a living. You can begin re-training now. Learn a new skill. A skill with a future.

It's hard work, sure. But it will pay off for you—tomorrow, and in the years to come. Ask the local office of your state employment service about re-training.

Deficit Appears In French Trade

PARIS (AP) — France suffered a deficit in trade and commercial operations for August for the third straight month, the Finance Ministry disclosed Saturday.

The deficit for August was about $78 million as compared with a deficit of about $58 million in July. The June deficit was about $98 million.

Wene Appointed Van-Trow Firm Vice President

F. L. Wene of 900 N. Third St., Monroe, has been appointed to the post of vice president and sales manager of Van-Trow Olds Cadillac in Monroe.

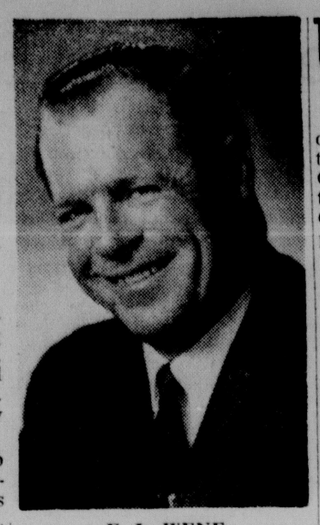

He replaces A. L. Andrews, who is taking over as president of the new Van-Trow dealership purchased Tuesday at Memphis, Tenn. The new dealership will be known as Andrews Olds Inc. and was formerly owned by Russell Reed of Memphis.

It will be the third dealership to be handled by the local business. The other two dealerships are Van-Trow Olds in Jackson, Miss. and the one in Monroe.

Andrews had served at Van-Trow, Monroe, for seven years. He was vice president and general manager.

Prior to his new appointment, Wene was assistant sales manager of the local automobile firm. He has been with the company for eight years.

UAW To Tackle Giant GM

DETROIT (AP) — Bargainers of the United Auto Workers set their sights Saturday for a new General Motors contract similar to terms acquired at Ford and Chrysler, including liberalized pensions.

The UAW-GM talks, finale in "Big Three" negotiations, open Monday.

Ford and Chrysler three-year settlements, achieved on the brink of strikes, cover approximately 240,000 workers. GM, largest of the auto manufacturers, has 354,000 UAW employes.

Bargaining teams in the General Motors negotiations will be headed by Louis J. Seaton, GM vice president, and Walter P. Reuther, union president.

Auto industry contracts have followed a pattern in the past.

Even so, tough bargaining was anticipated at General Motors. The UAW-GM contract has been extended from its Aug. 31 expiration date. Each side has the right to terminate on 48 hours notice.

Reuther has said he expected more from Ford and GM than from Chrysler, first to settle with the UAW.

With Ford's grant of a Christmas bonus, Reuther apparently was successful at Ford.

Ford duplicated the maximum $400 a month pension agreed to by Chrysler.

The $400 maximum, including separate allowance from supplemental unemployment benefit funds, continues for five years. This allowance ends after five years. The retiree's income then falls to the maximum $127.50 monthly pension plus his social security benefits.

Relief time for the assembly line worker will be an issue at GM. Both Ford and Chrysler granted more relief time. The union has said it expects GM to do as well or better.

As GM national level negotiations begin, a company-estimated 20,000 local grievances still exist at local plant levels through the country.

Washington Keeps Only One Eye On British Politics; Other On World Crises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tough Great Britain is America's closest ally around the world, its election campaign is drawing less than rapt attention from the U. S. public and officials.

Around the United States, the contest between the Conservatives and Laborites for British electoral approval Oct. 15 has produced few front-page headlines in the American press.

In Washington, authorities are keeping one eye on the British campaign. But they seem more absorbed in situations like South Viet Nam and Cyprus, not to mention the race between Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Barry Goldwater to be decided at U. S. polls Nov. 3.

Some Britons have been known to grumble that the Americans are not paying as much notice to the British campaign as the British are to the American one.

State Department sources see this as no slap at Britain's importance as a prime foreign affairs partner of the United States from North Atlantic Treaty Organization to South Asia. They figure, rather, that the British campaigners are neither seeking much change in London's policy toward the United States nor focusing on issues likely to excite Americans.

According to an analysis here:

—Both Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservatives and Harold Wilson's Labor party have shown in their electioneering that they intend to continue close and friendly working relationships with the United States.

—The Labor party has toned down its "socialism," once a lively topic among private enterprise-minded Americans, to a position which in practice it would not be too far from the Tories.

Nationalization of the steel industry, as proposed by Labor, would be of interest to Americans. But they recall Britain's steel has been nationalized and denationalized before. On other economic and social issues, both parties are promising improvements.

Labor's declared opposition to the U. S.-proposed Allied nuclear fleet and intent to renegotiate the 1962 Kenmedy-Macmillan Nassau agreement for Polaris missiles to Britain runs against U. S. policy.

But here again U. S. sources believe that if Labor steps into government responsibilities after 13 years out of power, it will find that hard practicalities can force a toning down of pre-election plans.

In the U. S. view, the multilateral fleet should please Laborites as a means of keeping Britain's, hand in atomic power without forcing her to the great expense of an independent nuclear arsenal. The Conservatives are campaigning for maintaining a British atomic might.

In the peculiarities and coincidences of politics, the nuclear issue is one reason why the American campaign seems to have had more impact on the British than visa versa.

On the American scene, a Johnson-Goldwater issue is presidential responsibility and control over nuclear weapons. This debate casts its shadow on British consideration of relying on the United States as the atomic protector of the West.

Angry Laborites Barrage Prince On Maltese Visit

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — An angry mob of Malta's labor party members stoned British cars and shouted "down with Britain" Saturday as Prince Philip, Queen Elizabeth's husband, arrived for independence ceremonies today.

Phillip's car was quickly routed when stones smashed into the official limousine heading from the airport to the island's capital of Valletta. No one was reported injured.

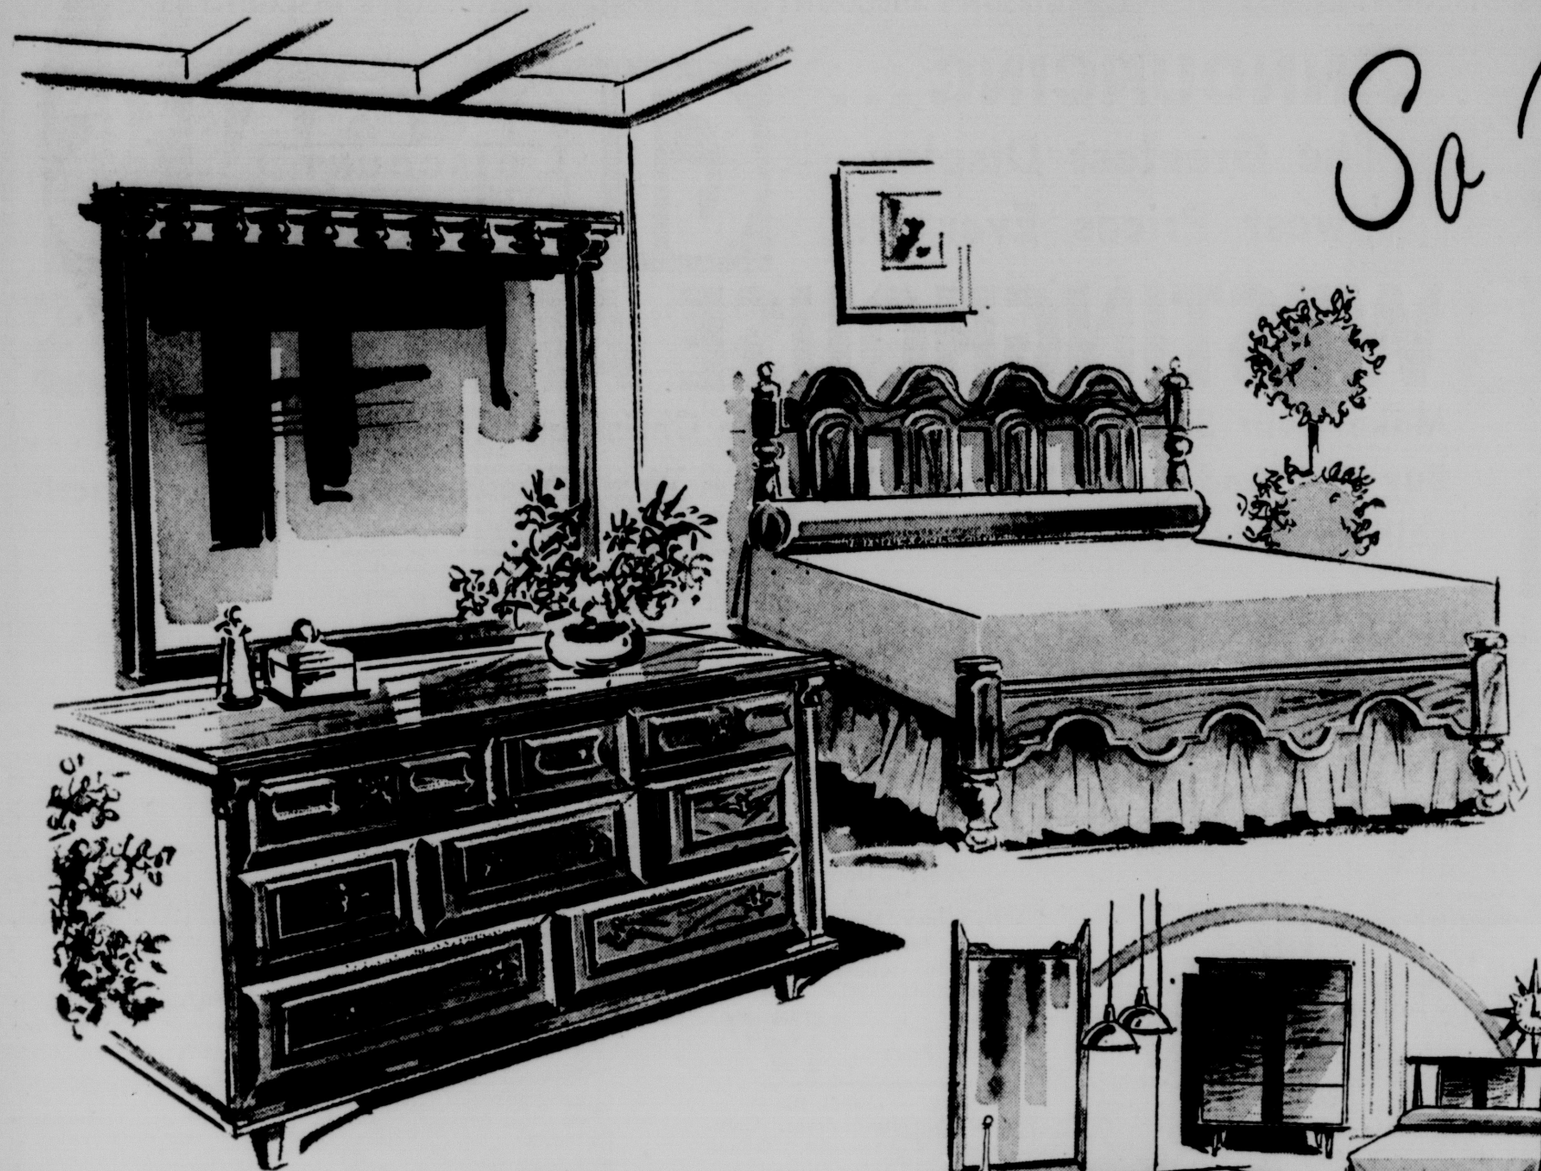

Unarmed Malta police tried to control the crowd of some 4,000 demonstrators as it spilled into the street outside labor party headquarters' in suburban Marsa.

The upsurge of violence presaged more trouble as labor party leader Dom Mintoff, haranguing the crowd from a parked truck, urged members to show dissatisfaction at the official ceremonies.

Where Ouachitas Once Roamed

By ETHEL TAYLOR

In 1786, Don Juan Filhiol reported that the oldest residents of this area could not remember having seen a Ouachita Indian, although the Ouachita nation once thrived in the district. The history of this tribe is difficult to trace, but after extensive research, Mrs. Ethel Taylor, of Ruston, teacher of history and English at Calhoun High School, presents an interesting insight on the subject.

Available records reveal little concerning the Ouachita Indians, whose beautiful name has been given to a parish, a river, a range of mountains, a lake, and perhaps to other places.

John R. Swanton and Frederick Webb Hodge, authorities on Indians of North America, agree in their writings on a few known facts about the Ouachita Indians. Their tribe was a small one, residing on or near the Ouachita River when European explorers first came to that area. They were of Caddoan linguistic stock whose history, as far as it is known, shows them to have come from the neighborhood of the Natchitoches Indians and later to have retired before the Chickasaws, returning to that tribe or to the Caddo proper. Their identity was lost before the end of the 1700's.

Writers do not agree on the exact location of the village of the Ouachita Indians. Swanton gave it at the present site of Columbia on the Ouachita River or perhaps on the river where Monroe now stands.

INDIAN VILLAGE

Other writers have expressed the belief that the village was located on the site now known as Indian Village, four miles southwest of Calhoun. The origin of the name Ouachita is not clear, although the following guesses have been given concerning its meaning: "Big Cat River," "Big Cow River," "Male Deer," "Country of Large Buffalo," and "Big Hunting Ground." Around Monroe, tradition handed down from early traders and explorers is that Ouachita means "Clear Sparkling Water" or "Silver River."

M. Le Page Du Pratz, who traveled in Louisiana between 1718 and 1734, later wrote that the Ouachita River at that time was also called the Black River. The latter name was given to it because of its dark color, caused by its depth and also by the shade of the overhanging branches of trees growing on the banks of the river.

Although De Soto's expedition in the 1500's was probably the first group of Europeans to explore the Ouachita valley, they left no written records concerning the Ouachita Indians. In 1682, more than a century later, La Salle and his party of French explorers descended the Mississippi River, stopped at a village of the Tensas Indians on Lake Saint Joseph and probably learned of a river a short distance to the west called the Ouachita, and of an Indian tribe of the same name living on its banks. However, they, too, left no written records of these Indians.

Tonti found a fairly large group of Ouachita Indians in 1690 during his search for his friend La Salle. He told of finding three villages, one of which was occupied by the Ouachita. The chiefs of these three nations assembled with him and made an agreement for peace. Tonti described a temple belonging to these three groups, one which which had many pagodas in the shapes of toads and other creatures.

DESCRIBES ENCOUNTER

Bienville encountered some of the Ouachita Indians in 1700. The young explorer gave his own account of this encounter in his journal. He recorded:

"On the 22nd of March, I left the village (of the Tensas) at nine o'clock in the morning with twenty-two Canadians, six Tensas, and one Ouachita. I marched all day in an overflowed country, the water . . . to the knees. In the evening I arrived at the bank of a little river about twenty paces wide and very deep, four and one half leagues distant, to the west, from the Tensas. I found there some Ouachitas with several pirogues loaded with salt. They were abandoning their village to go and live with the Tensas . . .

"28th Sunday. I arrived at the village of the Ouachitas . . . We swam across a swamp five hundred paces broad, and traversed several prairies separated by strips of forest and came to the village of the Ouachitas. This village is on the bank of the River Marne (Red River) . . . or a branch of it. There were not more than five cabins and seventy men."

A French expedition led by Bernard de la Harpe left New Orleans on December 17, 1718 to explore the Caddo country. According to La Harpe's report, he visited the Ouachita Indians and met a friendly reception. He entered into an alliance with them, but took possession of their country in the name of the King of France.

DESTRUCTION REPORTED

In 1730, the French governor of Louisiana, La Perrier, recorded that he had received reports that "many of the Ouachita Indians had been destroyed by the Tensas, but the greater part had withdrawn to the Natchitoches or other Caddo tribes farther west." However, there were some Ouachita Indians living west of the Mississippi River opposite the Yazoo River in 1732. These Indians had been received by some friendly Chickasaws there, according to the report of Bienville, who had again been appointed governor of Louisiana in that year.

Du Pratz returned to France in 1734 and wrote a book, published in 1758, in which he described his travels in Louisiana. He stated in his book:

"Formerly the Ouachitas lived upon the Black River and gave their name to it, but at this time there are no remains of that nation, the Chickasaws having destroyed the great part of them and the rest took refuge among the Caddo tribe where their enemies durst not molest them."

Thus the small tribe of Ouachita Indians was absorbed by the Caddo Confederacy. According to Hodge, the number of tribes belonging to that Confederacy cannot now be determined. In 1699, Iberville obtained from his Tensas Indian guide a list of eight tribes, but later explorers gave the names of twelve tribes. In 1896, a revised list gave only nine main tribes. Each tribe was subdivided, and each subtribe had its totem, its village, its hereditary chieftain, its priests and ceremonies. Among these tribes, which were loosely federated, were the Ouachitas, a subdivision absorbed later by other groups.

INDIANS TALL

Certain physical, cultural, and mental traits characterized the tribes and subtribes of the Caddo stock. The race was tall and well formed, having thin lips and small eyes. They lived sedentary lives for about four months of the year and roamed their hunting grounds the remainder, carrying their tents of skin with them. Their villages consisted of ten and twelve cabins each, built in the shape of a beehive. Young trees were put into the ground, branches tied together and covered with grass. Beds were arranged around the cabin three or four feet from the ground, often covered with a canopy of canes of bright colors. They also had larger buildings called "town houses," which were used for ceremonies and conferences.

These tribes were agricultural, growing maize, pumpkins, squash, beans, and melons. They prepared their fields by cutting vines and underbrush first. Then they cut the bark for about two feet above the ground. Afterward the brush was burned. Early white settlers copied this method of preparing the soil for cultivation. These Indians used hoes made of flattened sticks or buffalo bone, usually a shoulder blade.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Wild fruits and vegetables, such as berries, persimmons, and pond-lily roots were included in their diet. They obtained salt from salines or from salt licks, places where animals came to lick the salty residue in the soil.

For grinding corn, they used bowl-shaped stone mortars, pounding with other stones. White settlers later found many of these bowls and used them for drinking troughs for their chickens.

Clothing of these Indians was simple. Sometimes mantles were made of vegetable fiber, woven into cloth and adorned with feathers. Other clothing was made of buffalo hides. In hot weather they wore almost no clothing at all. They were very fond of ornaments, wearing pendants and beads made of wood or shell.

CEDED CLAIMS

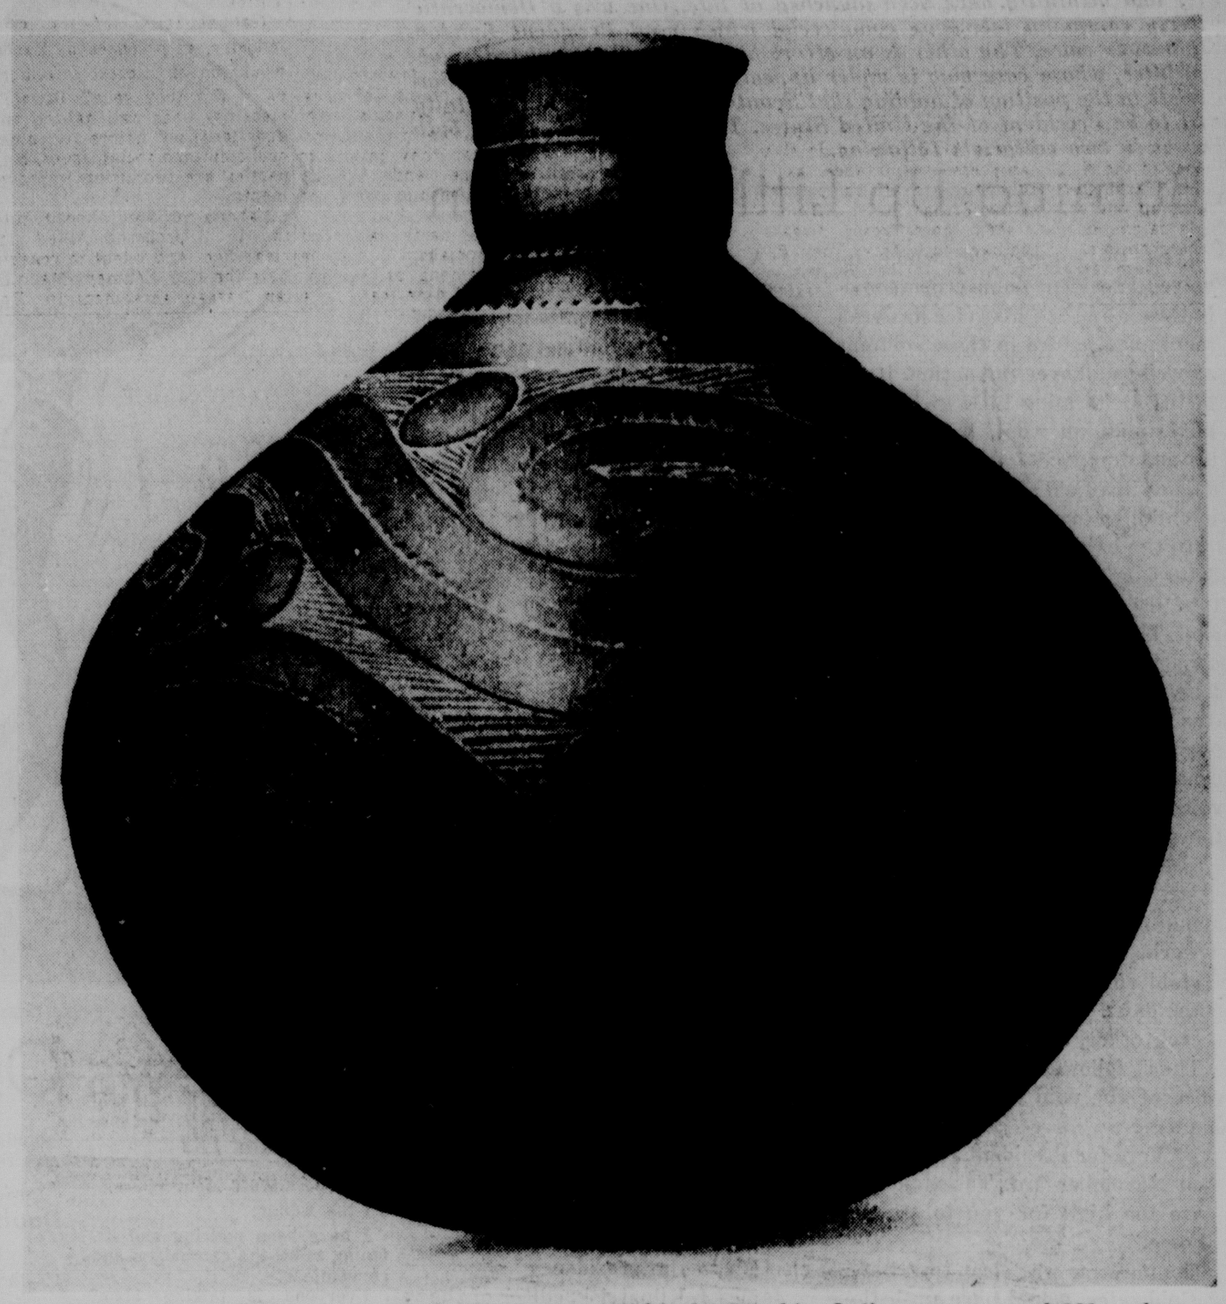

The Indians of the Caddo Confederacy were a peaceful people compared to many other Indians. After the Louisiana Purchase in 1803, more and more white settlers moved into their lands. Finally in 1835, they ceded their claims to these lands to the United States government for $80,000 in goods and money. Then they moved to Texas and on to Oklahoma where some of their descendants still live.

The Ouachita Indians had completely disappeared from the Ouachita District by 1785, when Don Juan Filhiol established a fort on the Ouachita River by the authority of the Spanish governor, Estevan Miro. In 1786, Filhiol reported to the governor:

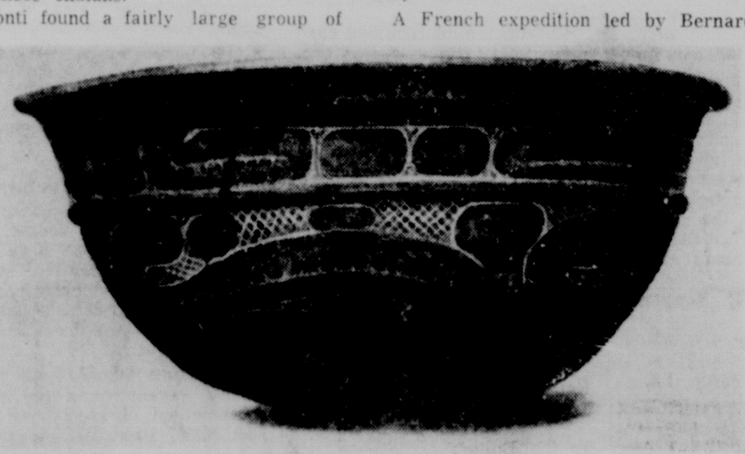

"All vestiges which we discover daily everywhere announce that the nation which inhabited it (the Ouachita District) formerly must have been very populous. We do not know what became of it. The oldest people of the place do not remember having seen a single one of them, and if some story tellers of the nation did not assure us of having seen five or six . . . bearing the name Ouachitas, one would doubt that a nation so called might have existed."

Among the vestiges to which Filhiol referred are many beautiful vessels of pottery. Some of them were found in a cemetery on Glendora Plantation, about sixteen miles north of Monroe. Besides human bones, 322 vessels of pottery were unearthed there. These vessels are covered inside and out with polished red pigment of an excellence seldom seen in such pottery.

Perhaps they were made by some Ouachita Indians, who once built their homes, lived peaceably, raised crops, and hunted game in the beautiful woodlands near the river that bears their name.

A GLENDORA VESSEL, believed to have been made by the Ouachita Indians, was one of 322 such vessels of pottery unearthed in a cemetery on Glendora Plantation, about 16 miles north of Monroe.

HERE IS ANOTHER example of earthen vessels found on the Glendora Plantation.

Ferry's Last Run Near

By JANICE CLARK
Crossett, Ark. Correspondent

The Longview Ferry on the Saline River, linking two Arkansas counties, started operations in 1850, and bands of Confederate and Union soldiers crossed from east to west on it during the Civil War. However, a large new concrete bridge soon will provide an easier means of crossing the river, and the ferry will discontinue service, bowing to the march of progress.

After more than a century of moving over the same path day after day, year after year, the Longview Ferry, which links Ashley and Bradley counties on Highway 133 in Arkansas will draw up to its sandy bank in Ashley County for the last time this fall. There will be no path to show it ever existed as the clear water of the Saline River closes behind the clumsy raft on its last run. Almost as fast water willows will sprout at the Ferry's docking points — and another link with the pioneer past of Arkansas will have vanished.

Scheduled for completion this fall is a 285 foot concrete bridge, which will link Southeast Arkansas more closely with Warren. Then the sleek cars geared to the Twentieth Century taste for speed will race across the river, with few remembering the leisurely tempo at which people have made that crossing for 114 years.

It is incredible that this little ferry, just seven miles from the racing traffic on Highway 81, has managed to stop the clock for so many years. While jet planes have darted overhead; air-conditioners have purred in vacation cottages on the riverbank nearby, and man-launched satellites have sped past in the sky above, the Longview Ferry has operated until now exactly as it did when it was chartered in 1850.

CARGO CHANGES

The cargo has changed from farmers in wagons loaded with cotton to farmers driving tractors — still loaded with cotton, and in more recent years tomatoes for the Warren market. The horse and buggy have vanished to be replaced by chrome-trimmed cars with radios turned up to help the speed-geared occupants pass the time while the little ferry has been laboriously pulled by hand along a cable across the surface of the river.

The fees have remained much the same since it was licensed for operation. 114 years ago it cost $1 to cross the river with oxen and wagon. Today it costs $1 to cross with your car. That is probably a national record for stabilization of costs! Fees set when it started its service were: Six horses or oxen and wagon, $1.00; four, 75c; two, 50c; one, 40c; two-horse carriage, 50c; one-horse carriage, 40c; led or loose horse, 5c; footman, 5c; man and horse, 10c. When the water rose to within four feet of the east bank the rates were doubled.

During the last half of the Nineteenth Century the Longview Ferry was the main axis for travel across the Saline River from Fountain Hill, seven miles east, to Warren on the west side of the river, and between isolated farmers scattered over Ashley, Bradley and Drew Counties.

ONLY SKIRMISH

The only skirmish in Ashley County during the Civil War was at the site of the little town on the bluff at Longview, when a regiment of 600 men under the command of Powell Clayton attacked a Southern encampment in a surprise maneuver. They wounded, captured or killed 450 men, and confiscated 35 wagons of supplies and the $60,000 payroll for the Confederate soldiers.

Although the wooden timbers have been replaced as old ones rotted or wore out, and the original rope track has been modernized into a one-inch steel cable, the Longview Ferry is just as it was in 1850, when it began its operations, and as it was when the bands of Confederate and Union soldiers crossed from east to west during the bloody battle a hundred years ago.

Recently, when we wanted to cross the river on the Ferry, we drove down the steeply sloped bank to the river's edge to find a group of young men and boys diving off the old raft and swimming in the river at its deep end. A honk of the horn brought one of the young men out of the water, his cut-off blue jeans dripping, to run us across the river. He first anchored the ferry to shore by plunging a two-inch length of pipe, connected by a rusty chain to the raft, into the sandy soil. He held it firmly in place while our car edged over the board crack into the ferry. The boards were pulled aboard and the operator began pulling the ferry along the cable across the river. As we inched along the ancient path we were told that the river channel is about 40 feet deep in summer, and around 60 feet deep during high-water times during the winter and early spring.

THE LONGVIEW FERRY is ready for another trip across the Saline River in Arkansas, but it soon will cease operations when a new highway bridge is opened to traffic. (Photo by Janice Clark)

FLOOD COMPLICATIONS

Old timers tell that during flood seasons at least one team of horses, or an entire "rig" (horse and wagon) went into the swift waters every year as the frail connection between bank and raft gave 'way before both horses and vehicle were safely aboard. According to one early resident of the area, "teams of horses, and sometimes people, were drowned in the river at such a time."

A thriving community rose and fell around the ferry. Situated where the Saline River cuts through the highest ridge in the county, it commanded a "long view" in both directions around the wide curve of the river. According to a granite monument placed on the bluff by the D. A. R., it was the site of the first settlement of white people in the county. The marker reads, "Longview, one of the first communities in Ashley County, settled by these French families: Fogle, Buleet, Acan, Carluff, LaBeof and Pedron. These with their children consituted for three quarters of a century the white people of Ashley county.

COMING OF RAILROAD

At the time of the Civil War skirmish the town boasted a two-storied Methodist Church with a lodge room upstairs, several stores, a warehouse and a saloon, and it remained a busy traffic and trading center for almost 40 years. It was the coming of "Jay's Gould's iron horse," the railroad, that strangled the town and reduced river traffic to a trickle. Early in this century the last of Longview's merchants gave up and moved into Hamburg.

However, the Ferry has continued to run during the summer months, and will stop only when the new bridge is completed to take its place. Already the approach fills have been completed to the projected $42,000 bridge. Ashley and Bradley counties are splitting the costs for the bridge, along with some private interests. It will be built of pre-cast concrete deck, treated pilings and caps, and steel guard rails.

Although there remains a gap of 12 miles of dusty gravel road approaching the bridge, it is sure to bring Warren into closer economic relation to Southeast Arkansas, and result in re-routing of much local traffic. While no one would want to halt the stride of progress, there are many in the area who will pause for a moment of pure sentimental recognition of the passing of this link with the pioneer life of the area.

Monroe Morning World

Sunday, September 20, 1964 — Two-B

(Two vicious flank attacks on Barry Goldwaters' personal character and mentality have been launched of late. One was a Democratic Party campaign television commercial which used President Lyndon Johnson's voice. The other is an effort by a federally convicted smut peddler, whose case now is under appeal, to place American psychiatrists in the position of holding that Senator Goldwater is not mentally fit to be President of the United States. THE WORLD discusses both cases in two editorials following.)

Burning Up Little Children

The TV commercial, which involved President Johnson personally through use of his voice has been mentioned before in these columns as well as all over the nation. It depicted a charming little girl — the kind any adult would want to pick up and hug, picking petals off of daisies in a field and counting them in childlike inaccuracy of numbers.

In the background came a "10-9-8-7-6-5-4-"—a countdown of the type used in firing a nuclear missile. There was a closeup of the child's eyes widening in fright and fear. And then the whole thing dissolved into a horrible atomic explosion with the usual mushroom cloud. Out of the cloud came the voice of Lyndon Johnson, in the tones of a god talking from Texas.

"These are the stakes," said Mr. Johnson without appearing on the screen. "Make a world in which all of God's children can live, or go into the dark. We must either love each other, or we must die."

Then followed the persuasive voice of the paid professional announcer:

"Vote for President Johnson on November 3rd. The stakes are too high for you to stay home."

The message was clear that Barry Goldwater, would burn up little girls; that Barry Goldwater hates little girls; that Barry Goldwater hates people; that Barry Goldwater, presumably, hates everybody. But Lyndon loves everybody and wouldn't it be just wonderful if everybody loved Lyndon, too?

A special national non-partisan committee headed by Charles Taft (son of the late Senator) to supervise decency in political campaigns was flooded with protests; so was the Democratic National Committee; and the Republican National Committee was flooded with demands for action, 1,300 in one day. Messages from mothers telling how their little daughters had run screaming and crying to bed after seeing the commercial were placed before all three. In shame and humiliation the Johnson leaders have withdrawn this TV commercial. (It is said the President had okayed its use.)

Barry Goldwater is a parent of two sons and two daughters. He has little grandchildren like the one in the TV commercial. He loves them all. He loves his wife. All who know him personally look upon him as an honest friend, a fine neighbor, a decent man.

Lyndon Baines Johnson has daughters. No doubt in time he will have grandchildren. He loves his family, too. But what is there about Lyndon Baines Johnson that would let him permit such a thing to be used in paid television advertising in behalf of his candidacy for election to the presidency?

James J. Kilpatrick, editor of the Richmond NEWS LEADER, calls attention to this new "backlash."

"Mr. Johnson can be hit," says Mr. Kilpatrick. "Look at him. Would you buy a used car from Lyndon Johnson? It would rattle like the poverty bill."

Smut Peddler's Efforts

A man named Ralph Ginzberg was convicted in federal court in Philadelphia not long ago of peddling smut — publicly selling smut publications. He is under five years prison sentence and fines totaling $42,000. He is out on $10,000 bond pending appeal.

Some of the Ginzberg material was "A Housewife's Handbook of Selective Promiscuity." Another was EROS, a large size hard back publication featuring such things as a detailed diary of a 17th Century prostitute. It is out of existence now or we would not give it the advertising benefit of mentioning the name.

Right now, while under a smut peddling conviction, Mr. Ginzberg is publishing a small, so - called magazine. Recent articles in it have had such titles as "Wife Swapping in California," a disgustingly detailed first person account of "sharing sex" simultaneously by numerous married couples at periodical orgies.

Some time ago the present Ginzberg publication announced that it was sending questionnaires to 12,000 psychiatrists around the country to determine whether Senator Goldwater was mentally capable of holding the post of the presidency. The questionnaires were not really questionnaires at all. They recited all kinds of charges against Senator Goldwater of the type on which the television commercial discussed in the editorial above are based — they asked the psychiatrists if an impulsive man, a reckless man, a man who would do this, that and the other — such as Senator Goldwater, the questionnaire said — was mentally fit to be President. Nowhere was there a line documenting any of these charges against Goldwater, all of which have been disproven perhaps thousands of times by his own utterances back through many years and especially back through the recent dozen or so months. They are disproven every day that he makes a speech by his manner, his attitude and his utterances.

A psychiatrist who would try to judge a man's mentality in this way — without seeing him, without documentation of the allegations — belongs on the couch himself.

Dr. Walter Barton, medical director of the American Psychiatrists Association, is quoted by United Press International as saying that the Ginzberg publication stunt should arouse "justifiable indignation" from APA members and that he has written the Ginzberg publication that if results of such a "poll" are published "the Association will take steps to disavow them." There is a catch to this "poll" of psychiatrists: NO ONE REPLYING IS REQUIRED TO SIGN HIS NAME OR ADDRESS.

So, whoever counts the replies, could come up with any result he wished and there would be no way of checking.

The New York Times now has accepted and published full page ads about the poll from the Ginzberg publication, headed in big black type:

"Is Barry Goldwater Psychologically Fit to be President of the United States."

Many will be surprised, indeed, that a newspaper of the standing of the New York Times, should take advertising on such a matter from such a source.

The ad says that "1846 psychiatrists answer this question in the next issue . . ."

Well, the answer could be that 1800 thought Mr. Goldwater psychologically unfit to be President, 40 thought he was okay and six were doubtful and no one would know whether that was the correct summation or not.

The same kind of questions could be put forth to psychiatrists concerning a man who drives a car over Texas roads 90 miles an hour with one hand on the wheel and a container of beer in the other; or a man who yanks the ears of pet dogs to make them yelp; or a man who in Senate speeches terms Bobby Baker "a great American" and "my good right arm," and "the last man I see at night and the first man I see in the morning." This could be carried on indefinitely.

But as we said, the psychiatrist who would even answer questionnaires of either type, except with contempt, belongs on the couch himself.

To the Editor:

I have been noticing and listening to all the campaigns and conventions.

Everyone is talking about Goldwater. Goldwater is a Republican and I hope you are thinking as you talk and wear his sticker. If Republicans deceived the South once they will do it again.

I think you all are being unfair to Mr. Johnson. He has been given a chance. There were some commitments that Kennedy had made that Johnson was held without choice to carry out. Let's think of Johnson and Kennedy's administration as a car going the wrong way at 100 miles an hour. The car cannot be stopped too harshly because it will turn over. In order to be safe it is brought to a gradual stop. Then turn around and go back to the point where the car started traveling the wrong way. Then give the right direction and continue onward.

That is Johnson. He had to bring the Kennedy administration to a gradual stop. He couldn't bring it to too harsh a stop. Now will you as voters, since he has gotten back to the point where Kennedy started wrong, will you please give him a chance to straighten out this Kennedy mess.

Johnson has impressed me when he refused brother Bobby as his vice-presidential candidate.

Then, too, we must remember that Johnson isn't going against us because he is one of us. He has to come back here to live and his relatives live in Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi.

Goldwater is a hot head. The first time the going has a choice that involves the South and West you will see where your Mr. Goldwater stands. Goldwater changes his conversation too often.

If everyone knew the whole truth about this bomb, they would see Goldwater isn't practical.

To the Editor:

The 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence were hunted down by British troops, so lost their property and freedom or lives in the fight for freedom, but they did not lose their sacred honor. They bequeathed that honor to you and me but it is pitiful that some of it did not rub onto our recent Presidents, the Supreme Court, State Dept., Council of Foreign Relations and other high echelons of the government.

Most pitiful is that a little of this sacred honor did not rub onto all the men we elect to represent us in Congress. Congress is the supreme power in the Federal Government, so if it used the power granted it under the Constitution, it could tie the arms of the President, instead of letting him twist theirs. Congress has the power to prevent the President and Supreme Court from passing "Laws of the Land" and from usurping the constitutional rights of Congress, our State Legislatures and state and local courts. Congress could have saved us and the enslaved nations from being in this horrible mess, had it not been feathering its own nest by submitting to arm twisting and voting for laws that violate the Constitution.

The majority of Congressmen vote for laws that violate the Constitution. Nebraska has the best voting record and maligned Mississippi ranks second best. Every other state has some rascals that should be turned out, including our own which should give the boot to six.

Double Dealing

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

This the first time in many years that the people have been given a choice in a presidential election as to whether we'll continue to live under a socialistic bureaucratic government that would have us believe we are not at war, but have peace, prosperity and justice, and have been given an eleven billion dollar tax cut, but fails to mention the raising of the national debt limit or the ten billion dollars or more interest on the national debt which will increase with more borrowing.

If I remember correctly, President Kennedy said in 1959 that there were thousands of Americans who go to bed hungry. Well, the Democrats have had almost four years. They admit their failure to correct this situation by passing the anti-poverty bill. The anti-poverty bill is just another scheme thought up by the Johnson administration to grab more power over the people and to get more votes at the expense of the people.

These same bureaucrats and one-worlders would have us think that everything is just fine in South Viet Nam, Laos, Cambodia and Cuba, and in fact, around the world, while the communists gain concessions at the conference table by our allowing them to keep the territory they have acquired through aggression. While we are fighting a war in South Viet Nam and U. S. soldiers are dying, here at home the Supreme Court calls the communists a political party, when they know the communist party, U. S. A. is dominated by Moscow, a foreign power, and our government still protects Castro's Cuba.

And what about the twelve communists in the state department named by the KGB officer in 1960 reported by Allen and Scott on July 28th in the Morning World. Has there ever been anything done about them?

As for me, I am disgusted with a government that fights the communists in South Viet Nam, protects them in Cuba and calls them a political party in the United States. I think people are becoming aware of this double dealing, and intend to do something about it at election time.

Letter To Ellender

The Hon. Allen J. Ellender
Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator Ellender,

In regard to your recent public statement in Monroe at the Virginia Hotel, I feel I must, as a voter and taxpayer of the good state of Louisiana, speak out in defense of that which seems to be good, just and honorable and against that which seems to be in the opposite.

In your statement, you said that you were bound to vote for the Democratic nominee. Senator Ellender, I ask you, with all due respect for your vast experience, as our duly elected Representative in Washington, why do you feel bound to support a Party which has deserted you and the people who elected you to office?

You stated, also, that if you supported Goldwater and then Johnson were elected, your chances of being thrown out as chairman were very likely. Well, if I felt that would happen, that would be reason enough for me not to support them. Besides, that philosophy is like saying: I must appease and support the Communist Party, because they might take over the world, and if they did, off comes my head. I can't buy that kind of thinking.

Senator Ellender, I was born and reared in Northeast Louisiana to parents who have always been staunch Democrats, and Long supporters. I can remember when, as a small boy, I used to admire and respect all of the candidates of the Huey Long ticket. Their pictures were all on a large two by three foot card, with The Great Huey in the center surrounded by those of the various offices. Yours was there. My dad always felt, "Here is the administration that won't let us down." I hope that those of that group of people who are in government now will not let us down at a time when the out-come of this presidential election may very well determine whether we will continue as free men or be subjected to a centralized government rule.

I appeal to you in the name of all that is good and just and for the sake of free men, to reconsider and openly support the Hon. Senator Barry Goldwater, to lead us back up the road to freedom, and not down the road to socialism, as some would have us go.

Wants Labor Views

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I was recently commissioned a colonel and aide-de-camp on the staff of Gov. John J. McKeithen, and would like to commend the governor on his careful and intelligent thinking concerning his participation in the presidential election. This should be evidence to the people of Louisiana that the governor does not intend to allow anything to mar the office of governor by letting it be used as a pawn by any political party on the federal level.

To have endorsed either candidate would have ultimately created obstacles in the successful progress he would like in our state. Should he have endorsed either candidate, enemies would have been made in the legislative body where he must have cooperation if we are to progress. Opposition would have been more paramount than cooperation.

I plan to work in close harmony with Mayor Howard and others in the movement of Democrats for Goldwater for President, and would like to take issue with the leaders of organized labor on their endorsement of the Democratic standard bearer. I do not believe that these views truly represent the feeling of the rank and file membership of the AFL-CIO throughout the nation. I have been a member of organized labor for 20 years and find that today this great organization has been taken over by a group of radical, far-left extremists much like that of the Democratic Party.

I would like to hear from as many members of organized labor in and around Ouachita Parish as will take the time to mail a post card stating their viewpoint on the presidential candidacy and their lodge affiliation.

To the Editor:

Editorial Offices
The Saturday Evening Post
641 Lexington Avenue
New York, New York 10022

Your editorial attack on Barry Goldwater published in The Saturday Evening Post dated September 19, 1964 is a piece of trash. It is a political hatchet job for the National Democratic Party. By the way, I received a printed copy of this editorial from the Democratic National Committee before I received my regular copy of The Saturday Evening Post for September 19, 1964.

Your personal attack on Barry Goldwater is so vehement, without any reasonable justification, and your cooperation with the National Democratic Party, with respect to this editorial, is so clear that it is certain to disgust any fairminded person. I do not believe that honorable men could write such trash.

I have subscribed to The Saturday Evening Post for many years, but this editorial evidences such a corruption of the integrity of your editorial board that after my present subscription expires, I would not accept another subscription to your magazine even as a gift.

The Comparison

Lake Providence, La.

To The Editor:

Two hundred years ago the reds in this country carried bows and arrows, lived in wigwams, traveled by canoe, hid behind rocks, wore loin cloths and were considered dangerous.

Today it looks like the reds are a yellow cast, carry brief cases, bibles, poisonous secret documents, cameras, tape recorders and use secret hot lines. They wear high hats, fancy clothes with secret pockets, carry poisonous walking sticks, live in mansions, travel by jet and hide behind closed doors.

The question is: Are these fellows dangerous?

ADA Ducks Again Before Election

NOW THAT THE Republican Party's Vice Presidential nominee, Representative William Miller, has lit out after Americans for Democratic Action, the old shell game is being played on the voter by those who look at the organization to admire.

This happens every four years. The moment ADA is attacked, its friends say that (1) the organization is unimportant, and (2) that it doesn't stand for those things which it is accused of standing for. This year, however, Senator Hubert Humphrey is the Democratic Vice Presidential hopeful — and if Lyndon Johnson wins, will be a heartbeat away from the Presidency. And Hubert Horatio Humphrey was for years, until recently, vice chairman of ADA. This enhances an importance which in the past was registered not by a mass following but by the careful planting of some 40 ADAers in sub-Cabinet and other key posts — a kind of inner government.

Where ADA stands on the issues takes on considerable importance and is a legitimate subject of Republican interest. For had the organization moved any significant distance from Senator Humphrey's views, he would have been compelled to repudiate it. He has not to date.

IT IS COMMON for those who oppose ADA to call it "arch-liberal" or "left extremist." This is a matter of terminology and in the long run meaningless. The organization's position has been stated repeatedly in its official platform and in newspaper articles. Let me draw on ADA's own words, using proper quotation marks where the verbiage does not compel summation.

In 1961, ADA called for "immediate initiation of negotiations for U. S. recognition of Red China and its admission to the United Nations." It asked for "food surplus shipments to the Communist Chinese." It called for a "hands off policy towards Cuba" — thereby running counter to our efforts to mobilize Latin American sentiment against the Castro Communist regime. In fact, it found that any U. S. acts against Cuba were "morally wrong."

Some months before, the "ADA World" — the organization's official paper — stated that Castro's attacks on the United States were deserved, "largely due to the recent history of our relations with Latin American countries." After the record of Castro police state terror, ADA was stating that the dictator's "hold in Cuba comes from what he has done for his people, not what he has done for the Russians."

(IT SHOULD BE recalled that ADA was in the forefront of those denouncing people who warned of a Soviet missile build-up in Cuba. In fact, three days before President Kennedy made the facts public, Senator Humphrey was in the ranks of those who claimed that these warnings were politically motivated.)

In 1962, ADA was demonstrating its international wisdom by calling for the withdrawal of NATO troops from West Berlin —to be replaced by a "UN presence" — and U. S. recognition of the Communist East German dictatorship. It asked for "conciliation" of the Soviet Union, while the free world patiently waited for a "relaxation" of Communist dictatorship. But it wanted to provoke civil war in Spain by having the U. S. give "political and economic support to the (non-existent Spanish) government - in - exile and to the democratic forces within Spain." This would also mean plotting with dissident elements against a government which has given us our only safe air bases in the Mediterranean.

It would seem that as a responsible member of the Democratic leadership, Senator Humphrey would have immediately repudiated this dangerous game by ADA. This would have been a minimum requirement for him. But he has remained carefully silent.

2 Shopping Lists In Reverse Order

HERE ARE TWO shopping lists, each containing seven items. Which was prepared by a woman and which by a man?

List one: mink-trimmed cashmere coat; pillow cases; panty girdle; ironing board; 50-piece set of silverware; hair dryer; Raggedy Ann doll.

List two: electric lantern; bowling ball; pipe wrench set; pillow cases; 6½-foot ladder; Handyman's Book; road race set.

If — logically — you put a "female" label on the first list and a "male" tag on the second, your logic led you into being 100 per cent wrong. Every item in the first list was selected by salesmen engaged in direct-to-the-home sales of consumer goods as their prizes in a merchandise incentive program put on by their company. Every item in the second list was chosen by saleswomen in a similar program conducted by another company.

ANY SALES COMMISSION or cash bonus may be considered a sales incentive, of course, but growing steadily has been the merchandise incentive program — under which salesmen compete for prizes which they themselves choose from a special catalogue.

Increasing numbers of marketing executives agree that this method of special promotion can stimulate sales at every level — manufacturing, wholesale, retail. Salesmen apparently like this form of incentive because they can exhibit their prizes while the cash they might win may be quickly spent and forgotten. A significant stimulant is the fact that the whole family can be drawn into a competition via the prize catalogue and family participation can be a crucial factor in a promotion's success. Adding dignity to a campaign is the fact that the catalogue shows prizes in terms of points needed to win and does not specify the price of any item.

THE ABOVE PRIZES were chosen from the 1,800-item catalogue of John Plain Incentives of Chicago, one of the top three companies in the merchandise incentive field. What do the choices indicate?

A first obvious point is the emphasis on family, home and children rather than on items for strictly personal use. "In all our programs," says M. Wallace Morgan, general manager of JPL, "items for personal use are likely to rank far down the list." Intriguing is the fact that, in the two groups studied, only men ordered mink - trimmed coats and men also chose more hair dryers than the women.

A second obvious point is the emphasis on utilitarian merchandise. Pillow cases were the most wanted single item by both men and women and blankets were high on both lists.

THE WORLD IN FOCUS

By John Cale

Limited Protection

LIKE MANY of the weeks observed by national organizations, National Constitution Week might have had little bearing on the events in the past week's so-called "hard" news had it not been for a ruling regarding an Alabama barbecue spot.

In Brimingham near the week's end, a three-judge federal panel ruled that the public accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act was unconstitutional in a test case applied to a restaurant in that city.

THE JUDGES, who expressed their concern over the spread of federal powers, issued a temporary restraining order against acting U.S. Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach, prohibiting him from enforcing that section of the Civil Rights law. The judges did not assert that the public accommodations section was unconstitutional as applied to all restaurants.

In fact, a similar panel has ruled the same section of the same law constitutional in the case of Atlanta restaurant owner, Lester Maddox.

Such happenings show the Constitution — a guideline for limited government — is still a lovely and valuable item and as up to date as today's news.

Campaign Trails

PRESIDENT Johnson and GOP Candidate Barry Goldwater moved west and south in campaign sparring, with just a little over six weeks remaining before the November 3 Election Day.

WITH JET-PLANE stops at Shreveport and New Orleans on Thursday, Senator Goldwater headed into Johnson's home state of Texas on Friday.

THURMOND

When he started his swing through the South, he picked up the support of Senator Strom Thurmond, South Carolina conservative. Thurmond joined the Goldwater campaign party and continued the trip, a gesture of the political realignment now taking place in traditional voting habits.

An estimated crowd of 30,000 greeted the Arizona senator at the Shreveport Municipal Airport where he spoke beneath a sign declaring:

"Shreveport, This is Goldwater Country."

New Orleans

FOLLOWING AN introduction by Lieutenant Governor C. C. (Taddy) Aycock at Sugar Bowl Stadium, Goldwater capitalized on issues which he said would not be brought before the public "until after the election."

Going beyond the usual Republican blanket accusation of the administration's "whitewash" tendencies, the GOP candidate listed for the estimated crowd of 30,000 such things as Red China's admission to the U. N. (a move of the Americans for Democratic Action), the Otepka investigation, Robert McNamara's TFX fighter plane contract case, certain facts about Cuban subversion, and the Geneva disarmament conference — all as matters the administration would keep from the public "until after the election."

GOVERNOR JOHN J. McKEITHEN announced his long awaited decision on the presidential campaign. Tuesday. As had been expected, McKeithen chose to remain neutral.

McKeithen said he believed if he took sides in the campaign it would endanger the chances of his administration accomplishing its goals.

McKEITHEN

The presidential race thus split the McKeithen camp, with some of the governor's followers backing Goldwater and others aligned with the Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

"I feel that my principal goal should and must be fulfillment of the program which "we have outlined for ourselves during the next four years," McKeithen said.

"TO FULFILL these ultimate goals, I must continue to have the cooperative support of all our people as I have in the past. To involve myself in the national election must certainly lose for our administration much of the cooperation and good will which has been so generously given in the past," said the governor.

Therefore, McKeithen said, he had decided "not to participate in the national election and to those who have sought my recommendations and counsel, I suggest each search his own mind, heart and conscience."

Democrats

WHILE PRESIDENT Johnson jumped across the nation from the hurricane-stricken areas of Florida to sunny Sacramento, California, and other West Coast cities, Mrs. Johnson called on women in Akron, Ohio, to join in building "the great society," which is the announced theme of the Democratic campaign."

AND DEMOCRATIC vice-presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey, voicing hopes of a Roosevelt-style Democratic landslide in November, took his campaign from the Alamo to the edge of Dixie.

He got little support from Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus, a fellow Democrat.

Faubus was not on hand at Hot Springs to meet the party's vice-presidential candidate when he arrived, although Faubus was still in town after delivering a speech.

The governor, who has been cool to the national ticket, said he was tired, and could see Humphrey "in the morning."

Humphrey wound up a quick three-city hop through Texas Thursday with a night rally in San Antonio, Some 25,000 supporters, mostly Mexican-Americans, thundered "Viva Humphrey" at a rally before the historic Alamo.

Strong Winds

REPORTED "sloppy and out of shape" at mid-week, Hurricane Gladys pulled herself together Thursday and began to lash the Atlantic east of Miami with 90-mile-an-hour winds.

Such language conveys the impression that the weather watches have come to look upon this saeson's storms as patients or, perhaps, young businesses that need help and encouragement to get on their feet.

Th people along the Florida and Georgia coastal areas that bore the brunt of Dora during the previous week are not so inclined to wish for prospects that Gladys will "get better organized," as one forecaster put it.

But by Friday, Gladys was reportedly headed for the mainland on the same path as her sisterly predecessor with winds up to 125 miles-an-hour

In Congress

EARLIER IN the week, Senator Humphrey had been handed the job of getting Senate Democratic liberals back in line for a compromise on legislative reapportionment. The strategy of clearing away a controversy over apportionment that has stalled the $3.3 billion foreign aid authorization bill since August 12 appeared to be the "baby" of the vice-presidential candidate's compromising skill.

BUT EVEN as the Rules Committee cleared the way for a vote, Senator William E. Proxmire advised the House it would be engaging in an act of futility if it passed the amendment.

Proxmire, one of the senators who is blocking a vote on a proposal to delay court-ordered reapportionment, said "a long educational campaign" will be conducted in the Senate on any constitutional amendment sent over by the House.

PROXMIRE said he feels there is little chance of the Senate passing any amendment before it adjourns.

The Senate has been deadlocked on the reapportionment issue since it reconvened Aug. 31 after the Democratic National Convention.

World Front

IN ONE of the Broadway plays about a Navy destroyer crew in the wartime Pacific, the commander blurted out the question: "Just what is your job on this ship?" to a shaky lieutenant, junior grade.

Perhaps it's time we came forward with a similar question as to which or where is the government we are supposed to be supporting in South Viet Nam.

Secretary of State Dean Dusk expressed hope last week that South Viet Nam's leaders would recognize the dangers of internal bickering and unite in the war against the communists.

The secretary told a news conference that the attempted coup against General Nguyen Khanh in Saigon might have a "stabilizing effect." This would come about if it showed the South Vietnamese what might happen if they did not stop quarrelling among themselves, he said.

RUSK SAID that it undoubtedly will "take some time" to build a government in South Viet Nam. He noted that the country has been in some chaos for 25 years under Japanese rule, then French rule, and finally divided into communist and non-Communist halves.

EARLIER, in a speech to the Economic Club of Detroit, he said the present American course of action in Viet Nam would be continued.

Marriage

THE GLITTERING WEDDING Friday of Greek King Constantine and Danish Princess Anne-Marie stood out against a background of eastern European turmoil that ranged all the way from war threats on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus to new sounds of weapons rattling in Moscow.

KING, QUEEN

YUGOSLAVIA last week established links with COMECON, the Communist bloc's equivalent of the West European Common Market.

It was the closet formal tie between independent - Communist Yugoslavia and the Red bloc since Satlin ousted President Tito from the since dissolved Cominform in 1948.

Although the U. S. Congress stripped Yugoslavia of most-favored-nation status early this year, the Belgrade government has made steady progress at improving trade relations with other western countries.

A government communique said Yugoslavia will cooperate in the framework of the Council of Mutual Economic Assistance or COMECON in the fields of foreign trade, currency and finance, metallurgy, machine building, the chemical industry and the coordination of scientific and technical research.

UNABLE TO make any progress on East-West differences the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva has recessed for five months.

In the interim, the disarmament debate will shift to the U.N. General Assembly opening November 10, after the U. S. elections.

The delegates of the Soviet Union on one hand and the United States and Britain on the other blame each other for lack of progress.

Weapons

MEANWHILE, Premier Khrushchev denied last week he had told a Japanese parliamentary group that the Soviet Union had a terrible new weapon which could annihilate mankind.

He said his remarks, which set off a furor around the world, had been distorted in translation from Russian to Japanese to other languages.

Talking to reporters at an Indian embassy reception, Khrushchev explained: "I said scientists showed me a terrible weapon which shows what mankind can do. I didn't say anything about unlimited power. It cannot be a nuclear bomb because I saw it near Moscow, and a nuclear bomb would require testing and we are not testing now."

HE SAID an official version of his remarks would be issued "but it will take a little time."

Khrushchev also said he had not threatened anyone with the weapon.

TAKING A more cautious attitude in assessing the new weapons reports from Russia, General Lauris Norstad, former commander of the North Atlantic Treaty forces, said a system of control and inspection on both sides of the "iron curtain" could reduce tensions in Europe without any reductions of weapons or military manpower. Norstad is now president of Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corporation. He made the statement at an international symposium at Rochester, Minnesota.

NORSTAD

'Under God'

MRS. MADALYN Murray, an atheist who said she fled Baltimore last June to seek religious asylum in Hawaii, filed suit in federal court Monday to have the phrase "under God" stricken from the pledge of allegiance.

HER ATTORNEY, Hyman Greenstein, said that he expects it to take from three to six months before the case is actually heard.

"Because we are attacking the constitutionality of an act of Congress we have requested a three judge court . . . it depends on the nature of the court and availability of judges," he said.

Greenstein said the phrase "under God" was added to the pledge of allegiance on June 14, 1954 by act of Congress as the result of a campaign by the American Legion and by a chain of newspapers.

HOW TRUE THIS IS

Don't let me be a scandal sheet,
Dear Lord, nor be one to repeat
Bad chat or gossip or spread things
That every idle rumor brings.
Don't let me have that reputation,
For though folks take my information
They'll hate me for the tales I bear
And come to doubt me and to fear
That I will slander them, likewise,
And slanderers all folks despise.

AIN'T IT SO — Happiness is not something that happens to you, but something that happens in you.— Dr. James L. Horton, pastor of Monroe's First Baptist Church . . .

ABOUT TWIN CITIES PEOPLE

Monroe's Merl Padgett, a most interesting person with whom to talk, has just returned from an interesting trip himself.

Padgett made the grand European tour and while there visited Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland and France to name a few.

While in Austria, he visited a former prisoner of war friend, and in France he paid a return to the scene of war service. At one point he visited his old observation post at Montfaucon. Padgett recalled that during the war he and his group of soldiers saw quite a bit of action there and among other things blasted out a sniper from the ruins of a church, which is still there. The town itself, he recalled, was "pretty much like we left it," but the new town was rebuilt a short distance away.

The thing that impressed him most, Merl recalled, was the physical condition of the young people of Western Europe. "They're way ahead of ours in condition and they are real healthy looking," he added.

YOU CAN BET a lot of cheering and pulling for a certain girl in the Miss America contest went on the past weekend in the home of Sheriff and Mrs. Bailey Grant . . . And it was for blonde Karen Carlson of Shreveport — Miss Arkansas — who came within a breath of winning the top beauty title in the nation. As it turned out, she placed second — no mean honor in itself.

Miss Carlson is the roommate at the University of Arkansas of Bennie Grant, the daughter of the Sheriff and Mrs. Grant . . . and a beauty in her own right . . .

IT MIGHT WORK AT THAT

With new students going off to college and for their first time away from home for long stretches, many parents are giving them a supply of addressed and stamped envelopes with which to send the news to the home folks . . . actually in hopes they will hear from them frequently.

We have a friend who has a more pointed system. . . and it might work. He informs the young college student from his household that a check for his allowance will be written each Wednesday and, if there has been received a letter from the boy away at school within a seven-day period, the check will be mailed promptly. If no letter has arrived, mailing of the check will be held up until such letter does arrive. It will be interesting to see how it all works out . . .

IT COULD BE SO . .

A bachelor is a man who has cheated some woman out of a divorce . . .

A CLASH in Paris the other day between Marlene Dietrich and Maria Callas made news in a lot of places. It seems Miss Dietrich took offense at a crack Miss Callas made to the effect that Dietrich carried on in a shameless way" for someone her age. The 59-year-old Deitrich snapped back that Callas carried on in a "way that is shameless for any age." . . .

INTERESTING SIDE . . .

Will somebody please explain this? The Bureau of Census reports that as of its 1960 count on the marital status of people in the U. S. 14 years of age, or older, 42,416,979 males were married; and 42,749,302 females . . .

A MEDICAL researcher reports that various types of alcoholic beverages tend to produce different kinds of effects: whiskey causes upset stomachs, nervousness, unsteady walk, severe hangovers, hallucinations and shortness of breath. Wine causes blurred vision, bloodshot eyes, dry mouths, boredom, sadism, stealing and divorces. Beer causes bay windows, bitter tastes in the mouth, loss of appetite, restlessness and thirst. Rum makes for reddened lower lips, talkativeness, squinting eyes, rapid heartbeats and a funny feeling in the abdomen. Gin causes back pains, strange heart murmurs, headaches, blackouts and a curious, high-stepping walk

UNEARNED DIVIDENDS

— One of the fringe benefits you don't hear about much is not in any labor-management contract — thieving by employes. The Wall Street Journal reports that many big firms have installed closed circuit television and other elaborate security measures to reduce losses. According to the report, bonded employes alone swiped $73,000,000 in cash and merchandise in the U.S. last year, up from $45,000,000 in 1960. Add to that total the pillaging by unbonded employes and its clear that when the Department of Commerce computes the material well - being of American workers, it has omitted from its statistics a significant factor in the good life . . .

NOTICE IN A small Brazilian cinema: "After 9 p.m. couples in love must be seated separately." . . .

NOTE TO BEE raisers — Scientists working at Cornell University took time out to investigate the fact that more people in the U. S. are killed by bee stings than by snake bites. They discovered, after several experiments with mice, that the venom extracted from bees is as toxic as that of a cobra . . . So all's not honey. .

GRIN AND TAKE IT

This really happened, I'm told on good authority. Recently a woman was seated next to a strange, middle aged man in church one Sunday. It happened to be an extremely warm morning. Suddenly the man seemed to slump to the floor. The matron instantly knelt beside him. "Put your head between your knees," she whispered urgently. "You'll feel better if the blood can get to your head." Putting her hand on the back of his head, she pushed down and was surprised to hear the man sputter in protest. "Lady," he snapped when he finally eluded her grasp, "I'm just trying to retrieve my hat."

AN ADULT—When adults act like children, they're silly. When children act like adults, they're delinquent.

THE LONGEST period in a woman's life is the 10 years between the time she is 39 and 40 . . .

OLD AGE is the time when men pay more attention to their food than they do the waitress — Albert Fletcher, Southern Reporter . . .

IS IT TRUE in your church? The story is told that on a Sunday morning a man entered a church and sat down near the front with his hat on. Noting the man, one of the ushers spoke to him, asking him if he knew he forgot to remove his hat. "Yes," the man replied, "I realize I have my hat on. I've been coming to this church for two months and this is the only way I could get anyone to speak to me." . . .

DID YOU KNOW — Men who complain that the boss is dumb would be out of a job if he were any smarter.

AND DID YOU hear this one . . . The boss was pointing out to his secretary several errors she had made during the day, when she interrupted with "Mr. Jones, it's two minutes past five and you're annoying me on my own time." . . .

IS IT TRUE?

John Henshaw, a writer for the National Enquirer, has come up with a gem. He writes that President Johnson is privately telling Southern Senators and conservative financial backers that he was "boxed-in" and forced to take Senator Hubert Humphrey as his vice presidential running mate. He explained that the Democratic National Convention dispute over the seating of Mississippi and Alabama reached a critical stage and, in order to avoid a disastrous floor fight, he had to make a compromise with the labor leaders, the Kennedy faction and liberal groups by agreeing to name Humphrey as his running mate. Friends of Humphrey hotly deny that they forced the President to accept the Senator, but they privately admit: "Lyndon was a bit boxed-in two days before the nomination."

REPORTS OUT

According to some Democratic Congressional sources, several high - ranking State Department officials will resign before the election and Secretary of State Dean Rusk will resign immediately after. They claim President Johnson is very dissatisfied over the bungling in foreign policy and the contradictory advice he is receiving from three warring factions within the State Department. Johnson is portrayed as feeling that foreign policy decisions are too urgent for him to wait until after the election to make some drastic personnel changes . . . It will be interesting to see if this is true. . . .

HEART OF A CHILD

Whatever you write on the heart of a child
No water can wash away.
The sand may be shifted when billows are wild
And the efforts of time may decay.
Some stories may perish, some songs be forgot
But his graven record — time changes it not
Whatever you write on the heart of a child,
A story of gladness or care
That heaven has blessed or earth has defiled
Will linger unchangeably there.

TWIN CITIES WEEK IN REVIEW

Tragedy Stalked Area Past Week

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Violent death and tragedy sum up a large part of last week's news in the Monroe area, and few weeks in memory can match the period for sheer frequency of incidents.

Eight local and Twin City area people died in a rare spate of shootings and highway crashes; another died in a plane crash near Rayville; and yet another in a pipeline explosion; seven suffered serious injuries.

Meanwhile, for those left unscathed, there was some degree of merriment as the circus came to town for shows Tuesday and Wednesday, and the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce prepared to welcome St. Nick at its Christmas parade Dec. 3.

And the politically - minded found respite in a visit to Louisiana (Shreveport and New Orleans) Thursday by Mr. Conservative, Barry Goldwater. He was greeted in Shreveport by a caravan of local people.

Starting the week, for the purposes of this column, and setting its tone, was the death Saturday of E. R. Dingler, 47, of West Monroe, apparently shot by his wife in a family altercation.

Then, all Monday, separate accidents — a train-truck collision, a single car smash-up and a plane crash — resulted in the deaths of four area persons, in a stunning carnage that injured four others.

Clifton Otis Vining, 36, and his daughter, Carolyn, 11, were killed when a train struck their truck near their hometown of Pioneer.

Jimmy Gay, 15, an Eros High School student, died as his car left the Jonesboro Road near Eros and crashed, injuring four companions.

Crop-dusting pilot Gary Gilbert of Monroe succumbed when his plane fell near Rayville.

Tillman Ignent, Monroe Negro, died Tuesday in the crash, near West Monroe, of a pickup truck and a tractor loaded with farm hands.

EXPLOSION

Tuesday in the area brought with it a pipeline explosion near Grayson that claimed the life of a 50 - year - old Swartz man, George Byron Case. Seriously injured and brought to the St. Francis were W. N. Pope of Pineville and Tom Dupree of Monroe, while a third man, Robert Creighton, was hospitalized at Columbia with first and second degree burns.

West Monroe's Ernest W. Liggin, 38, 303 Haynes St., was killed Wednesday in an auto crash with a cotton trailer near Oak Grove.

And finally late Thursday, Harold S. Roberts, 1415 Oaklawn, Monroe, was shot to death, apparently by his father-in-law, whose home police said Roberts was trying to enter to see his estranged wife.

Meanwhile, monthly Twin City police reports for August showed a slight decrease in the incidence of crime. The number of major crimes committed dipped from 111 to 97.

A report in another area of activity, incidentally, also was encouraging. Louisiana Employment Service officials predicted Tuesday that Ouachita Parish unemployment will fall in the coming two months because of a fall spurt in business. The figure presently stands at 4.1 per cent of the labor force.

Still talking about reports, it was announced by Highway Board member James W. Moore of Monroe during the week that a Louisiana Highway Department team will make detailed traffic studies at 20 troublesome locations in the Twin Cities. Changes presumably will be recommended.

PUBLIC MEETINGS

Meetings of public bodies last week produced news. The Ouachita Parish School Board met Tuesday to adopt a record budget of $5.6 million. All wasn't harmony, however, as they also interviewed a delegation of parents who recommended changes in school transportation practices around the system's new Riser School. Main problem appeared to be the "bunching up" of youngsters waiting for buses at busy intersections, and board officials were due on the site Saturday to seek solutions.

Parish teachers, by the way, observed their annual Professional Day program at Ouachita Parish High School (making up for time off Labor Day) and heard an address by N. B. Hackett, executive secretary of the Louisiana Teachers Association.

But it was the Police Jury which "out-met" everybody last week.

Groups of jurors got together Monday and Wednesday to learn about a federal food stamp plan, offering "free" government assistance to low income families in buying groceries. The jury is supposed to make up its mind at a special meeting Monday on whether to apply for participation in the plan.

Another group met Friday to plan a survey next Friday, in hopes of selecting areas for new garbage disposal facilities. Health officials will join jurors and Parish Engineer Herbert Collier in the look-see.

Elsewhere on our pages, if you read your paper, you learned that last week was Constitution Week, proclaimed so by the mayors of Monroe, West Monroe and Sterlington, setting aside the period for reflection, hopefully, on a great American document.

NEW FACES

New faces made news during the week.

As another evidence of the city's growth, Edwin L. Waldron, a former local salesman, was named Monday as executive assistant to Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard. There was also a new technical director on the boards at the Monroe Little Theatre. Christian Overton West, by name, of Fort Worth, Tex., he succeeds Lonny Fraze, who became executive director when Richard Clark went to seek his fortune along the Great White Way.

Mayor Howard was one of those locals who made the Shreveport and New Orleans scenes for Republican presidential nominee Goldwater's swing into the deep South. That swing, by the way, was preceded by two days by Gov. John McKeithen's anticipated announcement of neutrality in the November polling.

Meanwhile, the Monroe League of Women Voters were to meet at 1:30 p.m. Saturday to plot means of getting out the vote Nov. 3. And there's probably not a better time to do it. The coming contest might be the most important, the most critical in at least the past 32 years of American history, or since creeping socialism began to creep.

BIDS OPEN

In Baton Rouge news with appeal for local ears, it was announced that bids will be opened at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 5, for two boat launching ramps on Chenniere Lake near West Monroe. Passing the word was Rep. Lawrence Gibbs of Monroe.

And Monroe World readers got a jump on the state with the announcement by Durwood Cann of Monroe that the Louisiana Board of Commerce and Industry was seeking a professional director. The day after Cann, a board member, spoke, Mississippi's director, William Hackett, was hired.

A quick check of United Givers Fund activities: the professional and individual gifts division kicked off its solicitations Wednesday, as general campaign workers looked ahead to Sept. 30's overall drive commencement.

Birthday greetings go out this week to Mrs. Blanche Josey, West Monroe's deputy city clerk, who turned 65 Friday, though it was Thursday that she was shook up by a little surprise office party. With the city for 32 years, Mrs. Josey reaches a well - deserved retirement at the end of the month.

No week in the Twin Cities would be complete without at least a side glance at Northeast Louisiana State College. Miss Louisiana, Cherie Martin of Pineville, registered Wednesday and classes got underway Friday without a hitch.

And, finally, here's a fun thing to do between now and next week's ramble. Only requirement is that you know someone in Spearsville. If you qualify, call them up and tell them to call you back. They can dial now and they'll love you for asking. The Spearsville dial office opened Saturday.

SCENES of YESTERYEAR

. . . in the Twin Cities

REMEMBER WHEN Meyer's Star Emporium, a general store, was located at DeSiard and Walnut Streets? It's doubtful if many do. This picture was made in 1880 and was taken by a studio known as the Earl B. Williams Studio. At the time the picture was made, both DeSiard and Walnut were dirt streets. Meyer's Star Emporium later became known as Kursch's Emporium. Later Mrs. Bella Scherck Davidson had The Woman's Shoppe at this location before moving to the present site. About 1931, the Style Shop was established at the DeSiard-Walnut location and was originally owned by Meyer Glazer and the late Harry Silverstein. Glazer owns the store today and the modern and attractive building on the site today is a far cry from the first building on the site, although old records indicate it was very modern for its day also. If you have an old picture showing the Twin Cities scene, bring or mail it in to us, along with all the information available.

IN POLITICAL DISPLAY

Asian Students Bold

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

TOKYO (AP) — "You will see, we will be brave again."

These words were spoken in late August by an 8-year-old schoolboy in South Viet Nam, the violence-ridden land where young people have played a dominant role in breaking and making governments.

"We were trying to help our country."

Those were the words of a young man in South Korea this spring after rock-throwing students fought with police and soldiers until the leader of the country's ruling party resigned.

Young people — usually high school and college students — in South Viet Nam and South Korea have played key roles in the stormy politics of their divided homelands. For the moment at least, they are isolated examples of Asia's youth. There is no seething wave of student political activity sweeping this part of the world.

The Vietnamese and Korean student demonstrations against established political institutions are the result of peculiar circumstances.

THE BIG AND powerful student movement in South Korea has forced changes in government twice in four years. It drove President Syngman Rhee into exile in April, 1960, and this spring forced out the chairman of the ruling Republican Party. Here, demonstrations which led to this spring's victory, students of Seoul National University carry their schoolbags as they mass in front of the National Assembly. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

FOUGHT

Both countries have fought or are fighting a Communist enemy. Children in both lands have grown up in the day-to-day presence of hard-eyed, armed men. They have seen their parents live under harsh rule.

Perhaps this explains why these young people have not hesitated to use violence, why they have torn at barbed wired barriers with their hands and why they have bared their chests to bayonets to achieve their ends.

Today the center of attention is South Viet Nam, where students have marched and fought and have forced concessions from military rulers. Student leaders there have negotiated with and threatened generals. They have warned that unless their demands are met, more violence will follow.

The South Vietnamese student came of age politically during the upheavals in the summer of 1963. As the revolt of Buddhist monks gained momentum against the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, students began to organize an underground of their own.

Noisy, rock-hurling high school and college student demonstrations marked the final weeks of the Diem regime. Police rounded up students by the thousands. Many were herded into re-education centers, virtual prison camps where they were held until the Diem government was overthrown in a military coup. Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, died in the coup.

Those actions against the Diem regime were what the schoolboy recalled when he said "we will be brave again."

Then came the decision last month of the country's military ruler, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, to make himself president with virtual dictatorial powers. The Vietnamese students again poured into the streets, stormed barricades and buildings and demanded changes in the government.

Turmoil and strife — along with governmental changes — followed.

The complicated political situation in South Viet Nam involves more than outbursts of student opposition to government authority.

Religious hatred between Buddhists and Catholics, which also includes youth of both faiths, figures importantly in the unrest. Old political factions and old politicians keep in an active hand. Hanging over it all is the fight against the Communist Viet Cong, the war that is everywhere and that erodes the splintered section of the Indochina peninsula.

HATED

South Korea, a second Asian country where students and politics recently have mixed with explosive results, has been relatively quiet since spring. But the young people there have established a tradition that could send them again into the streets of Seoul, Taegu, Pusan and other cities.

Twice in four years, rioting South Korean students have forced their will on the government. In April, 1960 they drove a former hero, President Syngman Rhee, into exile. The students became known as the "April heroes."

This spring Korean students launched demonstrations aimed originally at talks designed to re-establish normal relations between Japan and Korea. By the time the demonstrations were over, the students had widened their target to include the government of President Chung Hee Park.

Park imposed martial law and closed all colleges and universities June 3 after bloody clashes. Some student leaders were jailed and there were threats that student politicans might be drafted into the army.

In the end, however, Kim Chong Pil, the man who played a leading role in the negotiations with Japan and who sometimes is considered responsible for bringing Park to power, resigned as chairman of the ruling Democratic Republican party. He left for the United States to quiet the student clamor.

One important factor in student political activity in South Korea is simply in numbers. There are no less than 32 colleges and universities in the Seoul area alone, enrolling more than 100,000 students.

"That's ten divisions," exclaimed one government official after the most recent student demonstrations. "I don't think any other capital city in the world has that many students available to organize on short notice."

Elsewhere in Asia, the student-politics picture is different.

In Japan, the Zengakuren is but a shadow of a once powerful student federation. In 1960 it headed the move that brought down a government and forced the cancellation of a visit by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

DEMONSTRATIONS

The Zengakuren — the Japanese abbreviation for Federation of Student Self Government Association — spearheaded days of riotous-demonstrations against ratification of the Japan-U.S. security treaty. At that time it could send thousands of howling, snake-dancing students into the streets.

Since those days, the Zengakuren has split into several factions. The divisions involve Marxist philosophy, the Moscow-Peking controversy and other arguments that have greatly weakened it. It still claims a membership of 300,000 but this is generally not considered accurate.

Also exerting a moderating influence has been a firmer line taken by authorities. Japanese police, who in 1960 generally exhibited a kid glove treatment toward demonstrators, have shown a sterner side.

Banner-waving, slogan-chanting columns still file down the streets of Tokyo and other cities on occasion as part of a Japanese way of life, but these shows generally are orderly processions. The main reasons probably are continuing prosperity and a lack of emotional issues. A change in either situation could again set off the black-uniformed Japanese student.

In the Philippines, where politics is the national pastime, students for the most part are content to leave it to their elders.

In Thailand, the younger generation has become increasingly emancipated in recent years but have stopped short of politics. Thai students are rarely heard outside the class room.

In Indonesia, students play a carefully directed role as part of the youth wing of the National Front, President Sukarno's concept grouping all walks of Indonesian life.

Students in Jakarta may turn out to demonstrate in front of the U.S. Embassy or they may demand expulsion of British business interests. When they do take such action, all moves are closely controlled by the Sukarno government.

While hardly on speaking terms with Indonesia, Nationalist China also goes in for government-sponsored student organizations that can be turned out to chant slogans for the Taipei regime. There is no spontaneous activity or uncontrolled student role in political life.

The range of the Asian student's political role thus reaches from the violence of Viet Nam to orderly discipline elsewhere.

Water Vital To Arizona's Life--Goldwater Joins Fight

By HARRISON B. HUMPHRIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater and his Arizona colleague, Sen. Carl Hayden, a Democrat, are fighting in Congress to get $1 billion in federal money for a giant irrigation and power project in Arizona.

Is this a contradiction for Goldwater, now the Republican presidential nominee, who is campaigning for less federal government, and is in favor of the break-up of the Tennessee Valley Authority?

Not at all, in the Goldwater view. He sees the Central Arizona Project as essentially a reclamation project, which he considers a valid federal concern.

TVA, he says, began as a reclamation project that would "sell a little power on the side," but has grown to a point that "83 per cent of TVA's investment is in power and it is one of the largest single power systems under one ownership in the country."

The Central Arizona Project, both he and Hayden hold, is based on water conservation, a vital matter to vast areas of the West.

SOLONS TEAMED

The two senators, while on different sides of the political fence, teamed up on June 4, 1963, to introduce the Central Arizona Project bill in the Senate. This was the day after the Supreme Court upheld Arizona's claim to 2.8-million acre feet of water annually from the Colorado river in an 11-year-old lawsuit against California.

With California water interests still battling to protect the Colorado River water they are now using or to get a substitute supply from elsewhere, the Senate Interior Committee recently approved an amended Hayden-Goldwater bill to incorporate the Central Arizona Project in the first phase of a southwest regional water development plan.

The amended bill, which would authorize projects totaling $1.3 billion in Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada, still has Hayden-Goldwater backing. Aides said Goldwater considers it the single most important piece of legislation he has sponsored in his 12 years in Congress.

The Central Arizona Project, estimated to cost $1.1 billion, is designed to bring 1.2 million acre feet of Colorado River water annually to the Phoenix-Tucson area. An acre-foot is the volume of water needed to cover an acre of ground one foot deep, or about 325,850 gallons.

In central Arizona, underground water is being pumped out at a rate four times its natural recharge. The overdraft is estimated at 2.2 million acre feet annually.

WATER KEY

"Since the beginning of recorded time the six civilizations which my part of the Southwest has known have either flourished or died through the availability or the lack of water," Goldwater told the Senate Interior Committee at a hearing on his bill last October. "The present population of Arizona is no different.

"The future of Arizona depends to a great extent on the completion of the Central Arizona Project, and without this source of water it is entirely possible that Arizonians may some day find themselves in the same predicament as civilizations before them which were forced from the land through lack of water."

The bill would authorize two more giant dams on the Colorado River between Hoover Dam and the new Glen Canyon Dam on the Arizona-Utah border. Bridge Canyon Dam, 740 feet high, would generate 4.9 billion kilowatt hours of electricity per year. Marble Canyon Dam, 310 feet above stream bed, would generate 2.3 billion kilowatt hours annually.

Water would be taken from the Colorado River near Parker Dam. It would be pumped 969 feet over mountains, then flow by gravity through a 220-mile aqueduct into central Arizona. Additional canals and dams would provide water for Pinal County and Tucson.

Two-thirds of the water would be supplied to land already under irrigation from well water. The remainder would go for municipal and industrial use.

Irrigation water would be sold for $10 an acre foot; municipal water for $45 an acre foot — not enough to repay for the project. After supplying energy to operate project pumps, power from the dams would be sold at 6 mills per kilowatt hour to repay in 50 years the cost of the dams and transmission lines, with interest, and to help farmers repay the cost of the irrigation features, without interest. After the payout the power revenues would go into a fund to help pay for other water developments.

PROJECTS IN PROPOSAL

Lumped into the proposed regional development is the $28-million Hooker Dam irrigation project in New Mexico and a $72-million municipal water supply project for the Las Vegas, Nev., area.

Project costs which the federal treasury would not expect to recover total $96.4 million assigned to such public purposes as recreation, fish and wildlife enhancement, flood control and area redevelopment.

Although determined by Reclamation Bureau engineers to be economically and engineeringly feasible, the Central Arizona Project has failed to win full-scale Johnson administration endorsement. In its latest communication to Congress in April, the Budget Bureau said both the Central Arizona Project and the Southwest regional water plan raise "a number of serious questions" which will "benefit from review and criticism by the Congress and the people of the region, and from the continuing review which is going forward within the administration.

Goldwater has emphasized that the people of Arizona and its bipartisan delegation in Congress are united behind the Central Arizona Project to save the state's existing economy.

He told the Senate Interior Committee that during all the years the project was stalled awaiting the outcome of the Supreme Court litigation "we have supported wholeheartedly projects in other states, whether they be lower basin or upper basin."

Goldwater supported the $800-million upper Colorado River storage project consisting of mainstream power dams to produce revenues for water delivery facilities in Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

But he has frequently opposed what he considers unfair competition with the free enterprise system and expressed concern over the growth of the federal role in the electric power business.

In a Senate speech last year, Goldwater criticized the Interior Department for opposing before the Federal Power Commission the grant of a license to Pacific Northwest Power Co. for the high Mountain Sheep Dam on the Snake River in Idaho on grounds the site should be reserved for federal development.

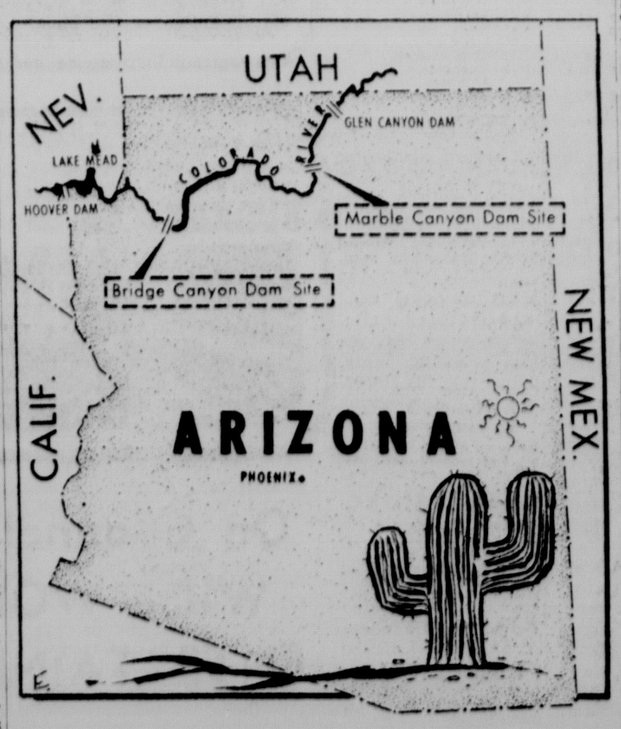

POINT OF CONCERN

"One of my great concerns is for the Central Arizona Project in my native state," he said. "We desperately need water for continuing development. It is going to be expensive to bring additional water into Arizona. That we all know. But where is the money coming from for that development if the Interior Department and the Bureau (of Reclamation) are going to continue seeking huge appropriations from the federal treasury to construct power projects?"

In advocating last November that steam power generation and fertilizer production facilities of the Tennessee Valley Authority should be sold to private investors or the states, Goldwater said the TVA had gone far beyond its original purpose of harnessing the Tennessee River for navigation and flood control, and had become one of the largest single power systems under one ownership in the country.

He said many resource development programs, such as flood control, navigation and irrigation, call for federal-state efforts.

"This is true of irrigation work in the West," Goldwater added, "and that is why I support the Central Arizona Project."

AS INSPIRATIONAL LEADERS

China Seeking To Eclipse Moscow

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China is bidding to eclipse Moscow as the inspiration of revolutionaries and power-hungry opportunists in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

The Peking thrusts, bold and uninhibited, have produced a head - on clash. The Chinese accuse Soviet leadership of challenging their right to spearhead revolution in those areas.

Strong Chinese intrusion, particularly in sub-Sahara Africa, has complicated already confused situations and made the struggle over the continent's future a three-sided cold war.

Chinese propaganda preaches the doctrine that armed violence is the only way to revolution. To men thirsting for power, this is more attractive than the idea of slower evolutionary development, or the ponderous clumsiness of a Soviet penetration reminiscent of Victorian imperialism.

In Asia, the Chinese have captured the loyalty of the great majority of Communist leaders except in India, which has special problems with China.

In Latin America, the collapse of Communist hopes to gain power in Chile through electoral processes has aroused bitterness among extreme Communist and Castroite elements and has given new impetus to the doctrine of protracted armed warfare. But the Chinese interference in Latin America may be damaging the world Communist cause by frightening other elements into common action against the threat of violence.

In Africa, Chinese influence is a source of concern to the United States and Britain, but it is at the same time a sore trial to the Russians. The Kremlin has labored for footholds on the continent, which Moscow seems to regard as a decisive sector in the cold war struggle.

The All-China Youth Federation says Moscow has "made unbridled attacks" on Chinese activities among youth in underdeveloped countries. A letter to the Soviet youth organization, the Komsomol, contended these activities dealt "direct and most powerful blows at imperialism headed by the United States," but that the Russians were hostile to this "simply because politically these regional activities are anti-imperialist and do not follow your baton."

Indeed, Chinese activity has complicated Soviet policy planning on Africa. The Chinese industriously spread the word that Soviet economic aid in the dark continent is dangerous to new countries because it helps maintain "reactionary" governments. To revolutionaries, a reactionary government could be any regime trying to keep itself in power.

TOOLS OF REVOLUTION

Peking propaganda insists "revolution cannot be exported." But agitation, agents, propaganda and money — tools of revolution — can be. Peking's efforts in the underdeveloped world look like this:

Latin America

Chinese infiltration of personnel and money may be nominal but the Chinese line has captivated many among the extreme left elements. Experts say much propaganda, matching and echoing that of Castro's Cuba, pours into Latin America calling for armed revolution, guerrilla warfare and constant violent pressure on established regimes.

Eduardo Gallegos Mancera, a Venezuelan Communist Politburo member, visited Peking in August and was lionized there. He echoed the Chinese view that only violence pays off and paraphrased Mao Tze-tung by saying that "only through the barrel of a gun can we compel U.S. imperialism to give up Venezuela." Venezuela is expecting new trouble from armed Communist-led guerrillas. Gallegos Mancera has pledged them to "protracted guerrilla warfare in the rural areas and armed struggle in the cities."

Africa:

Established governments and Western experts accuse the Red Chinese of supplying money, propaganda and other revolutionary equipment to restless elements.

Red Chinese inspiration is evident in the rebel movement of the Congo (Leopoldville), where insurrectionary forces have proclaimed a "People's Republic" at Stanleyville, with a man who now calls himself Comrade Christophe Gbenye as president. His army calls itself the People's Liberation Army, also in the Red Chinese style.

In the neighboring Brazzaville Congo, a "National Liberation Council" helps direct the Stanleyville-based rebellion. Leopoldville Premier Moise Tshombe charges that Chinese Communists both in Brazzaville Congo and Burundi are directly involved in fomenting the rebellion.

In Malawi, formerly Nyasaland, Prime Minister Hastings Banda recently accused Peking of offering some of his ministers a $50-million loan in exchange for diplomatic recognition.

CAME UNDER FIRE

In Kenya, Chinese diplomats came under fire for issuing statements denouncing the Americans and the Tshombe government of the Congo. Mar of the Kenya African Democratic Union, said the Chinese openly supported the Congo rebels and were capable of similar activity in Kenya.

Peking propaganda pours into Africa proclaiming enthusiastic support for a variety of what it calls "National Liberation Movements" in places like Portuguese Angola, Portuguese Guinea, Mozambique and other areas.

Asia:

There is little room left for doubt that so far as Communists are concerned, Peking calls the tune in Asia. Most Communists side with the Chinese there. The Japanese party has systematically purged pro-Moscow elements, and now is joining with the powerful Indonesian party in sticking verbal needles into the hide of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

BOOKS

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Major Book Is Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The most significant book received during the past week in the field of fiction is "The Bells of Bicetre" written by Simenon and translated by Jean Stewart. This book shows the effect of stroke on a man in the prime of life. With clinical precision, Simenon charts the illness and recovery. Maugras, the hero recovers, but he is never the same as before. This is a deeply compassoniate book and one for the thoughtful reader. There are two new mysteries in this week's additions; "The Departure of Mr. Gaudette," written by Doris Miles Disney and "Death of a Skin Diver" by Jay simon.

The field of non-fiction continues to offer a variety of material. "The War on Poverty" by Senator Hubert Humphrey gives the view of the national administration and should be interesting reading at this time. "Communism in Our World" written by John C. Caldwell is a book which should be required reading by everyone who takes the communist threat lightly. "The Angel and the Serpent," written by William E. Wilson is an account of the experiment in communal living carried on in the 19th century in New Harmony, Indiana. "Life Beyond the Earth" by Valdemar Firsoff is a study of what forms of life we might expect to find in outer space. It is not a book of science fiction, but is a serious scientific study.

"Myths of Madness" written by Donald D. Jackson is a most interesting study of mental illness and discusses some of the current myths about mental illness. "Lives In Distress" written by Majorie Fiske Lowenthal is a heartbreaking study of the lives of elderly people confined to the psychiatric wards of large hospitals.

A new book in the gardening field is "For Better Gardens" by Roland A. Browne. It contains much new information. "Modern Marketing Strategy" by Edward Bursk should be useful to businessmen and to students who are taking marketing courses. A perfectly lovely small book is "Lace" written by L. W. Meulen-Bulle. It is a history of the art of lace-making and will be useful also as a book of costume.

The literature collection has had several additions this week. "A Marianne Moore Reader" is a collection of the prose and poetry of this versatile modern writer. "The Devil And The Lady and Unpublished Early Poems" is a new book of the works of Alfred Lord Tennyson. "A Moveable Feast" by Ernest Hemingway is a very fine account of his life in Paris and contributes much to our understanding of the literary world of that city. "The Wild Duck and Other Plays" is a new collection of the work of Henrik Ibsen. A most intereting book on the psychology of war and famous battles is "The Face Of War" written by John Laffin.

Travellers will be interested in the fact that we now have new editions of the Mobil travel guides of the United States. One is a guide of the "Northeastern States." Another guide deals with "The Southwest And South Central Area." There is one for "The Great Lakes Area" and for "Northwest And Great Plains States" and for California And The West." There are two interesting books in the field of history, "The Making of Modern Mexico," by Frank Brandenburg and "Hayes: The Dairy of a President," edited by T. Harry Williams. Last of all there is a new biography of one of the great American folk heros, "Kit Carson," written by Noel B. Gerson.

Remember that the main library will be open for service this afternoon and all Sunday afternoons, except in holiday periods from 2:00 to 5:00.

Wodehouse's New Novel Is Interesting

Biffen's Millions, by P. G. Wodehouse (Simon & Schuster $4.50): Wodehouse's 68th novel, brought out in his 62nd year of publishing, it as light and entertaining as any of its predecessors. It has most of the ingredients usually found in summer vacation literature: a Paris - London setting, a cast of handsome young characters, a mild mystery, an inheritance, the police and a round of marriages at the end to show that all ends well. Biffen is the nickname of a young American newspaperman, adrift in Paris and penniless, who discovers he has inherited the millions of his American godfather, a man whose life he once saved. But to get the inheritance, he must avoid being arrested until his 30th birthday — a matter of a few weeks. This might seem an easy qualification for most people, but Biff was prone to popping policemen on the nose while drunk, and prone to getting drunk. The plot thus revolves around the efforts of his friends to keep him dry and his enemies to get him wet and in trouble. There is a lot of pants - swiping and other comic action before the final scene of happy marriages, mirth, and millions.

Business Briefs

CLINIC SCHEDULED

A clinic, sponsored by the Southern Hardware Company, Ltd., on Skil Power Tools and related items will be held at the Ouachita Valley Vocational School Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m.

John P. Noel, sales manager, said live demonstrations of modern electric and air operated tools will be presented at the clinic under direction of a Skil factory representative. In addition to students at the vocational school, others who are interested are invited.

TRAINING CLINIC

Seven Monroe area oilmen, volunteer members of the Louisiana Petroleum Council, will attend a one-day training clinic in Monroe Tuesday to acquaint them with educational materials they will present to junior-senior high schools.

The Monroe training clinic is one of five being held in Louisiana. Handling the clinics will be Shelby Smith, Texaco, who is state school chairman for the Council and Jack Francis, associate director of the LPC.

Receiving instruction will be J. R. Aumiller, Texaco; J. H. Lowin, Continental; Sam Harrington, Southwest Gas; Edward Davis, Schlumberger; K. I. Neely, Cities Service; B. W. Beasley, Gulf and Gordon Wiggins, California Company.

WINS FAIR TRIP

Mrs. Ethel Newport, 1100 South 4th Street. Registered Corsetiere in this area for Spencer, Inc., has just returned from a visit to the Company Home Office in New Haven, Conn., and to the New York World's Fiar.

BELGRADE (UPI) — Communist East German Chief of State Walter Ulbricht arrived by air Saturday from Sfia to begin a 24-hour "private" visit.

Harvey Spruill Of St. Joseph Dies; Rites Set

ST. JOSEPH (Special) — Harvey Lee Spruill, 52, of St. Joseph, Tensas Parish game warden, died Friday night in a Newellton hospital following a heart attack.

Funeral services will be today at 2 p.m. at the St. Joseph Baptist Church with the Rev. Glenn Evans officiating. Burial will be in Legion Memorial Cemetery at Newellton with Masonic rites at the grave under the direction of Crothers Funeral Home of Tallulah.

A native of Hughes, Ark., he had resided in Tensas Parish since childhood. Mr. Spruill was a member of the Baptist Church of St. Joseph and Masonic Lodge, No. 309.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. H. L. Spruill; two daughters, Mrs. Willie Mae Matthews and Mrs. Carolyn Pankey, both of St. Joseph; his mother, Mrs. Finous Spruill of St. Joseph; two brothers, W. A. Spruill of Ferriday and J. C. Spruill of Batchelor; two sisters, Mrs. Lee Woods of Ruston and Mrs. Jewel Moore of Mobile, Ala. and three grandchildren.

Pallbearers are Sam Hanna, James St. Julian, Johnny Hawkes, Ernest Hestle, Bill Poe, Bill Goodfellow, Albert Vincent Lowery and Richard Barnes.

Quotations Are Awaited Very Eagerly

Contemporary Quotations, compiled by James B. Simpson (Crowell $6.95): Here is a collection of memorable remarks made between 1950 and 1964 by famous men and women engaged in a variety of professions and occupations. A sort of latter-day Bartlett's the quotations range from the witty and facetious to the profound and are arranged under subject and source headings. Samples: "I always considered statesmen to be more expendable than soldiers" . . . Harry Truman in a letter to his mother and sister a few weeks after becoming President. "I'm for each and against none." . . . Dwight Eisenhower on potential 1964 Republican candidates. "I know that when things don't go well they like to blame the Presidents, and that is one of the things which Presidents are paid for." . . . John F. Kennedy at a presidential news conference in 1962. "I've been on a calendar, but never on time." . . . Marilyn Monroe. "Grumbling is the death of love." . . . Marlene Dietrich. "An atheist is a man who has no invisble means of support." . . . Fulton Sheen. A fine reference book as well as a stimulating guide to sharp verbiage.

POPULAR RECORDS

Until the commercial development of hi-fi and stereo sound was achieved, the pipe organ was regarded as just another musical instrument.

But the revolution in sound has given the pipe organ the chance to sound its true voice — and it is a formidable one with a range that no other instrument can approach.

"The Mighty Pipe Organ" by Richard Ellsasser (Kapp KL-1404, is a fine record in itself. It also is an ideal LP for checking out of bass speakers and amplifying equipment.

In "March of the Siamese Children" from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The King and I," the bass drops to such a low range that it will cause a pleasant vibration in furniture even in concrete - floor basements.

Improvements in sound techniques also have helped the electric organ gain a more respectable place. The electric organ fell into disrepute in the soap opera days of radio because it was the cheapest instrument available and its blaring, raucous tones sometimes distressed listeners.

But now good equipment can filter out the flat sounds and let the high and low notes come through clearly. Lennie Dee, Ethel Smith and others have enjoyed success with their records and now we have a new musician, Richard "Groove" Holmes who is advertised as "the greatest jazz organist of our time" on "Book of the Blues, Vol. 1" (Warner Bros. 1553). Holmes is excellent at the console.

Selected Singles — "P.S. I Love You" by The Platters (Mercury 72305), "Liebskummer Lohnt Sich Nicht" by Siw Malmkvist (Jay-Gee 45-100), "All Mixed Up" by Johnny Sea (Philips 40214), "I Don't Care" by Buck Owens (Capitol 5240), "I Gotta Know" by Ronny and Peggy (Limelight Y-3032).

Return Trip — "Hallelujah . . . Louis Jordan Is Back!" (Tangerine TRC-1503) is a most welcome LP because it marks the return of one of the happiest bandleaders of all time. Jordan has the same old vitality that made him a favorite in the 1930's.

LP's of the Week—Mono: "Vaughn Monroe's Greatest Hits, Vol. 2" (Dot DLP 3584). Old Muscle Throat is still in good form. Stereo: "Golden Favorites" by Woody Herman (Decca DL-74484). Teen-agers may be able to work "frug" and other modern routines to the fox - trotting of Herman, especially on his trademark, "Woodchopper's Ball."

May West Sick With Exhaustion

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — May West, buxom blonde film star who became famous as "Diamond Lil," is being treated for nervous exhaustion at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, a hospital spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said Miss West entered the hospital last Thursday as Beverly West. He said her condition is good, but that she will remain hospitalized for medical observation for an unspecified time.

Another spokesman said she had first been placed in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Miss West, 72, was in the news last week when she filed suit against a singer, Marie Lind, who had billed herself as "Diamond Lil." Miss West said in Superior Court that the name belongs to her, since it was she who made it famous. The trial has not been completed.

ROUNDUP ON BOOKS

Various Writings Are Interesting

A Coffin for King Charles, by C. V. Wedgwood (Macmillan $5.95): It was raining in London when King Charles I was brought back to his capital for trial and execution and this close-up history of the events is so skillfully told that the reader can almost hear the rain fall on the cobblestone streets. Miss Wedgwood does not take undue liberties in her re-creation of 17th century scenes — her narrative is well-documented by contemporary accounts, and she weighs each account and its author for prejudice and truthfulness. The story of the king's trial and execution is dramatic both on the national and personal level. These were important days for England's future, when a king was being punished for waging war on his people, and when ideas of social equality were being developed in the ranks of Oliver Cromwell's army. But the strongest impression the book leaves is of the personal courage and tenacity of the king, who refused to recognize the authority of his judges, refused to make deals with his victors, and paid with his life. It is not a defense of the king; his arrogance and mistakes are clearly told. But the old records make plain that the trial was his finest hour.

The Third Day, by Joseph Hayes (McGraw-Hill $4.95): There aren't many novel ways of telling a who-dunit. But Hayes, who scored previously with "The Desperate Hours" and the Joseph Cotten play, "Calculated Risk," has hit on one in "The Third Day." The hero finds himself on a rainy fall morning in front of New York's Hotel Plaza. Finds himself, literally, for although the Plaza's doorman seems to recognize him, he doesn't know who he is, himself. From this beginning in amnesia, the hero works himself back through a tortuous trek in psychology which uncovers a big business intrigue in his not - too - sheltered family circle, marital brinksmanship on the edge of divorce and a hushed-up scandal that turns out to be murder. With his device of putting his hero in the same position as his reader—that of not knowing anything about the plot until it evolves and reasoning it out chapter by chapter — Hayes establishes that he is a superb story-teller and a master of the craft of literary construction.

Scouts In Action

The first Den Mother's Workshop of the new scouting year was held Thursday, at the Julia Wossman Recreation Center. The program simulated a typical Cub Scout den meeting from the opening, The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, through the various parts of a meeting.

Mrs. Ellen Fant, games chairman, led the Den Mothers in various games which would be of interest to Cub Scouts. Discussion topics included the Cub Scout uniform, places of interest for October trips, sources for additional material, and a display of hand puppets portraying the October theme, "Animals in Stories" which were made by Mrs. Jackie Azold and Mrs. Emmie Hunnicutt.

Special mention was made of the Cub Scout Pow-Wow which will be held on Saturday, October 17, at the Jewish Synagogue on Orell Place. All Cub units are urged to plan in participating in the several areas the Pow-Wow will feature.

Den Mothers were asked by the chairman to try to bring their Cub Scouts to the gun clinic to be held on Saturday, September 26 at the Bancroft Camp.

Packs represented and den mothers present at the Workshop were: Mrs. Darlyn Bridges, Mrs. Robert Clouatre, Mrs. James R. Whitaker, Mrs. Armond Lively and Mrs. Ellen Fant, Pack 174, West Monroe; Mrs. W. P. Elliott Jr., Mrs. F. S. Roberts and Mrs. H. J. Jowers, Pack 37, West Monroe; Mrs. James Frandsen, Pack 30; Mrs. R. D. Olsan, Mrs. D. E. Tisdale and Mrs. E. E. Epler, Pack 232; Mrs. W. K. Harris, Pack 29; Mrs. W. A. Walters, Pack 127 and Mrs. L. A. Hunnicutt, Pack 31.

Fall Roundups to be held this week will be: Pack 29 on Thursday, September 24, 7:30 p.m. at Temple B'Nai Israel, Orell and Park Ave.; Pack 31 (Georgia Tucker School boys) on Thursday, September 24 at the Telephone Company on Tower St. at 7 p.m. All parents and boys wishing to be in either of these Cub Scout packs are urged to be present as well as families already participating in the pack.

The first series of three den mothers's training sessions will be held the first three Thursdays of October at 9 a.m. the Boy Scout Office on N. 6th and Stubbs Ave. All new den mothers as well as den mothers not having completed a training session are invited to be present.

Frost Letters Will Be Liked By Top Readers

Selected letters of Robert Frost, edited by Lawrance Thompson (Holt, Rinehart and Winston $10): Frost never wrote an autobiography but this collection of letters comes close enough to self - revelation. Thompson, a professor of English at Princeton University, old friend and authorized biographer of Frost, made this selection of 566 letters from 1500 examined. It contains correspondence to 123 people and letters to Frost from friends and others, and presents a rounded picture of the poet's professional and personal life. Those who know Frost only through his tender, humorous and generally cheerful poetry may be surprised to learn from these letters that he was often gloomy, sulky and sometimes vindictive. Frost suffered from feelings of failure during most of his life, which probably accounted for his insatiable appetite for honor and applause when his late - arriving success assured both. Thompson now is working on a two-volume biography of Frost.

Writer Recounts Memories Of Past, Present

Girl from Fitchburg, by Bernardine Kielty Scherman (Random House $3.95): It was back in 1908 when Bernardine Keilty first came to New York from Fitchburg, Mass. Fresh from college she took a job in the big city and has been there ever since, working, bringing up her family, visiting with friends in the theater and publishing worlds and now in this book — reminiscing. Since she loves New York, has had a busy and fruitful life and remembers a great deal about it, her recollections are interesting and of course, nostalgic. With considerable skill and warmth Mrs. Scherman recounts her memories of the days before World War I, then the madcap 20's, the depression - ridden 30's, and on to the present. But it is the backward glances at the earlier days that are most appealing and impart to the book much of its charm.

Wild Lives Of Africa

"Wild Lives of Africa," by Juliette Huxley (Harper & Row $5.95): Lady Huxley accompanied her husband, Sir Julian Huxley, on a tour of south, east and central Africa which he undertook for UNESCO on behalf of conservation possibilities of wild life there. She was so impressed with what she saw and learned that she was sure others would be too. So she wrote a book about the trip, the scenery, the plants and the people, but mostly about the animals. She has effectively captured the African scene in this absorbing account.

Italian Inquires Into State Action On Art Stealings

ROME (AP) — The Italian government was asked Saturday what it plans to do to stop a recent wave of art thefts described as involving more priceless paintings and sculptures than the Germans took out of Italy in all World War II.

The demand, made in Parliament by Socialist deputy Mario Berlinguer, was touched off by the carefully plotted haul last Monday night of 16 paintings by Italian Renaissance masters from a gallery in a Rome villa of Prince Alessandro Torlonia, perhaps Italy's richest man.

Estimates of the value of the paintings by Raphael, Guidot Reni, Ribera, Andrea Mantegna and other masters ranged from $320,000 to a million dollars. Prince Torlonia himself called some of the stolen canvases priceless.

Berlinguer asked the government to reply in Parliament to his demand:

"What is going to be done about it, considering that in the last three years these thefts have amounted to a thousand paintings and sculptures; that is, more than all those taken away by the Germans in the last war."

Berlinguer said urgent action was needed "because a large part of the stolen art is taken outside Italy, to the inestimable damage of our most precious artistic and cultural partrimony."

Northeast State Drops Opener To Delta's Statemen By 7-6

Rugged Defensive Battle For NLSC

CLEVELAND (Special) — Northeast State dropped its season opener, 7-6, to Delta State here Saturday night in a football game dominated almost completely by defense and a pair of "four yard and a cloud of dust" offenses.

The game's deciding point was kicked with 8:52 left in the second period when Payne Spence booted the extra point following the Delta touchdown. With almost five minutes gone in the third period, Northeast lost its chance for a tie when freshman Nick LaBarbera's kick was low on the PAT attempt.

Northeast did not threaten seriously again in the game although the Indians had a promising drive stopped by a fumble midway of the fourth period.

The Indians had the best of the statistics, if that was any consolation. Coach Dixie White's Tribesmen gained 212 yards on the ground to 150 for the Statesmen. Delta had 12 first downs and Northeast 11.

In the passing department, both teams were rather terrible. Northeast was the most futile of the two, failing to complete a pass in five attempts while Detla did manage to connect on one of seven for eight yards. However, good rushes and effective work by the defensive backs had a lot to do with the poor passing statistics.

YARDSTICK	Northeast	Delta
FD	11	12
Yards rushing	212	150
Yarsd passing	0	8
Passes (A-C)	5-0	7-1
Passes Intc. by	1	2

Delta State scored first in the contest. The Statesmen started a drive on their own 17 and went 83 yards, all of it on the ground, getting 15 yards on a foul penalty against the Indians. Fullback George Chesser went the final yard with a dive over the middle. Spence kicked the point with 8:52 left in the period.

Northeast had threaten in the first period, starting on the Delta 37 after end Don McCrary caught a Donnie Dick fumble in mid-air. The drive ended when Johnny Garrison was pulled down on the 17, two yards shy of a first down. That's when Delta began its scoring drive.

Early in the third period, Delta punted to Alton Thomas on the Northeast 26 and he ran it back to the Tribe 42. The Indians then marched to their touchdown, gaining almost all of its yardage on bursts by the quarterback and fullback up a newly discovered soft spot in the Delta midsection.

Dee Faircloth started the drive with a six yard pickup, then fullback Devone Payne got 11 for a first down. Payne picked up seven and quarterback Faircloth five for another first. Payne got eight more before an offside penalty against Delta moved the chains again. Payne picked up another two before Thomas swept wide for 13 yards and almost a touchdown. He was chased out of bounds on the one and Faircloth sneaked it across with 10:15 left in the quarter.

LaBarbera's kick was low.

Early in the fourth quarter after taking a Steve Regan punt, Delta State threatened, moving from its 43 to the Northeast 19 before Thomas intercepted a Mike Vincent pass at the seven and returned it to the 10.

With 8:23 left in the game Northeast began a drive that was promising, briefly. Garrison did most of the damage on the drive. After Lynn Mitchell got four yards on the first play, he picked up one and swept wide for 14 and a first down.

Garrison got another yard and then headed for the wide open spaces again, picking up 19 and a first down on the Northeast 49. But then Devone Payne fumbled and Delta center Van Ellis fell on the ball at the Delta 49.

Northeast got the ball one more time but didn't have much luck. It lost five yards on an illegal procedure penalty. Garrison got two yards and then a Faircloth pass was intercepted by Eddie Collins. Delta State ran out the clock.

Garrison was the game's leading ground gainer. He picked up 105 yards on his rambling sweeps around end while Alton Thomas was second with 26 yards on five carries. Garrison had 17 trips.

Chesser led the Statesmen with 68 in 19 carries. Butch Caston, former Istrouma halfback, was second for the winners with 29 yards in 12 trips.

Scoring Summary:

Northeast	0	0	6	0—6
Delta State	0	7	0	0—7

Delta State — Chesser, 1 yard run. Spence kick

Northeast — Faircloth, 1 yard run. Kick failed.

Grambling Tops Alcorn A&M In Season Opener

GRAMBLING (Special) — Given some dis-quieting moments in the opening stanza, Coach Eddie Robinson brought up his line-busting brigade into the breach in the second quarter Saturday night to grind out a 32-14 victory over stubborn Alcorn A&M.

Grambling was entirely too ruthless and had too much cohesion for the Braves who blundered in the cumbersome downfield traffic.

Ineffectual and disorganized in the early stages, the Tigers erupted for three quick touchdowns enroute to the top-heavy score.

Henry Dyer and Goldie Sellers, a Monroe junior, provided the cushion offensive maneuvers. Dyer scored on a two yard buck before Sellers and Eddie Robinson Jr., collabrated on a 56 yard T.D. pass. Sellers raced eight yards for the third score.

With heavy worry-line etched on the forehead of Coach Mario Casem, Alcorn staged a determined second-half comeback seemingly having reached the limit of its power of resistance.

Richard Pickens scored the Braves first T.D. as Smith Reed rambled 68 yards with a pass thrown by Robin Martin.

Grambling executed two late touchdowns by a six yard smash by Dyer and a zig-zagging 68 yard run by Leroy Carter.

Houston Oilers Down Oakland

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Combining the passing of George Blanda with the brilliant running of rookie Sid Blanks, the reawakened Houston Oilers overpowered Oakland, 42-28, in an American Football League game Saturday night.

Blanks, a halfback from Texas A&I, took the ball an astounding 129 yards in six carries to lead the Oilers in ground gaining.

LOUISIANA STATE University halfback Joe Labruzzo, No. 22, does a bit of high stepping as he picks up yardage against Texas A&M. Following close on Labruzzo's heels is guard John Arron. Already bitting the dust in the foreground is A&M fullback Jerry Kachtik. (AP Wirephoto)

Block Punt, Kick Field Goal To Win

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana State, despite a healthy Pat Screen at his daring best, barely defeated Texas A. and M. 9 to 6 Saturday night. There was no question but what opening night miscues hampered the Tiger offensive effort.

Still the big question remained unanswered: How good are the Tigers this season. And on the basis of their performance against the Aggies, they are not as good as some had thought.

There were gaping defensive holes, particularly in the Chinese Bandit team, although the LSU White team sparkled most of the time. And despite Screen's brilliant performance, the offense was not sufficient to score a single touchdown.

BATON ROUGE, (AP)—Statistics of the Texas A&M-Louisiana State game:

	TEX A&M	LSU
First downs	14	14
Rushing yardage	166	166
Passing yardage	100	127
Passes	8-15	9-15
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	5-27.6	3-36.0
Fumbles lost	0	3
Yards penalized	40	45

The Tiger scores came on a blocked punt in the first period by tackle Mickey Cox of Monroe, and a 34-yard field goal by end Doug Moreau in the second.

The Aggies' touchdown came at the end of a long 81-yard drive late in the fourth period, capped by a two-yard scoring scamper by halfback Jim Stabler on third down. Larry Bates failed to convert.

Coach Charlie McClendon's offense, however, did show a new look and in time it may produce. He primarly used the I formation with flankers, and to the surprise of most, he used Moreau, normally an end, as a flanker back. He was Screen's favorite target throughout the night, taking in six for a total of 90 yards.

Screen, who was injured in the fourth game last season, and who was actually a question mark at the start of the game, turned out to be at his best.

He competed 8 of 12 tosses for 116 yards, and danced through the Aggies for another 67 on the ground.

Joe LaBruzzo, the only other LSU back to show much offensive dash, picked up 68 yards in 17 cracks at the Aggie line, most of it on swift sweeps. Fullback Donald Schwab, who apparently had been well-scouted by the Aggies, managed only 26 yards in 12 tries.

Ironically, the Tigers and Aggies picked up 166 yards each rushing and 14 first downs each. However, LSU edged A. and M. in total yardage 293 to 266, primarly on Screen's passing game.

Twice Screen was knocked to the ground and a gasp went up from the sellout crowd of 68,000 partisan fans, once when it appeared he would score, he was struck down by three Aggies at the A. and M. four, but he only had the wind knocked out of him. At that point he fumbled, with the Aggies recovering.

Then in the second period, the New Orleans flash picked up 15 yards, after he had raced almost 75 total, in a weaving display of broken-field running. He fell to the ground, but was only exhausted.

As the game opened, it appeared the Tigers might run away with the game. With Screen and Labruzzo running and passing, the Tigers wheeled to the A. and M. 48 in quick order, but here Labruzzo fumbled and the Aggies recovered.

A few minutes later the Tigers, with Screen hitting Moreau twice, moved to the Aggie 10. From there Screen swung to his left and appeared headed for touchdown zone when he was hit and stopped short of paydict.

The Aggies couldn't go and on the punt, Cox charged in, blocked it and recovered for the lone LSU score. Moreau failed to convert, his first miss in 16 attemps. Moreau, however made up for it with a field goal in the second period when he booted a 34-yarder after the LSU attack had bogged down.

The heart-breaking play for the Tigers came in the third on a beautifully executed play. From his own 49, Screen hit Moreau on the Aggie 30. Moreau grabbed the ball, blasted by two Aggies tacklers, and moved inside the 10 where he fumbled after a vicious tackle. The Aggies end Rickey Whatley, a defensive thorn in the side of the Tigers all night, recovered at the one.

LSU headed goalward a short time later, aided by 10 and 13 yard passes by Screen, but the Aggies held this time at the 20. This was LSU's last major threat, and the Tigers seemed to wilt in the steaming 75-degree heat, but the Aggies came on strong.

In the second period, they had driven to the Tiger 13 where a fourth - down pass to the end zone flashed over the receiver's head to end the threat.

The Aggies swarmed to the Tiger 21 in the third, but could move no deeper. But they were not to be denied. Late in the fourth, primarily on the passing of quarterback Dan McIlhany, they moved to the two yard line, from where Stabler blasted over.

LSU's new punter, Gerald Brown from Richland, N. C., showed well, although the Tigers had to punt only three times. He ended up with a 36-point average, although one rolled deal on the Aggie two. Two of the Tigers players from Monroe showed well. The were Cox, and Don Ellen. Both were credited with several good blocks and tackles.

McIlhany, the Aggies No. 1 quarterback, didn't do too badly in the air, completing 7 of 13 for 96 yards. Dan Westerfield was their best ground gainer, picking up 30 yards in one effort.

One of McIlhany's passes was picked off by Beau Colle, who plays defensive end on the Bandit team.

After the game was over and in the dressing room, Coach McClendon confirmed Cox blocked the punt which set up LSU's touchdown.

Then he added, "We are real thankful to have won the game on top of all the mistakes we made. You can't give up the football as much as we did and expect to do any better. But I want to compliment Texas A and M."

Aggie Coach Hank Foldberg said, "We have a good football team, but we made critical mistakes. LSU has a good passer and a good catcher who is hard to cover in that pro style offense. Pat Screen is a great one."

Tech Rallies To Top Wildcats

PINEVILLE (Special) — Louisiana Tech wore down a stubborn Louisiana College outfit here Saturday night and pushed over a fourth period touchdown and two-point conversion to edge the Wildcats, 8-7.

More than 7,000 fans watched as the Techmen were thwarted on three scoring opportunities in the first half as the Baptist defense repeatedly held off the Canines.

The expected passing duel did not materialize in the scoreless first half but the Cats cut loose with a barrage after intermission.

Bob Boisvert pitched 20 yards to Stan Douglas, 35 yards to Dave Brockmeyer and then hit end Brockmeyer with a seven yard payoff strike. David Corley kicked the extra point.

This was a battle of fullbacks. Except for a 45 yard burst in the first period, Tech handled little All-American Corley well. He wound up with 70 yards on 12 and was practically all the Wildcat ground offense.

Junior Gerald McDowell was the Tech workhorse. He gained 91 yards on 22 trips with the ball. The elusive sophomore Alden Reeves got 54 yards on 11 carries for the Techsters.

The bright spot against Louisiana College was Tech's ground game. Tech got 194 yards rushing, more in one game than in many moons.

After La. College took the lead, Tech really wen to work. Early in the fourth quarter defensive safety Jim Stringer picked off a Boisvert pass at the Tech 35 and returned to the Tech 48.

Reeves and McDowell hammered at the Cat line with McDowell getting off runs of nine, 19, eight and one yard before plunging into the end zone from the two. Reeves picked up 13 yards in the drive.

Tech used the air game conservatively. Billy Laird hit on nine of 16 passes for 68 yards. Boisvert wound up with six of 15 for 75 yards.

After the Tech TD, Larid went for the two-point conversion rolling out and hitting flanker Corky Corkern with what turned out to be the winning pitch.

Tech's defense, except for letting Corley loose once, eas excellent. The Dogs held the Pineville crew to 64 yards on the ground.

Tech knocked at the door early in the first quarter when Reeves intercepted a pass at the La. College and returned to the 10. Three plays got it to the one but McDowell was thrown for a four yard loss on a forth down end sweep attempt.

Shortly thereafter, a La. College punt went out to their its 36. Tech got down to 18 before Laird missed on a fourth down and one quarterback sneak.

The Techsters also drove down to the La. College 10 once only to be halted by an interception at that point.

Ends Speedy Campbell and Maurice Greer were line standouts in rushing the Cat passers along with big tackle James Boureaux.

Tech's offensive line, headed by tackles Dan Irby and Robert Malone, repeatedly ripped big holes for McDowell.

Fumbles Enable Texas Tech To Upset Bulldogs

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Donny Anderson and a tenacious defense carried Texas Tech to a 21-7 intersectional upset over fumbling Mississippi State Saaturday night.

Anderson caught a pass and gained 68 yards for a touchdown, set up another touchdown with his bruising slashes and led to a field goal with his pass-receiving.

Kenneth Gill kicked a 51-yard field goal—the longest in Texas Tech records—the first time he ever tried one in college football.

Mississippi State fumbled four times and lost the ball twice throwing away touchdowns. And Dan Bland carried a kickoff back 42 yards only to have the apparent touchdown wiped out by a penalty.

Texas Tech's Teddy Roberts intercepted two passes, one preventing a Mississippi touchdown and the other setting up one for Texas.

Jim Zanios, the Tech fullback, rammed across for two touchdowns on short runs.

Tech fumbled some, too, and one by Anderson set up the Mississippi State touchdown.

Kentucky Downs Detroit Despite Costly Fumbles

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Wildcats, plagued by fumbles, parlayed two touchdowns by Rodger Bird and the passing of Rick Norton Saturday night to defeat Detroit 13-6.

The Wildcats lost four fumbles to nullify a strong offensive attack and needed a fourth period score to win it.

The game began as a one-man show by halfback Bird. He intercepted a Detroit pass in the end zone halting a drive.

After the interception, Kentucky marched 80 yards in 12 plays for the only score of the first half. Bird went the final 27 yards on a pitchout from Norton.

ALABAMA WINS 31-3

Namath Scores 3 As Tide Wins

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Brilliant Joe Namath, suspended from the Alabama football for disciplinary reasons last season, quickly made amends Saturday night as he scored three touchdowns to lead the Crimson Tide to a 31-3 victory over Georgia.

Namath, rated by Coach Paul Bryant as the best quarterback in the land, showed mid-season passing form and a perfect running game as he singlehandedly destroyed the Georgia defense in the 50th meeting between the two schools.

The senior signal-caller scored his touchdowns on runs of eight, one and five yards — running over anybody and everybody who was in his path.

For the night, he was credited with 222 yards of total offense—picked up on 16 of 21 passes for 167 yards and 55 yards rushing on 11 carries.

This Southeastern Conference contest belonged to Namath all the way. His passing allowed Alabama to open up its running game in the first half as he continually pulled surprises on the Bulldogs. It was strictly a case of Georgia never for a second being able to figure out what he was going to do.

Alabama broke the game wide open in the third period on a 27-yard field goal by David Ray and Namath's second touchdown of the night. Namath put the finishing touches to his night's work by scoring on a five-yard run in the fourth period.

Texas Rambles By Week Tulane With 31-0 Rout

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas, last year's national college football champion, extended its victory string to 12 straight games Saturday night with an easy 31-0 shutout of Tulane.

The victory tied the record for consecutive victories set by Longhorn teams in 1913, 1919 and 1921.

Texas' power-laden offense pushed across scores in each quarter while a line-busting Longhorn defense turned back a sophomore-tinged Greenie squad repeatedly.

Texas followed a pattern it set last year while winning the national title by scoring on its first possession of the ball. The Longhorns took the opening kickoff, and moved 72 yards in 17 plays and five first downs to score in just a little over six minutes.

Tulane never caught up.

The Greenies managed to get the ball down to Texas' four once but threw away the scoring opportunity with a fumble.

McClendon Is 'Glad Its Over,' Looks To Rice

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

BATON ROUGE — "I'm sure glad it's over," Coach Charlie McClendon said while mopping his forehead with a towel after the game here Saturday night. "But next week will be just like opening the season again."

Coach McClendon spoke highly of the Texas Aggies which had just fallen to the Tigers, 9-6. "Those fumbles didn't happen by accident," he said. He referred to the three crucial LSU fumbles, two of which halted almost certain Tiger touchdown drives.

Speaking of LSU's passing game McClendon said, "Our offense didn't seem to fool them. Their defense was something they had never used against us before, but they didn't seem to be too worried about our passing."

Changing his thoughts to next week, the Bengal mentor said of Rice, "I think they have seen everything LSU can throw at them. We'll have to win or lose with what we have shown tonight."

LSU came out in the season opener with what could not be called power football, he said. The Tigers threw 15 passes and completed 10 for a total of 127 yards, which is more passing than LSU has done in recent years.

"As far as I know we have very few bumps and bruises," McClendon said, "and I'm very pleased about that."

McClendon said that he hoped moving Doug Moreau from end to flanker back will give added punch to the Tiger offense. "We feel like Moreau will give us more strength from here both with his blocking and receiving. He is one of our faster boys and the additional room here should help him break open more," the successful Tiger coach added.

Venturi Shoots 69, Grabs Lead

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Ken Venturi stroked his third straight 69 and took a one-stroke lead Saturday over Jack Nicklaus after three rounds of the $40,000 Portland Open Golf Tournament.

Venturi stands at 207, nine below par, on the 6,404-yard par 72 Portland Golf Club course.

Nicklaus, the first round coleader at 68, matched that score Saturday after slipping to par Friday and now has 208.

Still in contention for the $5,800 first prize, which will be awarded Sunday, are four golfers another stroke back.

YANKEES WIN, 8-3

Mantle, Maris Hit Two-Run Homers

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris each clouted two-run homers as the New York Yankees walloped Kansas City 8-3 Saturday and strengthened their hold on first place in the American League.

The victory moved the Yankees one-half game ahead of the second-place Baltimore Orioles, whose game with Los Angeles was rained out. The Chicago White Sox dropped two games off the pace, losing 1-0 to Washington in 10 innings.

John Wyatt, fourth Kansas City pitcher, tied the major league record for appearances by a pitcher, coming on in the sixth inning for the 74th time this season.

Dick Radatz of Boston had equalled the record only the night before. Jim Konstanty set the mark in 1950 with Philadelphia.

Mantle got the Yankees off to a 2-0 lead with his 32nd home run in the first inning. The blow, off starter Diego Segui, came after Bobby Richardson collected the first of his four singles.

Maris climaxed the Yankee scoring with his 23rd homer in a three-run eighth inning. Richardson, who had singled across Ralph Terry, was aboard at the time.

New York scored its other three runs in the third inning, the first two on Elston Howard's bases-loaded single.

Al Downing pitched the first five innings for the Yankees, just enough to receive credit for his 13th victory against eight defeats. He became the first American League hurler to pass the 200-strikeout mark this season, reaching 201 by fanning five Athletics.

Downing, however, also gave up four hits and walked five batters. Terry went the rest of the way, allowing Kansas City five hits.

MEMPHIS STATE FALLS

Ole Miss Wins Easily Behind Jim Weatherly

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Quarterback Jim Weatherly pierced Memphis State's vaunted defenses with rifle like passes and slashing runs Saturday in guiding mighty Mississippi, the nation's No. 1 college football team to a 30-0 victory.

Ole Miss, outplaying Memphis State in every phase of the game, dominated the contest from the scoring drive at the opening kickoff to the final whistle.

The Mississippi line, which found Memphis State an equal opponent in battling to a scoreless tie last year, was in complete command. Passers were given almost flawless protection. Holes gaped for Rebel runners.

Weatherly, a 185 pound senior, who understudied Perry Lee Dunn last year, passed for a first quarter touchdown, set up second and third quarter field goals and scored himself in the fourth.

Ole Miss' superiority was far greater than the score indicated. Two fumbles and two interceptions cost scoring changes in the first half when Ole Miss led 13 to 0 in first downs and 192 to minus 5 in yardage.

The Rebs led 27-2 in first downs at the end. Reserves played much of the final quarter.

In the third period, Ole Miss had a touchdown called back by a penalty and on the final play of the game, halfback ike Dennis fumbled as he went into the Memphis State end zone and the Tigers recovered to prevent a score.

Memphis State threatened only late in the third period when quarterback Ollie Cordill completed a 43-yard pass to half Bob Sherlag at the Rebel 28. Ole Miss pushed Memphis State back to the 44 from that point.

It took less than two minutes for Mississippi to score in the first period. The Rebels marched 57 yards in five plays and got their touchdown on a 7-yard pass from Weatherly to halfback Bill Clay.

End Billy Carl Irwin, who booted field goals of 24, 20 and 26 yards, got the first of three conversions.

The first Irwin field goal came on the final play of the first half and the next two came in the third period after penalties had stalled drives deep in Memphis State territory.

In the final period, Weatherly scored on a 2-yard run that capped a 43-yard march and junior quarterback Charles Myers, a junior college product, completed an 18-yard touchdown pass to sophomore Steve Terracin.

Weatherly was the top producer of yardage for the Rebels as he hit on 14 of 22 passes for 216 yards. End Allen Brown caught six passes for 70 yards to lead receivers and Dennis got 61 yards on 10 tries to lead runners.

Memphis State's top runner was halfback Don McClard, who ran six times for 19 yards. Cordill hit on two of three passes for 53 yards.

Irwin's three field goals tied the Southeastern Conference record set by Paige Cothern of Ole Miss against Vanderbilt in 1956.

Hot weather accounted at least partially for the five fumbles lost by Memphis State and three by Ole Miss. Hands made sweaty in the 90 degree heat kept the ball damp. Officials had to swap footballs frequently.

When the game ended, Ole Miss athletic director C. M. (Tad) Smith was all smiles in the press box.

Did the Rebels look like the No. 1 team?

"They sure did," Smith said. "Coach John Vaught did a good job getting them ready."

OFFENSIVE CASTOFF

Pigs Down Oklahoma State Behind Quarterback Gray

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Billy Gray, an offensive castoff relegated to the defensive secondary, took over at quarterback again Saturday night and built Arkansas a 14-10 football victory over Oklahoma State University.

A near sellout crowd of 40,000 saw Gray engineer Razorback scoring drives of 55 and 64 yards in the non-conference season opener for both teams.

Jim Lindsey, a long-legged wingback, sprinted 18 yards for an Arkansas touchdown with 3:01 left in the second quarter. Tailback Bobby Burnett crashed over from the two for the second Porker score with seven seconds to go in the third quarter.

Gray set up both touchdowns. He shot a 23-yard pass to end Jerry Lamb to the OSU 18 to pave the way for Lindsey's dash. He passed for 25 yards, ran for nine and sneaked for a crucial first down on the Cowboy two prior to Burnett's touchdown.

The Cowboys threatened four times, but they cashed in only twice.

In the third quarter they pushed 40 yards in 13 plays with halfback Larry Elliott banging in from the one on fourth down.

Charles Durkee booted a 37-yard field goal with 11:23 to go in the fourth quarter. Earlier Durkee twice missed field goals of similar length.

Tailback Jackie Brasuell punched out 88 yards on 25 carries for Arkansas and kept the Razorback offense pumping with short thrusts in the middle. Lindsey finished with 73 yards, most of them off the ends.

Walt Garrison, OSU halfback, led the Cowboys on the ground with 43 yards.

Penn Slows Staubach But Middies Win

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Navy's hard - charging defense stole the show Saturday from All-America quarterback Roger Staubach as the Middies defeated upset-minded Penn State 21-8 in their 1964 college football opener.

Navy cashed in on a fumble and two pass interceptions, one a 58-yard touchdown run by Duncan Ingraham in the third quarter, for its three touchdowns.

Meanwhile, Penn State almost stymied Staubach, limiting the 1963 Heisman Trophy winner to only five pass completions in 13 attempts for 44 yards and held him to minus 14 yards on the ground.

Staubach was partially hampered by a light drizzle which fell during most of the game and a brisk wind.

Oregon, 20-13

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Oregon's senior quarterback Bob Berry passed for three touchdowns as he led the Ducks to a 20-13 victory over Brigham Young University Saturday afternoon.

Northwestern Romps Past S.F.A., 34-14

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Donny Carroll, of Fair Park, led Northwestern to a 34-14 victory over Stephen F. Austin, here Saturday night.

It was a brutal season opener with three Demons and one S.F.A. player getting kicked out for personal fouls. The Demons, who trailed 14-7 in the second period, before Carroll personally took charge, had to overcome a rash of long penalties to pull this one out. In all the Demons had 147 yards assessed against them.

SFA, a pre-season choice to cop the Lone-Star Conference championship, opened the game scoring on Billy Burts six yard run in the opening period. Carroll unlimbered an eight yard scoring toss to Al Dodd to even the count later in the stanza.

Fullback Thomas Byers sent the Axemen ahead again in the second on a one yard plunge but Carroll again engineered NSC to another score, hurling six yards to halfback James Aymond for the marker.

Auburn Stomps Cougars Behind Fierce Defense

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Auburn's ferocious defense ripped apart the Houston Cougers Saturday, turning fumbles into 23 points to lead the Tigers to a 30-0 win.

Auburn linemen pounced on four Cougar fumbles, setting up three touchdowns and a field goal. Nearly every defensive man on the Auburn bench saw action by midway in the fourth period and 11 sophomores showed promise on offense in the closing 10 minutes.

Auburn scored on seven and one yard runs by star quarterback Jimmy Sidle on a one-yard plunge by barrel-chested halfback Tucker Frederickson, on a four - yard dart by sophomore quarterback Tom Bryan and on a 31 - yard field goal by Don Lewis.

The stingy Auburn defense, led by tackles Jack Thornton and Chuck Hurston and end Mike Helsm, repeatedly forced the Houston backfield into errors. The Cougars, held to only 17 yards rushing and 44 passing, never got past their own 32 yard line.

Stichweh Steals Show As Cadets Roll By Citadel

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Carl Stichweh covered almost 200 yards on three scoring plays Saturday to lead Army to a 34-0 football victory over The Citadel.

Stichweh, Army's 190-pound quarterback, scored on a 93-yard run, a run of 29 yards and on a punt return of 73 yards as Army won its fourth game in the series against the military college of South Carolina.

The outcome of the game was obvious from the opening kickoff, although Stichweh's 78-yard kickoff return was nullified by a clipping penalty.

On the second play from scrimmage tailback Fred Barofsky reversed over left tackle and scored on a 72-yard run. He shook the last defender with a quick step that was almost a stumble.

Citadel managed to move the ball two yards on three plays on the next series, then Kroghie Andresen punted to Stichweh, who caught the ball at Army's 27. He moved through the Citadel defense untouched and got free on Tom Schwarts' block at The Citadel for a 73-yard touchdown.

Early in the second period Stichweh scored on a beautiful 29-yard rollout. He made his final score early in the fourth period when Army was put back on its seven by Andresen's punt.

On the first play he rolled out, scooted up the left sideline, cut in at midfield and easily outraced The Citadel team.

Tickets On Sale For Fair Park-Neville Contest

Tickets for the Fair Park-Neville game will go on sale at 8:00 Monday morning and will remain on sale, daily from 8:00 to 3:30 p.m., according to principal Sidney Seegers.

Prices for box seats are $2.00, reserve seats are $1.50, and students tickets cost 50 cents.

Those who would still like to buy season tickets for the remainder of Neville's games can purchase them this week.

Seats are still available on the 40 yard line and are being sold as season tickets.

Vanderbilt Falls To Georgia Tech

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech came from behind Saturday with two second-quarter touchdowns for a 14-2 football victory over scrappy Vanderbilt.

The Yellow Jackets, guided by quarterback Jerry Priestley, mustered scoring drives of 53 and 83 yards as they overcame a 2-0 Vanderbilt lead.

But Tech was hard pushed to contain Commodore quarterback Dave Waller, who completed 12 of 19 passes for 123 yards in the first half.

After Tech's second score, with 1:50 left in the half, Waller brought the Commodores 68 yards in 10 plays down to the Tech 12 as the half ended.

Tech began its first scoring drive with Priestley passing 12 yards on fourth down on the first play of the second quarter for a first down on the Vanderbilt 13.

Giles Smith then carried 10 yards. Priestley shook off two tacklers on the next play and pushed into the end zone for the score.

Jerry Bussell recovered a Vanderbilt fumble on the Tech 17, choking off a Commodore drive, and Tech then moved 83 yards in 14 plays for a touchdown. Smith scored on a lateral from Priestly.

Vanderbilt took the opening kickoff and drove to the Tech 40, where Jerry Shuford punted out of bounds on the Tech 2. On the second play from scrimmage, Joe Graham and Randy Humble slammed Johnny Gresham down in the end zone for a safety to give the Commodores their only score in the game.

Tennessee Tops Chattanooga In Defensive Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee's debut as a slot-T team was far from impressive as the Vols ground out a 10-6 victory over Chattanooga Saturday in a dull, defensive football game.

Tennessee, once one of the nation's powerhouses, junked its traditional single wing this season under the direction of new coach Doug Dickey.

Only twice were the slow-footed Vols able to mount sustained drives. The first came in the second period when Tennessee marched 48 yards for its touchdown, quarterback Hal Wantland smacking over from the three. Fred Martin kicked the extra point.

Again in the waning minutes, the Vols drove 63 yards only to lose the ball on the Chattanooga one when guard Henry Sorrell intercepted a Wantland pass.

The Vols put three more points on the scoreboard in the third quarter when Martin kicked a 28-yard field goal after Tennessee's Frank Emanuel had recovered a Chattanooga fumble on the Moccasin's 21.

Public Clinic On Gun Safety

With Sam Hanna

Set For Saturday

Youngsters of all ages — and grown-ups for that matter — are invited this coming Saturday to the Third Annual Gun Safety Clinic to be held at the Bancroft Camp outside West Monroe.

It's open to the public beginning at 9:30 a.m. for the morning session, 2 p.m. for the afternoon session.

And it's worth seeing even for the most skilled sportsman.

Sponsored by the Monroe Optimist Club, the clinic, co-sponsored this year by the Sterlington Optimist Club, offers safety instruction for the kids and skilled shooting for adults. Sheriff Bailey Grant again will serve as clinic master.

But, basically, the clinic is for youngsters — to teach them the "Ten Commandments of Gun Safety."

Trained personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission will school the youngsters — divided into small groups — on the proper methods of handling firearms.

This is where your son or daughter can learn the right techniques of handling a gun.

And, in addition, Kit Beecher, the able director of the Monroe zoo, will offer a lecture on poisonous and non-poisonous snakes. Kit uses the real McCoys, and if your son doesn't know a rattler when he sees one, he will when Kit Beecher presents his demonstration.

This should be a worthy feature of the clinic, since so many people will be heading for the woods squirrel hunting come October when snakes are still roaming about.

The clinic also features skeet and trap shooting by members of the Pine Hills Gun Club while a special attraction will be a demonstration on the power of firearms by Jim Stotts and Art Hill, who represent Winchester-Western.

Jim Stotts and Art Hill have an interesting way of getting over the point that firearms can be deadly. You'll be surprised at the effect of a shot-wide-open cabbage filled with water. It sprinkles the crowd with water, giving the kids a good idea of what a high-powered rifle can do.

And if he's on, Jim Stotts can throw up four or five eggs and hit them with a .22-rifle before they hit the ground. He did it last year.

It's a good program and free of charge.

There'll be two sessions and youngsters need not attend both. Transportation will be available in the form of a city bus, leaving the Virginia Hotel at 8:30 a.m., then again at 1 p.m.

Gene's Sporting Goods will offer an attendance prize and each kid coming out will receive a certificate of participation from the Optimist Clubs.

If you think about what the late, great Herb Parsons said, you'll be out Saturday with your boy or girl.

Herb Parsons said, "Take a boy hunting today and you won't have to hunt for him tomorrow."

Squirrel Season Coming

With the first split of the dove season closing today, Louisiana hunters can look to the October 3rd opening of the squirrel season as well as the rabbit season.

Both are opening the first Saturday in October, giving all hunters an equal chance to get out on that first day when the hunting is supposed to be the best.

The squirrel season will run through January 10th with a daily bag of eight while the rabbit season closes February 14th with a daily bag of eight. And both sports should offer much this year.

From all reports that we've received, Northeast Louisiana has a fine crop of squirrels this year. Year before last was the best, but this year may be a repeater.

We've heard glowing reports of the squirrel population this year. Of course, squirrel hunting probably attracts more participation during the course of a season than any other hunt. That's because the sportsman doesn't have to go to a lot of expense to hunt squirrels.

Rabbit hunting in Northeast Louisiana is always good. We've got the rabbits and you'd be surprised at the number of people out rabbit hunting during these modern times.

It's a good sport with beagles — one that attracts a lot of Cajuns from South Louisiana to Northeast Louisiana.

That's October 3rd.

Dove Season Survey

Between now and the second split of the dove season which opens October 17th, the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission will conduct the first phase of a telephone survey of dove hunters throughout the state.

According to an announcement by Director Joe D. Hair Jr., the major objective of the telephone survey is to secure a measure of dove hunting activities of persons with resident telephones.

Last year the commission made approximately 45,000 telephone calls and the result showed that hunters having telephones had bagged 951,575 doves during the 1963-64 season.

The commission believes a lot more doves were killed if you take into consideration that some hunters do not have resident phones.

This year, as last year, telephone subscribers, selected at random throughout the state, will be called by telephone and asked to report on their dove hunting trips and bag success.

The survey will be conducted at the end of each segment of the dove hunting season.

Little Man's Corner

The doves migrated and the bass weren't hitting as often to make it rough this week on the little men making news afield.

Black Bayou wasn't so hot, but Sam Wilson of West Monroe landed a 5½-pound bass. Bussey Brake at Bastrop was probably the best bass spot in the area. Biologist Jim Davis reports that some real big ones were caught there.

From West Monroe, Russell White and his mother landed a string of 21 bass that weighed 62 pounds.

Locally, the dove hunters weren't doing too well, but David Kahn's colleagues were talking. Kahn, they say, killed four doves out of three boxes of shells.

But, in the Lake St. John area, dove hunters getting the limit included Jackie Gibbs, Johnny Bell, George Fedric, Hugh Burts, Joe Brocato, John Young and Robert Clifton of Ferriday.

Jimmy Gaspard of Ferriday got the limit of doves also.

From Lake Providence, Jolly Higgins killed two 5-foot rattlesnakes while checking his cattle near Cottonwood Chute. One had 12 rattles and the other six.

Still in Lake Providence, 10-year-old T. V. Razer caught a 3½-pound bass on a Yellow Worm. That was in Lake Providence.

The Ferriday area paid off for Percy May and Al Strickland, who got the limit of bass. Catching the limit at Morvile were Roy Powell, Ruby Case, Carl Case and Paul Myers.

Red worms turned the trick on bream at Lake St. John. Getting the limit were Charles Aswell and Sam Aswell of Oak Grove while Mr. and Mrs. James Hunt of West Monroe got the limit in Lake Concordia.

E. H. Morgan of Jena got a big catch of bream in Saline Bayou.

Meantime, hunters will be able to pick up copies of this year's seasons and regulations now. They've been mailed to the local offices of the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission.

Bow hunters are getting ready for their October 17th opening.

Still locally, Paul Martin of West Monroe reports that Joe Gurgiolo, the Monroe barber who habitually puts in an hour or two dawn fishing at Bayou DeSiard before opening his shop, used 45 minutes of his fishing time landing a 28-pound buffalo fish Thursday morning at Edgewater Garden dam.

Gurgiolo was fishing for white perch with cane pole and shiner bait when the buffalo took the hook. "I was easy with him," Gurgiolo said. "I played him like a baby."

KIT BEECHER, Monroe zoo director, skins back the fangs of a rattlesnake in preparation for a demonstration of poisonous and non-poisonous snakes to be presented at the Third Annual Gun Safety Clinic next Saturday at the Bancroft Camp outside West Monroe. The public is invited to the clinic where youngsters will receive instructions on gun safety from personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission. Kit will show the kids the difference in the types of snakes that may be found in the woods during the hunting seasons. The clinic will be conducted in two sessions — starting at 9:30 a.m., then at 2 p.m., under the sponsorship of the Monroe and Sterlington Optimist Clubs.

REGISTRATION

October 16 Date For Bowhunters

Louisiana Bowhunters, preparing for the biggest archery season in the state since the Indians monopolized the business, have until Oct. 16 to register for participation in the Big Buck Award being offered for the first time by the Louisiana Field Archery Association.

Jack E. Bell, Monroe, LFAA president, said the Big Buck contest will be open to all association members registered not later than the eve of the opening of the bow season on Oct. 17.

A permanent trophy, on which names of each year's winners will be engraved, will remain the property of the association, and medals will be presented for permanent ownership of the winners.

The award will be made to the hunter whose buck has the most points. If there is a tie on points, spread of the rack will decide the winner. If a tie still exists, weight, field dressed, will be the deciding factor. The kill must be made with bow and arrow, and the application for award consideration must be verified by two witnesses.

Bell said LFAA memberships, with $3 dues, and big buck contest registrations for an additional $1, will be accepted until Oct. 16 for those entering the contest.

Additionally, the LFAA will conduct its first annual non-competitive deer hunt Oct. 31-Nov. 1 in Chicago Mills Game Management Area. The deadline for registering for participation in this hunt is Oct. 1 so that the Association can make proper arrangements to make proper arrangements to participating.

Memberships in the LFAA may be obtained by writing "Louisiana Field Archery Association, P.O. Box 4103, Monroe, La.," enclosing check or money order for membership, and including additional fee for the Big Buck contest or the Chicago Mills hunt, or both. Membership fees are $3 individual or $5 for family units. There's $1 per individual extra for both the Chicago Mills hunt and the Big Buck contest—both for $2.

Headquarters for the Chicago Mills hunt will be set up October 30 at the Bayou Macon cutoff on the Winnsboro - St. Joseph highway, two miles east of Bayou Macon bridge.

The bow hunting season runs from Oct. 17 through Nov. 22.

Bell, immediate past president of Tupawek Bowmen, area archery club, has all known archers who are not association members on his mailing list this month with a letter calling attention to the state's organized programs and work to improve bowhunting in the state.

"We have special archery seasons in all our states," Bell pointed out. "Continuous work is being done at all levels to maintain and improve these seasons through legislation, cooperation with wildlife commissions and conservation agencies and an educational program for the public.

"In Louisiana, bowhunting seasons for deer are comparatively new. From a few years back when we were allowed a few weekends in special areas we came up with a 15-day statewide season in 1962, a 30-day statewide in '63 to 35 days for this year.

"This did not happen accidentally. Dedicated members of the Louisiana Field Archery Association have spent much time in effort to bring this about through legislation and cooperation with the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission. Contrary to what some might believe, these programs are not something that once you get, you keep. A perpetual program of legislative liaison and education must be kept up.

Bell is urging the non-members to join LFAA to help improve bowhunting in the state.

Coon Hunters Schedule Hunt Next Saturday

Coon hunters are expected from throughout Louisiana and neighboring states for the United Kennel Club-approved coon hunt and bench show, scheduled Saturday at the West Monroe Fair Grounds in West Monroe. The events are sponsored by the North Louisiana Coon Hunters Association.

Tommy Beeman, president, said the bench show will begin at 2 p.m., with the cast drawings for the hunt at 8 p.m.

"We are expecting coon hunters from throughout this section of the South, not just Louisiana," Beeman said, adding "we have already received inquiries from hunters in Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and western Tennessee."

The North Louisiana Coon Hunters Association is a "duly organized true sports organization," the president pointed out. "We do not kill the coons on the hunts as many people think. These coon hunts are as humane as any other type of hunts which are made for the showing of the hounds."

Beeman, Curve Drive, Bayou Shores, Monroe, said the bench show and hunt open to all coon hunters, not to just club members.

Touch Football Leagues To Be Formed Monday

The Monroe Recreation Department will have meetings Monday night to organize its Touch Football Leagues.

Two leagues will be in action again this year.

The leagues are a High School League for boys in high school and non-varsity participants, and a City League for adult teams.

The high school league will meet Monday at 6:00 p.m., and the City League at 6:30 p.m.

All meetings will be held at the Benoit Recreation Center, 1700 Oakland Drive.

Anyone desiring any information before the meeting may contact Jackie Neal at 325-3895.

Willie Mays of the Giants and Tommy Davis of the Dodgers compiled 20 - game hitting streaks this season.

Volley Ball Loop Meeting Slated Monday Night

The Monroe Recreation Department has scheduled a meeting for Monday night at Benoit Recreation Center to organize a volley ball league for adult teams.

Much interest has been aroused for the league, and anyone desiring to enter a team in the league is urged to attend the meeting.

PRO FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Vikings Only Unbeaten Team

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just how good are the Minnesota Vikings? Young, eager and hungry, the Vikings are pro football's only undefeated team through pre-season and regular season play.

A surprise victor over the highly rated Baltimore Colts in the National Football League's inaugural last week, Coach Norm Van Brocklin's eleven faces its big test Sunday in a clash with the defending champion Chicago Bears at Minnesota.

A victory would establish the Vikings as co-favorites, along with the Green Bay Packers for the Western Conference title.

The Sunday schedule includes five other NFL games and two in the American League. Elsewhere in the NFL, St. Louis plays at Cleveland, Baltimore at Green Bay, San Francisco at Philadelphia, New York at Pittsburgh and Washington at Dallas.

In the American League, Denver plays at Buffalo and Boston is at San Diego.

Two games were played Saturday night, one in each league. Oakland was at Houston in the AFL and Detroit met the Rams at Los Angeles in an NFL struggle.

The Vikings-Bears meeting figures to be a battle between Minnesota's rushing game against the Bears' aerial attack. Tommy Mason and Bill Brown, the Vikings' setbacks, rank 1-2 in individual rushing. Minnesota leads the league in total offense with 463 yards, 313 of it rushing.

Bill Wade and Rudy Bukich figure to divide the Bears' quarterback chores as they did in their opening loss to Green Bay last week. Mike Ditka, the tight end who missed most of the exhibition season, caught seven passes for 74 yards.

The winner of the Cards-Browns game could be all alone atop the Eastern Conference standings after only two weeks play. That's the way it will be if the Eagles lose to San Francisco. The game at Cleveland, too, figures to be a clash between the rush and the pass. Cleveland's Jim Brown is third in the league in rushing with 89 yards. St. Louis' Charley Johnson hit 12 of 24 passes for 200 yards last week.

The Colts will be seeking their first victory in three years against Green Bay. The Packers won both games in 1962 and 1963. Johnny Unitas, who had a good day for Baltimore in a losing game against the Vikings last week, will pit his arm against the legs of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung. Lennie Moore figures to furnish most of the Colts' running game.

Y. A. Tittle, who has nothing to look back to in last week's Giants' disaster against the Eagles, has something to look forward to in New York's meeting with the Steelers. His old catching partner, Del Shofner, will be back. The great end missed last week's game because of an injury. The Steelers, who had five pass interceptions against them last week, figure to stick to the ground this time.

The Eagles, under new Coach Joe Kuharich and new quarterback Norm Snead, need only one more victory to match last year's total. However, the 49ers don't figure to be a soft touch. In five previous meetings, they have beaten the Eagles four times.

The Redskins-Cowboys games have been traditionally wild and this should be no exception. Dallas quarterback Don Meredith, who reinjured his knee last week, is a doubtful starter.

The Boston-San Diego clash marks a meeting of last year's championship game combatants. The Patriots are still smarting from that 51-10 drubbing. Emergence of sophomore Art Graham as a threat receiver has given Boston new hope. The Chargers' key threats are Keith Lincoln's running and Tobin Rote's passing.

Buffalo leads the series with Denver, four games to three with a tie. The Broncos, having lost their last eight league games, are hungry for victory. Both clubs are in good condition. The league's biggest fullbacks, 245-pound Cookie Gilchrist of the Bills and 248-pound Billy Joe of the Broncos, are pitted against one another.

WITH TOUCHDOWN PASS

Oklahoma Rallies To Down Stubborn Maryland, 13-3

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Highly rated Oklahoma, threatened with a football upset by a Chilean soccer kicker, was saved Saturday by a 90-yard touchdown pass play from third-string quarterback John Hammond to Lance Rentzel and downed fiercely stubborn Maryland 13-3.

Bernardo Bramson, 19-year-old sophomore who grew up in Santiago and was in his first football game, kicked a field goal side-foot style from the 22-yard line early in the last quarter, giving Maryland a 3-0 lead.

With 4:30 to play, Hammond tossed his first pass of the game from his own 10 to Rentzel, who caught it on the 45 and ran down the sidelines without being touched.

It was only the second pass of the game completed by Oklahoma, which had been frustrated time and again by a hard-banging Maryland defense.

Oklahoma, No. 2 in the preseason Associated Press poll, got their second touchdown when Maryland desparately tried to pull out a victory. Linebacker David Voiles intercepted a pass on the Maryland 10, setting up the scoring run by quarterback Mike Ringer from seven yards out.

Oklahoma crossed midfield seven times without being able to crack the Maryland defense, led by linebacker Jerry Fishman. The Sooners, making their debut under Coach Gomer Jones, reached the Maryland 25 twice and even recovered a Maryland fumble 15 yards from the goal without being able to get over.

It wasn't until Hammond and Rentzel collaborated on the longest touchdown pass in Oklahoma history that the Sooners could take a breath. When Butch Metcalf's extra point kick was blocked, it was tense again until Voiles got in the way of sophomore quarterback Phil Petry's pass.

Petry had to take over early in the second quarter when Maryland's first-string quarterback, Kenny Ambrusko, dislocated his left elbow.

Offensively, Maryland didn't reach Oklahoma territory until late in the third quarter, when it got to the 30. Bramson's first intercollegiate field goal effort didn't reach the goal line.

But the native of Washington, D.C., who started playing soccer in Chile at the age of 5, came through when Maryland got in range again because of a punt by Rentzel that traveled only 30 yards.

WHIPS TUTWILER

Campbell Captures Amateur Golf Title

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Campbell shattered the long-time hex of his West Virginia nemesis with a 1-up victory over Ed Tutwiler Saturday and made good on his 21st try for the National Amateur Golf Championship.

The 41-year-old former Walker Cup captain from Huntington, W. Va., beaten in seven of the nine previous meetings with his 45-year-old rival, tied the tense final battle with a mighty 40-foot putt on the 29th hole and pulled ahead to stay with a winning birdie on the short 35th.

There both Campbell and Tutwiler missed the green — the former 45 feet to the right in knotty grass and the latter 75 feet short. Tutwiler shot over the green, chipped back to within 20 feet and two-putted for a bogey four. Campbell chopped the ball to within four feet and sank it.

The scrambling, wise-cracking Tutwiler, a prosperous car dealer who recently transferred from Charleston, W. Va., to Indianapolis, made a bold bid to prolong the match on the 36th. He flew his second over the green into the gallery, chipped back to within 11 feet but could get no better than a half with a bogey five. Campbell missed the green and two-putted for a five.

"Unbelievable," Campbell exclaimed as he shook hands with his West Virginia friend. "A championship after 26 years."

"We kept the people out in the rain," the gregarious Tutwiler said with a smile. "It must have been a good match. Dog gone it. I thought I made that last putt."

The match between the two 40-plus West Virginians, who have been at each other's throats in friendly competition for 15 years, was played in dreary, all-day rain over the 6,863-yard, par 71 course.

It was a tight, stroke-for-stroke battle after Campbell rallied from three holes down to pull even at the end of the morning round.

In the 18 afternoon holes, only three were won. All the others were halved — five of them in bogeys as weariness and pressure took its toll of the aging legs.

Until the final holes, it was a fine match, requiring birdies to win, but five of the last six holes were halved in fives, four of them bogeys.

Kansas Escapes From Froggies With Tight Win

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Favored Kansas escaped with a 7-3 victory over Texas Christian Saturday as TCU lost a fumble one foot from the Jayhawk goal with 20 seconds left in their football game.

Quarterback Randy Howard's 43-yard pass to end Charles Campbell, who eluded a tackler at the Kansas 25, gave TCU a first down at the Kansas 3 with 1:38 left.

On third down at the Kansas one, Howard fumbled and Dick Pratt, a 264-pound guard, recovered for Kansas.

Kansas, a one touchdown favorite, lost fumbles at the TCU 12 and 21 and was stopped once on downs at the Horned Frogs' 5.

Kansas halfback Gayle Sayers ignited the only Jayhawk scoring drive by racing 10 yards, then lateralling to Steve Renko who ran 42 more to the TCU 14 in the second period. Willie Ray Smith got the TD on a six-yard sweep.

TCU came back in the same period behind Kent Nix's passing and Bruce Alford kicked a 27-yard field goal.

Halfback Jim Fauver ripped Kansas for 120 yards in 19 carries, including a 42-yarder on the game's first play and had an 82-yard punt, second longest in TCU history.

Florida Tramples SMU Eleven, 28-8

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jack Harper's broken-field running carried Florida to a 24-8 victory over Southern Methodist in an opening day football game Saturday.

Harper scampered 80 yards on a punt return that salted it away in the third quarter after setting up the opening Florida touchdown with a twisting 56-yard run on a screen pass.

On a hot afternoon, Florida's top 22 men, virtually all lettermen, and a half-dozen sophomores wore down the less-experienced SMU team from the Southwest and played outstanding defense.

The SMU Mustangs were crippled seriously when their star quarterback and nation's leading punter of last year, Danny Thomas, hurt a knee early in the second quarter.

Thomas' sub, Donnie Oefinger, ran nine yards for SMU's touchdown — set up by a 53-yard punt runback by Jimmy Taylor and a pass interference call against Florida even though the Gators' Jerry Newcomer intercepted at the SMU seven.

Sophomore Steve Spurrier, sharing quarterbacking with Tom Shannon, tossed the screen pass for Florida's first score and passed to Charles Casey for the last one.

Willie Mays Hits 44th Home Run In Giants' Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays scored five times and batted in his 101st run of the year with his 44th homer Saturday, bringing Juan Marichal his 19th victory and leading the San Francisco Giants past the Pittsburgh Pirates 13-4.

Mays' homer, with Matty Alou on base, was the big blow in an eight-run seventh inning. It marked the sixth consecutive season that Mays has knocked in 100 or more runs.

The right-handed Marichal, a 25-game winner last year, gave up eight hits, including a two-run homer by Jim Pagliaroni in the second and a solo homer by Roberto Clemente in the eighth. Marichal has lost seven.

Before his homer, Mays had reached base on two walks, a single and a fielder's choice. He scored each time.

Clemson Wins

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Halfback Hugh Maludin blitzed little Furman with two sparkling touchdown runs Saturday as Clemson scored a 28-0 opening game football victory.

Luman Harris Replaces Craft, Colts Manager

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Colts fired Manager Harry Craft Saturday with only 13 games left to be played. Veteran third base coach Luman Harris was named to succeed him.

The announcement was made by General Manager Paul Richards at a news conference. He said Harris, who has been a coach with the club since its entry into the National League in 1962, signed a two-year contract, for the 1965 and 1966 seasons.

Harris began his new duties by directing the Colts Saturday night against the New York Mets.

Harris is believed to have received a contract calling for just under $30,000 a year.

Craft's one-year contract was to have expired at the end of the current season.

The World For WOMEN

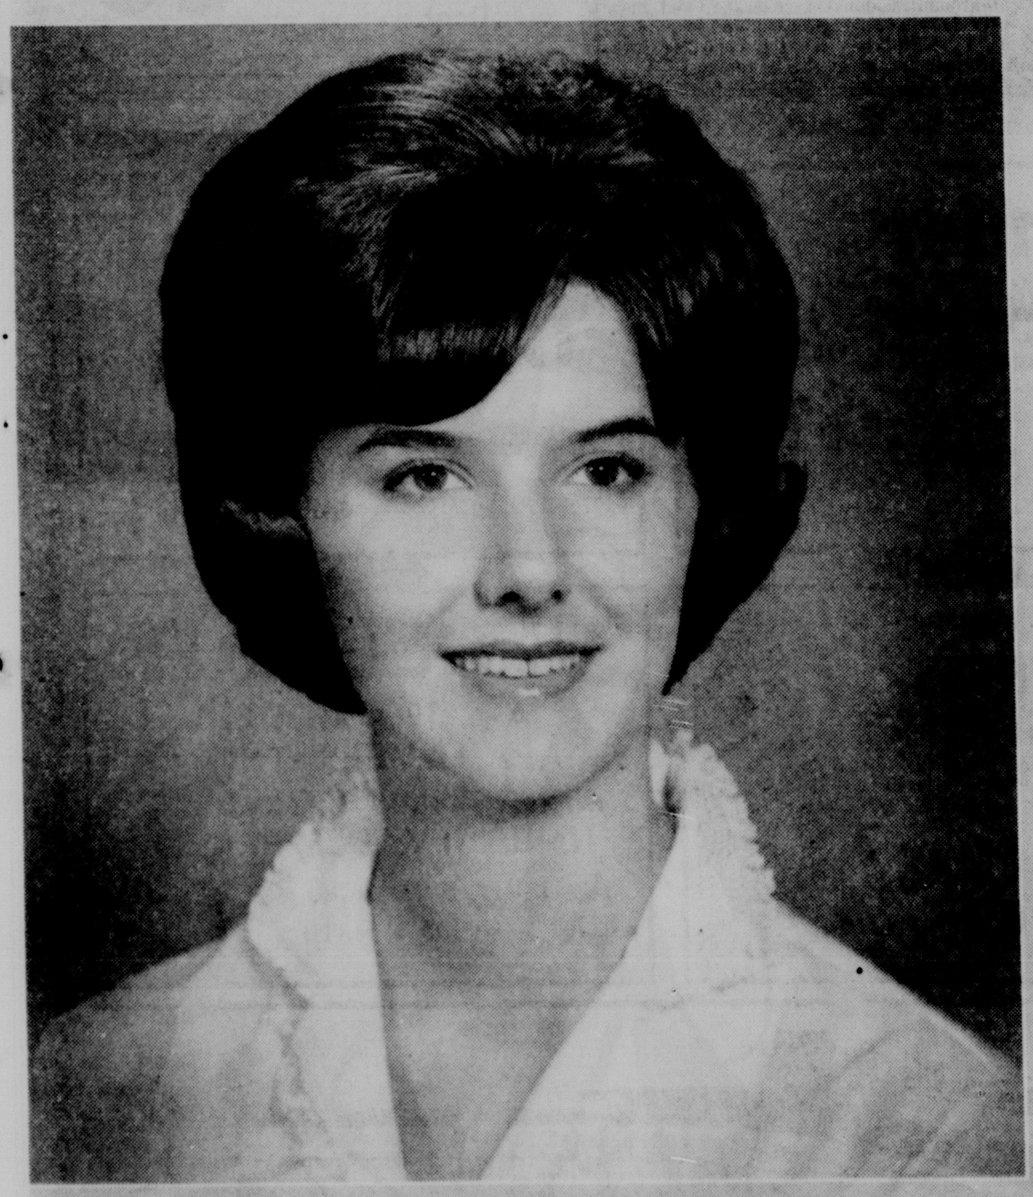

September 20, 1964

Above: Being welcomed to Monroe by their many friends here are Dr. and Mrs. Ray Rhymes Jr. and children, Allyson, 4 and Ray III "Bubba" who are at home at 34 Oakwood Drive. The family spent the past two years in Libertyville, Illinois, where Dr. Rhymes was stationed with the navy and previously resided three years in Shreveport where he was in residency.

An entertainment center for relaxing or recreation describes the family room at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chambliss and family. In colonial - ranch style the home is located at 3804 Loop Road, where Mrs. Chambliss is pictured with their son, Rickie, 10 and Cynthia, 16. Another daughter, Miss Patricia Chambliss, is a student at Harding Christian College, Searcy, Ark.

Above: Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Nancy Lillian Files, Baton Rouge to Eugene Hawkins Allen, Saltville, Virginia, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Oliver Files Jr. of Oak Ridge. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Byrd Allen, Clinton, Mississippi. The wedding will be an event of Saturday, October 17 in Oak Ridge Baptist Church at 4 p.m.

Engagement Of Linda Lee Woods Revealed At Announcement Tea

Engagement of Miss Linda Lee Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Teophield H. Woods, 4503 Bon Aire Drive, Monroe, to John Michael Yeldell of Mer Rouge, was revealed at an announcement tea Saturday, September 19 at the Paragon Club Ballroom. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ulmer Yeldell Jr. of Mer Rouge.

Miss Woods will become the bride of Mr. Yeldell on December 29. The wedding will be solemnized at 6:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Monroe, with Dr. Wave McFadden officiating.

Hostesses for the announcement party were Miss Eloise Cann and Mrs. Jay W. Cummins of Monroe, Mrs. Millard Bushong of Berryville, Virginia and Mrs. J. B. Swanson Jr. of Milan, Italy.

Alternating at the door during the appointed hours of 3 until 5 p.m. were Mrs. Jay H. Cummins, Mrs. John McAdams Jr., Mrs. Clifton Flinn, Mrs. Tom Monk, Mrs. Fred Petty, Mrs. Morris Phillips, Mrs. Jack Taylor and Miss Nancy Wilson.

Receiving with Miss Woods, and her mother, were Mrs. Yeldell, mother of the prospective bridegroom; Mrs. Loyd Barham, Mrs. Alton Sims, Mrs. J. B. Swanson Sr., and Miss Eloise Cann and Mrs. Jay W. Cummins. For her party Miss Woods wore an afternoon dress of pink peau de soie, styled with wrist length sleeves and a floating back panel of the peau de soie, attached at the neckline.

Decorating the foyer and hall were large topiary trees made of carnations and greenery. Small doves perched on white satin wedding rings hung on columns about the room and the stage was transformed into a garden setting with a bubbling fountain and magnolia foliage. Wedding ring trees at either end of the receiving line were crested with doves holding the satin ribbons bearing the names of the betrothed couple and date of the forthcoming wedding. An arrangement of pink carnations was also used on the piano.

Twin refreshment tables, covered with drawn work linen cloths over pink, held antique compotes with arrangements of pink roses. Alternating at silver punch bowls on each table were Mrs. Clare Clark of Mer Rouge; Mrs. Don Sims of Bastrop; Mrs. Ralph Brockman and Mrs. Chester Nenny of Monroe. Others serving were Misses Linda Bird, Elizabeth Barham, Mary Wright, Kelly Ann Crowell, Mrs. A. J. Ritter Jr., Mrs. Guy Luno, Mrs. Jim Harper and Mrs. C. K. Crandall, Mrs. Joe S. Cummins and Mrs. Louie Rogers.

A small cut glass compote filled with pink roses graced the table where Mrs. Jim Wroten and Mrs. Bunnie Cummins alternated at the bride's book. Floating hostesses were Mrs. George M. Snellings III, Mrs. Tom Scott, Mrs. Doris Harbuck, Mrs. John Coates and Mrs. Dan McDuff.

Attendants chosen for her wedding by the bride-elect include Miss Bunny Cannon, as maid of honor and Mrs. Duke Bardwell, Mrs. Don Sims, Mrs. Ralph Brockman, and her cousins, Miss Betty Bushong, Miss Ann Bushong, Miss Lee Bushong, all of Berryville, Va., as bridesmaids.

Mr. Yeldell has chosen his brother, Jackie Yeldell to serve as best man and named as ushers are Don Sims, his cousin; Jimmy Woods, brother of the bride-elect; Bob Erle Clark, John David Denis, Alex Rankin and Bart Swanson, Baton Rouge cousin of the bride-to-be.

Miss Woods is the granddaughter of Henry Woods and the late Mrs. Woods and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bunnie McKoin. A graduate of Neville high school, she attended Louisiana State University where she was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi social sorority and is now attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

Grandparents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James Ulmer Yeldell Sr., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Jim Edwards, all of Mer Rouge. He was graduated from Mer Rouge high school and Louisiana State University and is presently farming in Mer Rouge. His social fraternity is Sigma Chi.

The couple will be at home in Monroe until the bride finishes school next June.

New 'Candidates' Seek Fashion Vote For Fall

The candidates are named; the votes are coming in. Shortly, the winners will be decided. Pre-election polls show some clear trends. Now, as in recent years, the preference of the women who cast the deciding votes is being expressed in favor of not one, not two, but many candidates. This particular election, of course, is for the leading fashions to serve in the fall and winter of 1964. It's distinguished by a diversity of outstanding candidates, so that every woman can readily select the styles she personally prefers, from the coats and suits, dresses and sportswear, hats and accessories on the ballot now.

The promise in the fall fashion campaign is an exciting one. It's based on two looks — on the one hand, the softer, easier, more feminine look of the gentlewoman; on the other, the trim and tailored look that reflects the growing influence of sportswear and especially of knits in the fashion polls. The over-all trend is to a slim silhouette, styled with the kind of ease and fluidity that emphasizes "it's fun to be a girl."

Though the fall silhouette is slender, it's also lively. Moving up now are suits with active skirts — pleats in great variety, from just a single wide pleat at front or back to all-around pleating. Dresses, especially those for late day, take the same lively approach to fashion, with gently fitted bodices and skirts on the move with pleats, flares, ruffles, flounces. Coats, slim but easy, and furs from elegant to sporty provide fashionable coverage, and hats and accessories add the right touches for the complete look voted in this autumn.

Hang A Picture Gallery On Arm

Clear the decks for "picture gallery" bracelets. Made of bright suede and with large see-through cut-outs, these feature a miniature gallery of portraits by famous artists. It's from pop art offerings in a new collection.

Another picture bracelet offers a collection of "monsters we have known and loved," says the manufacturer. Samples: Frankenstein, Dracula, the Wolfman. Many of the bracelets have matching headbands.

MRS. JAMES CLAYTON DODD

Barbara Sue Green Weds James Clayton Dodd

Miss Barbara Sue Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buford James Green, 619 Lakeshore Drive, Monroe, became the bride of James Clayton Dodd, son of Mrs. Ethrem Dodd and the late Mr. Dodd of Rocky Branch, on Saturday, September 19.

The wedding was performed in the presence of the immediate families at the Church of Christ in Rocky Branch. Mr. Jerry Lee, minister, officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. before the altar which was decorated with white gladioli.

For her wedding the bride wore a two piece ensemble of white satin brocade with all white accessories. A circular veil of illusion formed her headdress and she carried a bouquet of white bride's roses.

Miss Sandra Kay Green served as maid of honor and only attendant for her sister. She wore an aqua suit with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mr. Dodd was attended by his brother-in-law, Oliver Wendell Parks of Rocky Branch.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Green wore a white wool suit with cocoa accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Dodd chose a blue jersey suit with black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school and Mr. Dodd graduated from Farmerville high school. The couple will be at home in Monroe where he is employed with Olin Mathieson Corp.

Fall Brides See Variety Of Styles

Wedding tradition and bridal fashions offer fall brides scope enough to reflect individuality. Innovations in styling and revivals of popular designs present a wide selection of flattering wedding gowns.

The bride with a fashion image of her own visualizes herself in a portarit: her headdress, hair style, cosmetics, and wedding jewelry. Whatever the jewelry — a cherished family pin, earclips or a necklace from the groom —it should be an integral part of the fashion plan as a complement to the gown design.

NECKLINES ARE GUIDE

Two "classic" pieces of jewelry are worn by the American bride: her diamond engagement ring and either a necklace or a pair of earclips. A welcome change from the standard bridal jewelry is a pin or set of pins, versatile enough to be placed on the wedding dress or on an unornamented headveil.

Necklines are a guide as to what type of jewelry a bride can wear. Gown necklines should "frame" a jeweled piece — a necklace or a pendant. Portrait and "V" necklines require long-line jewelry: a matinee-length strand of creamy pearls or a delicate diamond drop pendant.

EXCELLENT BACKGROUND

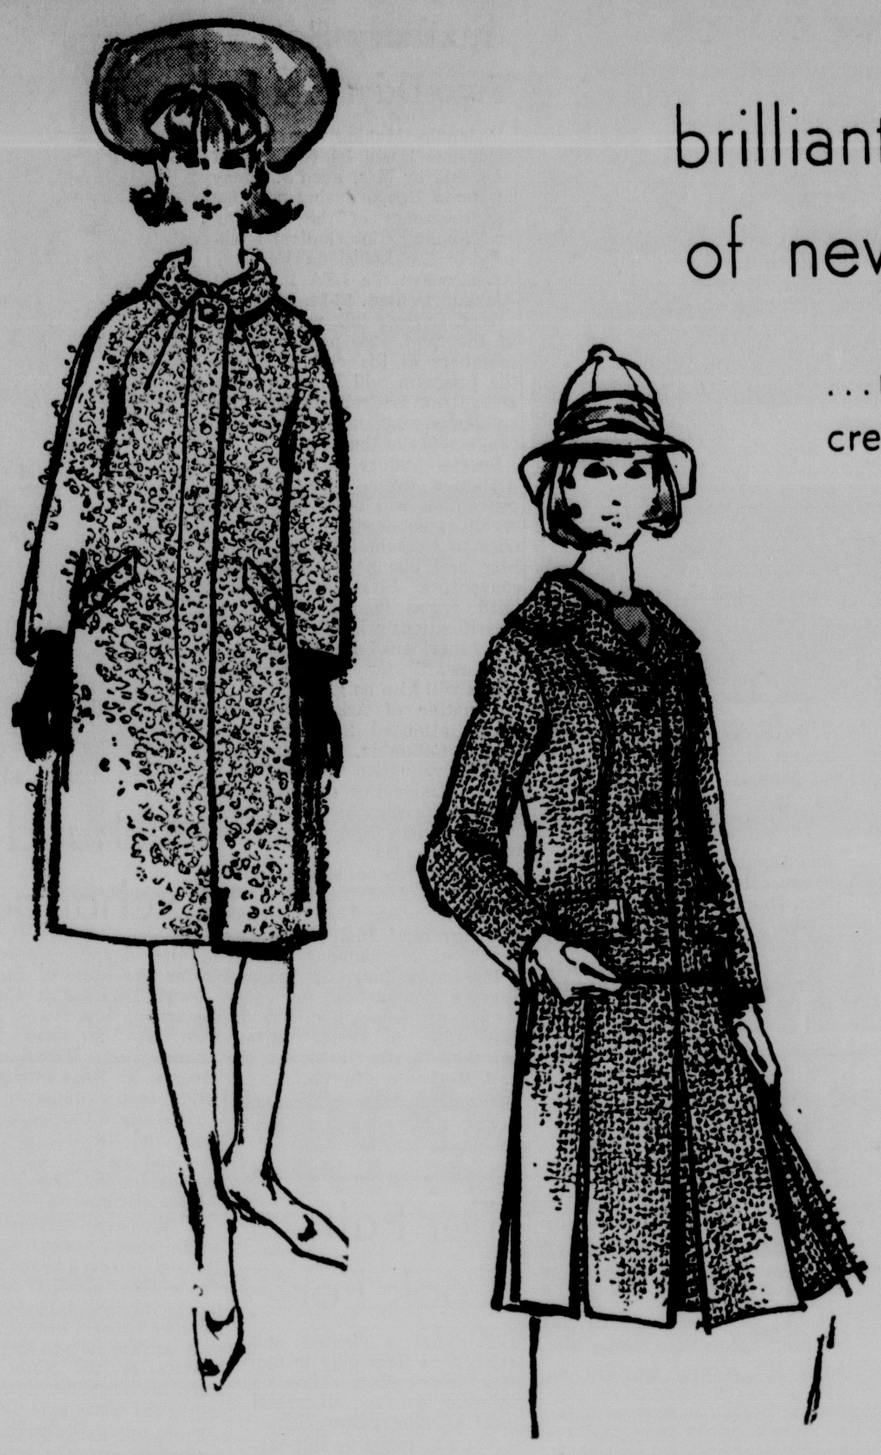

A horizontal neckline, also called bateau, should not have a necklace draped over it. Rather, two pins or clips add beauty and balance when placed on the far edges of the slashed neckline. For asymmetrical interest, a duo of pins can be placed on the dress shoulder.

Directoire and Empire-style gowns offer excellent background for jewelry. An inverted center skirt pleat unfolds beneath the cropped bodice — a splendid location for a pin. Another pin accent can be made where a court train cascades from the shoulder of a Directoire gown.

A favorite cameo pin or clip can focus attention on a high-rising Empire waist.

Newly-Organized Trenton Society Has Style Show

First meeting of the newly-organized Trenton Society was held Monday night, September 14 at the home of Mrs. Mack Owens, 310 Marie Drive, West Monroe.

Officers of the new social and cultural club include Mrs. Jennings Wilkins, president; Mrs. Robert Kennedy, vice-president Mrs. Russell Bouland, secretary; Mrs. Danny Sullivan, treasurer and Mrs. John McKee Jr., parliamentarian and historian.

Introduced as guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Dollie Guin presented a program on hair styles and make-up, using as models, Mrs. Maurise Coon, Mrs. Russell Bourland, Mrs. Danny Sullivan and Mrs. George Sartor.

Using Mrs. Coon, her model, she demonstrated how one basic hair style and make - up could be transformed from morning into evening style.

Highlighting the evening's program was a style show of fall fashions from Spigel's of West Monroe, with the models also wearing coordinated hair styles, created by Mrs. Guin.

At conclusion of the evening refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Jim Campbell. Central decor for the serving table, covered with a pale pink linen cutwork cloth was an arrangement of pink carnations and purple chyrsanthemums combined with cattails.

Other members present were Mrs. Jennings Wilkins, Mrs. Bob Kennedy, Mrs. Bennie Andrews, Mrs. Russell Bourland, Mrs. Danny Sullivan, Mrs. Jack White, Mrs. Gene Dupuy Jr., Mrs. Fred Bennett Jr., Mrs. Dewey Allbritton, Mrs. Fred Crenshaw, Mrs. T. A. Sanders Jr., Mrs. Edward Long, Mrs. Bill Norris III, Mrs. Jerry Mingledorff, Mrs. George Sartor and the speaker.

State Forestry Auxiliary Sets Two-Day Meet

"Candle Making for Special Occasions" will be the subject of a talk by Mrs. Ford S. Lacey of Baton Rouge during a coffee for members of the Seedling and Sapling Club, ladies' auxiliary to the Louisiana Forestry Assn., when the LFA meets in Alexandria Sept. 23-24.

Mrs. Lacey's talk will be part of the Sept. 24 program for members of the club. Also on the program will be a talk by Mrs. Drew LaCroix of Pineville on clipped pine and pine cone arrangements in the home.

Special feature of the ladies' activities during the two-day convention will be a pine cone arrangement contest, with entries to be submitted by members and displayed during the convention. First, second and third prizes in each of three classifications will be given by the American Forest Seed Co. One award for highest total points will also be given.

A native of Arkansas, Mrs. Lacey attended Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., and following graduation there, attended the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville and Marjorie Webster School for Girls in Washington, D.C.

In Baton Rouge, she is active in various fund raising campaigns including United Givers and March of Dimes. She has served as a volunteer teacher in the Baton Rouge Speech and Hearing Foundation, for children of pre-school age. She devotes time to senior citizens and their craft classes at the First Methodist Church.

She pursues flower arranging, interior decorating and candle making as hobbies.

Spray Cologne Hints Given

Does every woman really know how to apply the aerosol colognes and perfumes now on the market? Lots don't—and thereby waste precious fragrance. Here are some tips from the aerosol industry on how to spray cologne or perfume: hold the release valve at least 4 inches from the skin at wrist, arms, ears and neck. Do not spray too far away or most of the mist will be wasted, nor too near because it may run off.

Do not spray clothes since the scent may linger when you next wear the garment — perhaps with another perfume or cologne. Perfume and cologne mist should be kept, like all aerosols, away from heat — preferably on dressing table or shelf in the bath.

STOPS SOILING

Place a liner of wax paper under the inside leather band of hats to stop soiling due to perspiration.

For Fall Look For

. . . flat - pleated suit skirts that flare only in motion, low - pleat skirts on skimmer dresses, all-crystal pleat evening gowns.

. . . variations in suit jacket lengths, with boleros, trim waist - lengths, tunic lengths and three - quarter coat jackets.

. . . side closings on coats, suits, dresses, often double-breasted, sometimes concealed buttoning, matched in ensembles.

. . . wrap skirts, some both back and front, usually fake effects, the front wrap matching up to side closings on jackets.

. . . scarves in all suit jacket necklines, unless a bow-tie neck blouse is worn, the soft fill-in being a necessity for fashion.

. . . return of collars, upstanding rims on suit jackets, deeply notched on coats, white and plunging on dresses.

. . . the trench coat look in luxury fabrics, like quilted white satin, quilted shiny black cire, poplin lined with fur.

MRS. EDWARD JOSEPH MICHAUD

Michaud-Carpenter Vows Exchanged In Winnfield

Miss Brenda Carpenter became the bride of Lt. Edward Joseph Michaud in a ceremony Saturday, September 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist church of Winnfield. Rev. George W. Ross officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Uriel Breard Carpenter of Winnfield and the late Mr. Carpenter and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Albert Michaud of Hodge.

A massive arrangement of white stock, asters and roses flanked by seven branched brass candelabra holding tall white tapers against a background of palms formed a background setting at the altar. Brass floor baskets of the white flowers were on either side of steps leading to the brass prie dieu.

Preceding the ceremony a prenuptial concert was rendered by the organist, Mrs. Ruth Dufresne, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Hiram Wright. Candles were lighted by Tim Gaar and Herbert Farr of Winnfield.

Escorted by her brother, Breard Carpenter, the bride was wearing a gown of candlelight silk peau de soie fashioned with regal directoire silhouette. The bodice with Sabrina neckline and long sleeves was accented by appliques of Brussels lace and seed pearls, with the motifs repeated on the court train. A matching silk and lace pillbox held her tiered shoulder veil of illusion. She carried a lace covered Bible crested with an arrangement of bridal roses, stephanotis and stock centered with a white orchid and showered with satin streamers and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Warren Taylor, Ruston, attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown of turquoise chiffon over taffeta with an empire bodice accented by a matching satin inset and back panel. Bridesmaids, Miss Karen Jenkins, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Jesse Bridges of Winnfield and Miss Pat Arender of Jonesboro, wore gowns of aqua chiffon styled identical to that of the honor attendant. They wore matching halo hats with tulle veils and matching shoes and carried heart shaped bouquets of bridal roses, stephanotis and stock. Pink sweetheart roses outlined the lace-trimmed form.

Andre Michaud of Hodge served his brother as best man. Groomsmen - ushers were Larry Diamond of Shreveport; Jesse Bridges, Winnfield; Russell Vick and Lt. George Porter of Waco Texas.

Following the ceremony the bride's mother entertained at a reception in Fellowhip hall of the church. For the occasion Mrs. Carpenter wore a dusky pink crepe model with pink sequin - crowned velvet hat, white gloves and matching accessories. Receiving with Mrs. Carpenter was Mrs. Donnie Briehn of Jonesboro, sister of the groom. Both wore white orchid corsages.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Holmes Jr. Mrs. Breard Carpenter presided at the guest book on a table covered with a floor length cloth of net over satin, and graced with a memory candle, encircled with white lace and aqua net and decorated with roses, wedding bells and lilies of the valley.

The bride's table was covered with a floor length satin cloth overlaid with net and held the milk glass punch bowl, wreathed with pink roses. The tiered wedding cake at the opposite end was served by Mrs. Don Walsh and Mrs. Max Crowe, Mrs. Max Allen and Mrs. Maxwell Crowe presided at the punch bowl. Centering the table was a brass candelabra holding white tapers and based with bride's roses stephanotis and stock.

The groom's table was presided over by Jack Beckley, Mrs. Maudie Long, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Holmes E. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Michaud. The round table was covered with a floor length white cloth overlaid with a cover of white and gold. Aqua, gold and white grapes were clustered around a single candle in a brass holder as the central decor.

Rice bags were presented guests by Susan Crow, Susan Walsh and Cathy Wright, assisted by Mrs. S. E. Jenkins. Mrs. M. E. McFadden Sr., Ruston and Mrs. Fannie Shetley of Winnfield were in charge of the reception which carried out the bride's chosen colors of turquoise, aqua and gold. Others assisting in courtesies were Mr. and Mrs. Newton Forrest, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wroten, Mrs. E. H. Farr, Mrs. Willie Gaar, Mrs. J. F. Whatley and Mrs. Alvin Hahn.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a suit of antique gold raw silk with hat of multicolored feathers and fawn accessories. A gold-throated orchid completed her ensemble.

Cultura Club Hears Talk By Harvey Paige

Launching their new fall season members of the Cultura Book club met Monday night in the home of Mrs. Ralph Whitlock, in West Monroe with Mrs. Bud Shepard and Mrs. Robroy Young as co-hostesses.

Mrs. James Henderson, vice-president, introduced Harvey Paige as guest speaker for the evening. Mr. Paige, an interior decorator, displayed a number of samples of wallpaper, carpet and drapery fabrics which he used in demonstrating various ideas in decorating to the club members.

The business session following the program was conducted by the president, Mrs. Ralph Reed during which plans for the forthcoming year were discussed.

At the close of the evening refreshments were served to Mrs. Kenneth Adams, Mrs. Sue Beasley, Mrs. Bob Branch, Mrs. Henry Camp, Mrs. Harold Crew, Mrs. Richard Curry, Mrs. Gene Hardin, Mrs. Breard Frantom, Mrs. James Henderson, Mrs. Dale Hendricks, Mrs. Earl Hendricks, Mrs. Conley Hogan, Mrs. Brent Hulsey, Mrs. Harry Liner, Mrs. Donald Logan, Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, Mrs. Roland Nix, Mrs. Charles Oxford, Mrs. Ralph Reed, Mrs. Walter Silmon, Mrs. Tommy Spurlock Jr., Mrs. Charles Welch, Mrs. Gene Williams and Mrs. Bobby Wilson.

MISS MICHAEL ANN TERRAL

Michael Terral Engaged To North Carolina Man

Dr. and Mrs. Forrest McCormick Terral of Lake Providence, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Michael Ann Terral to David Scott Wilson of Raleigh, North Carolina. He is the son of Mrs. John Murray Wilson of Raleigh and the late Mr. Wilson.

The wedding is calendared for November 28 at 6:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church, Lake Providence. Officiating will be Rev. Ned L. Stout.

Miss Terral has chosen as her honor attendants, her sisters, Miss Claudia Dean Terral, Lake Providence, maid of honor and Mrs. James Benton Collier, Birmingham, Ala., matron of honor. Named as bridesmaids are Mrs. Thomas Terral, Ruston; Miss Martha Wilson, Raleigh, N. C., sister of the future bridegroom; Mrs. Michael McKeogh, New Orleans and Miss Mary Ashbridge Voelker, Lake Providence, junior bridesmaid.

The prospective bridegroom has chosen Charles Patterson Green to serve as best man. Ushers will include Thomas Forrest Terral, William Timothy Terral, Arch Turner Allen, William Thomas Cozart, Kenneth Alexander Kirby and Hal Venable Worth III.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael LaCroix Bell of Mangham and Mrs. Thomas Fountain Terral and the late Mr. Terral of Farmerville. She is a graduate of Louisiana State University and a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Mr. Wilson, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hoof, Evanston, Illinois and the late Mr. and Mrs. William E. Wilson of Scottsburg, Pa. A member of Zeta Psi fraternity he is presently a naval officer, stationed at Athens, Ga., where the couple will reside.

New Shoe Looks For Fall Include Patent Leather

Fall shoes will be far more than something to cover the feet. The whole fashion excitement about legs, which has brought in textured and fancy stockings, must necessarily include feet.

Example: A lace stocking, black, worn with a low-heeled black patent tapered pump, the front rising in a buckle-cut flange. The use of patent for fall and winter, a coming trend for the last few years, is now an established fact. Nothing looks as well with lace stockings as the elegance of patent.

The tapered walking shoe is another trend. Although textured stockings call for a rugged look in shoes, few women want to make their feet look clumsy. The result is a wholly new kind of walking shoe, done in rugged suede but with a tapered silhouette, often a cut-out, buckled back over a sturdy walking heel. The look combines the best of city with country.

Patent for dress and the tapered walking shoe are perhaps the two most advanced fashion ideas for fall. In general, heels will be lower, even for dress shoes, except those to be worn with true evening gowns. Only then will the high-heeled shoe be considered the fashionable shoe to wear.

Patents, however, may well be the most versatile fall leather. They appear in pumps, walkers, sling-backs and evening shoes. Patent is also used with other leathers and fabrics and the color range matches all fall fashion shades.

There is no real reason why patent should ever have been confined to spring, especially as its ease of care makes it an ideal year-round leather.

Demand Grows For Diamonds

All signs show that diamond jewelry, once limited to the few, is now wanted and bought by the many, the Jewelry Industry Council reports. To meet the swelling demand, more and more new and delightful designs are being shown. The first diamond, of course, is the fancy diamond ring. After that comes the diamond pin, followed by diamond earrings, bracelets or watch. To round out the wardrobe of sparklers: a diamond necklace, the piece de resistance.

Gilley-Harrell Nuptials Read In Home Scene

The wedding of Miss Frances Earlene Harrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Harrell of Delhi, to Jimmy Allan Gilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Gilley, 2800 Gordon Ave., Monroe, was solemnized Saturday, September 5 in the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. Connie Ward performed the ceremony at 1 p.m. Large baskets of white gladioli flanked the mantel over the fireplace above which were large white wedding bells and Rose of Montana, to form a background setting.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a ballerina length gown of white peau de soie. The sleeveless bodice was topped by a brief lace jacket featuring long sleeves. She carried two white orchids with green net and small white bells.

Miss Mary Jo Jarmon, cousin of the bride, maid of honor, wore a turquoise ballerina length frock and carried a pink orchid. Delroy Cox of Monroe, attended the bridegroom as best man.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a royal blue jersey with pink accessories and a pink orchid corsage. The bride-groom's mother wore a white suit with navy pin-stripe blouse and black patent shoes. Her corsage was also a pink orchid.

A reception followed in the home where the bride's table was covered with white net and centered with an arrangement of tiny pink roses and white wedding bells. The reception table also held an arrangement of pink roses in a milk glass bowl.

For a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a green suit with beige accessories and matching hat. Mr. Gilley is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school and is presently receiving training with the infantry at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. The bride, a senior at Delhi high school, will remain at her parents's home until he completes training.

Texture, Color Big News In Fall Draperies

Exciting new color combinations and the use of textured effects in prints is the big news for fall drapery lines, according to Home Furnishings Daily. The textural look is achieved through the interplay of colors, such as light versus dark, and the interplay of contrast and design.

Heavy cotton goods with the look of wovens in the lower price brackets will also be important this fall.

Textured effects are somewhat offbeat. The main effect is architectural. Molded stone, such as is seen in some of the Renaissance churches of Spain and Italy, is seen frequently. In addition, tiles, wrought iron gates, Oriental rugs, crewel embroidery furnish inspiration.

Colors run all over the lot, Home Furnishings Daily finds. Browns are more important; pinks range from the light powder variety to fire engine reds. The blues, which are strong, are slate, cadet, peacock, turquoise and indigo. Green is still important, especially grass green combined with other greens or blue. Gray as a ground color is gaining.

Colors are important in solid fabrics. Many of the new casements are in bright Scandinavian combinations, often in stripes. Colors are deeper and darker and more varied.

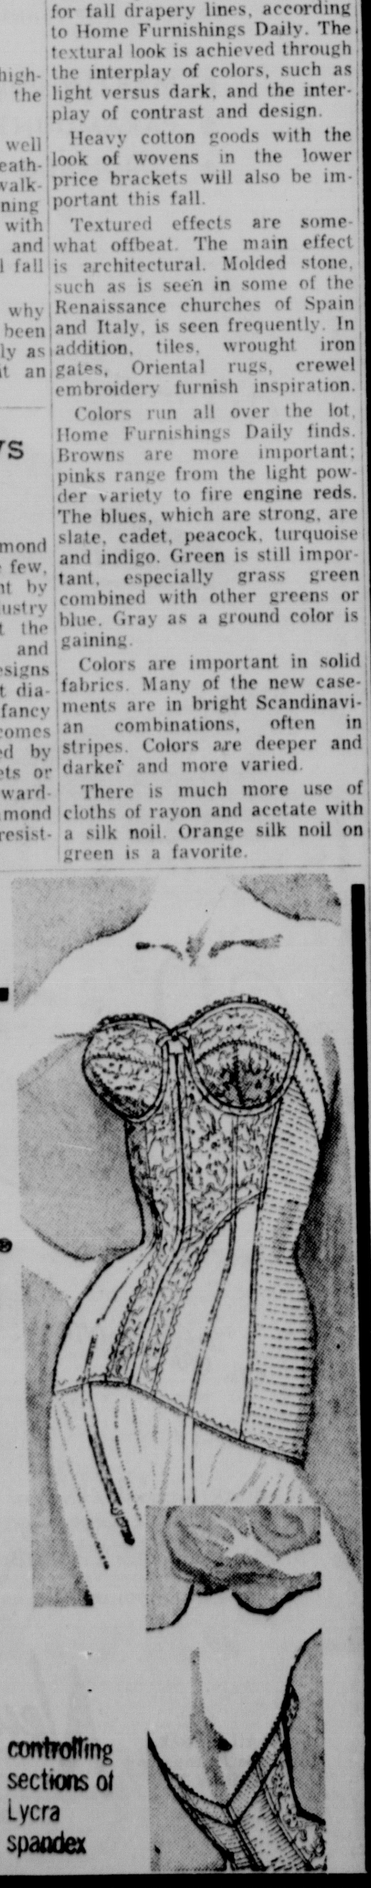

There is much more use of cloths of rayon and acetate with a silk noil. Orange silk noil on green is a favorite.

Sky Blue, Green Accents Suggested For Bedroom

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: We just painted the master bedroom a medallion gold, bedspreads are a deeper gold. Twin beds are placed in front of a three-window unit, the only windows in the room. What color for draperies, chair and rug?

A: Select a deep gold for rugs. For floor - length draperies, find a print — not too large or too busy — in a gold ground of walls with sky blue, touch of spring green and some white. Pick up the green for the chair and sky blue for some accessories. Print could also be used for dust ruffles to unify this section of room.

Q: I will be redecorating my dining and living room in Early American. We will buy new rugs, sofa and chairs. Would like an Early American blue to predominate in room. What color for rug, furniture and wall, the fireplace, is in antique pine paneling. Would it be all right to have a Provincial print on dining room wall? Half is wood paneling. Also, could I cover dining room chair seats in red? I have a beautiful red upholstery material waiting to use at the right time.

A: This may be too colorful for you but scheme would make a cheerful room. Paint walls in living room a pale curry. Cover sofa in Early American blue. Cover chairs and have draperies in a Provincial print in pale curry ground with fresh greens, red and blue. Oval rugs could be a rich curry. Dining room walls could be covered in same fabric as living room draperies. Use same print or pale curry for curtains. Dining room chairs could be in red and if you have enough material left, cover a small chair or stool with this for the living room.

MRS. TALMAGE HANSON

Hanson-Jones Vows Read

Grace Methodist church in Ruston was scene of the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Patricia Jones, and Talmage Hanson in the late afternoon of September 4. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie B. Jones of Ruston and Mr. Hanson is the son of Mrs. C. L. Freeman, Ruston, formerly of West Monroe and W. D. Hanson, Houston, Texas.

Rev. Wilson Watson officiated at the double ring ceremony following an organ prelude by Mrs. Hal Barker. Twin arrangements of gladioli, daisies and white asters against a background of white tapers in branched candelabra formed a setting at the altar for the exchange of vows.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short dress of white silk shantung with a white lace jacket over the sleeveless scoop necked bodice. Her brief veil of silk illusion fell from a white pillbox hat and she carried a cascade bouquet of white French carnations and a large white cattleya orchid surrounded by seed pearls and two pearl hearts, with streamers of lace and satin.

The bride's only attendant, Miss Kay DeFreese of Ruston, wore a blue silk shantung dress and carried a cascade of blue carnations with white satin leaves.

Lewis Davis of Magnolia, Ark., served Mr. Hanson as best man. Ushers were Frank Jones of Birmingham, Ala., brother of the bride and Lory William Hamner of Ruston. Candles were lighted by Mr. Jones.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Jones were hosts at a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's mother received in a two piece dress of egg shell crystalline with brown accessories and a corsage of blue Frenched carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of rose lace with a matching hat and white accessories.

Mrs. Paul Davison and Mrs. Lewis Vick assisted by Mrs. C. E. Causey had charge of arrangements. An epergne filled with white and pink roses and white lace flowers centered the bride's table, from which ivy extended to the edges. Mrs. Roy Bryan served the wedding cake and alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Frank C. Jones, Birmingham, Ala., sister-in-law of the bride and Miss Sharon Moore. Others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Paul Davison, Mrs. Lewis Vick, Mrs. J. L. McCullin, Mrs. Cecil Harrell, Mrs. Billy Hamner and Miss Celia Harrell. Miss Margie Hanson, sister of the groom, presided at the bride's book.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Dallas and Six Flags, the bride was wearing a blue and white knit ensemble with a black pillbox and the orchid from her bouquet. They will be at home at 307 College in Ruston, where Mr. Hanson will continue his studies at Louisiana Tech.

Fort Miro DAR Hears Tech Professor Speak

Julia Wossman Recreation Center was scene of the September meeting of Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution last Saturday afternoon. Miss Carrie Dee Drew, regent, conducted the business session.

The American flag and an autumn flower arrangement was used on the speaker's table.

After repeating the Pledge of Allegiance, the Daughter's Pledge and American's Creed, the group sang The Star Spangled Banner.

An invitation was read from Longleaf Pine Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Ruston, to attend the district meeting on Tuesday, September 29 at the Holiday Inn in Ruston.

Mrs. W. A. Whitfield Jr., chairman of the American Indians committee, reported that Fort Miro financially aids Indians in Louisiana and other states. Miss Drew informed the group that a tape "Citizen U.S.A.," has been purchased by the chapter and is available for use by schools, clubs and other interested groups.

A new member, Mrs. E. M. Stephan Jr. was welcomed.

Mrs. Herbert Steed, national defense chairman, issued a reminder of observance of Constitution Week September 17-23 and urged members' participation. Constitution Week chairman, Mrs. Jase H. Johnson, stated that the observance commemorates the 177th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution, which is the oldest constitution still in active use.

Miss Drew gave the DAR theme for 1964-65: "The People who know their God shall stand firm and take action." Program chairman, Mrs. Pascal Norris, introduced the Constitution Week speaker, John Winters, professor of history at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston. Mr. Winters talked on the making and ratifying of the constitution.

A social hour followed the program during which refreshments were served from a lace covered table, which held a massive arrangement of pink roses in a silver epergne flanked by pink tapers. Miss Drew presided at the silver tea service.

Members attending were Mrs. Jase Johnson, Mrs. Mabel Cole Ratliff, Mrs. R. C. Goodman, Miss Carrie Dee Drew, Mrs. John P. Zoll, Mrs. Pascal Norris, Mrs. C. E. Buckley, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield Jr., Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. A. F. Rabun, Mrs. Frank Yelton, Mrs. T. M. Killgore, Mrs. Thomas Henry, Mrs. John G. Cale, Miss Elizabeth Langford, Mrs. B. A. FALL'S OVERSIZE TWEEDS and plaids, take to the bold stocking textured in a contrasting pattern. Gold and beige over-the-knee stockings are worn with houndstooth shorter skirt, a mocha ghillie or a medium heel.

FOR FALL, wear a flirty black dress with a ruffled hemline. To complete the look, white lace tights, black patent sandals. Lace hosiery is also available in regulation length and just-over-the-knee stretch stockings. Colors go all the way from a sophisticated black to warm cocoa to a fresh salmon pink.

Hosiery Takes Spotlight In Fashion Leggy Picture

Suddenly everyone's talking about hosiery. This is the year that hosiery steps into the realm of "must have" fashion accessory.

Here's what to look for when you're shopping for hosiery:

In Sheers: lots of exciting color, with lights and darks as important as perennial neutrals. The paled and frosty lights coordinate with all of winters now firmly - established pastels, the white coats and dresses, the beautiful paled suits in all shades of pink that will be popular. Look for stockings in shades of browns, greens, purple and deep blue to wear with tweeds in all those colors. Remember the newest hosiery look is to wear colors that don't match but that do harmonize or shock. Discover the intriguing world of hosiery texture with sheer stockings in all shades — from palest beiges to inky blacks. Patterned sheers may be quite subtle or bold, depending on the color and size of pattern.

For town and country: the heavier textured stockings in a myriad of colors and patterns. Wear color clashing in a purple tweed suit with red ribbed over-the-knee stockings or a bright pink stocking with a bold black and white check suit. Wear the short over-the-knee skirt, and skirts will be shorter this fall, with black-and-white snowflake knee socks.

Don't think knee socks will be relegated only to the campus. They will be part of the smartest town looks. One of Seventh Avenue's most talented designers showed a trio of suits in blue, green and pink with short over-the-knee prancy skirts and matching knee socks. Knee highs are a perfect complement to leather and suedes, too. With a leather pleated skirt or an A line tortoise shell skirt, wear a camel heavily textured knee high.

For after five — you'll love the look of the new so-called discotheque dresses. If you're not going to a discotheque, buy one of these new short dresses with lots of hemline interest anyway. It's a new again, and completely feminine and sexy way of evening dressing. Slightly wild are the lace hosiery for evening . . . not only in stockings but in tights and sassy, over - the - knee stockings. Pick your colors: sharp blacks, cool whites or upbeat pinks, mochas and beiges. Evening sheers patterned in acorns, medallions or fleur de lis are perfect mates for the beautiful brocades and matelasses in French blue, shimmery gold or a delicate leafy green.

Remember that this year more than ever, the right hosiery is part of the total fashion look. Shop with an eye to acquiring a complete hosiery wardrobe for day through evening. Stockings will do everything this year from attracting attention, to keeping you warm to adding that final bit of glamour to your new party dress.

Plan Surprise To Welcome Bride Home

September is a time for thousands of new households to spring up all over the country. Brides have elected August as the second most popular month for wedding dates, and that means the newlyweds will move into their first home with the start of the Fall season.

If you are a family member entrusted with the key to the newlywed's home during their honeymoon trip, you might slip in the day before the homecoming to stock the kitchen cupboards. The bride will want to plan the first week's menu herself, but she will no doubt be delighted to discover a shelf full of staples she'll need at once.

Flowers are a cinch to brighten her home as the first pieces of furniture are put into place. So, if you aren't near enough to stock the pantry shelves, you can wire posies to brighten the empty corners. Florists' Telegraph Delivery reports that a bouquet of chrysanthemums carries a wish for long life and happiness, but a floral arrangement of whatever flower the new bride favors will deliver the message of your thoughtfulness.

When she has had a chance to put her house in order, ask the newlywed to a luncheon or tea at your home. It will probably be her first chance to see her old friends again. And, you might include some new faces, especially some other young girls in their first year of married life.

Encourage her to telephone and make drop-in visits. In the first few weeks after the honeymoon, she may want a sounding board for her ideas on menu planning, decorating and all the things that go into setting up housekeeping. She'll be happy just knowing you're there.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Declare Neutrality To Divorced Parents

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: How should a 14-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy act when their parents are being divorced?

Mom and dad are trying their darndest to get us to take sides. My sister and I are fed up listening to them. Dad says mom is a cold fish, that he got tired of pecks on the cheek and a turned back. Mom says dad ran around with young girls as well as with her married friends and she couldn't give him any love after that.

I will be in college in six months and my sister will be in boarding school. Being away will help a lot, but we need to know how to get off the spot now. Any suggestions? — Products of PFF-TT

Dear Products: Children of divorce have a tough enough time without being pulled and hauled from both sides.

Declare your neutrality and tell them you don't want to hear anymore propaganda from either one of them. You may have to say it three or four times but after a while they'll know you mean business and the problem will be resolved for all time.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15-year-old girl and have a question that is turning into a problem.

Lately a lot of people, including my boy friend, have said to me, "You are getting more like your mother every day." I don't know whether this is a compliment or an insult.

It would relieve my mind a whole lot if you would tell me your opinion. I thank you. — STEADY READER OF YOUR ARTICLES

Dear Steady: What's your mother like? Do you want to be like her or don't you? Your answer to this question is my answer to your letter.

Dear Ann Landers: You frequently advise people through your column to seek professional help. I hope you will continue to do so — even though some people may resent it and tell themselves, "I'm not crazy. Why should I go to a psychiatrist?"

I had known for a long time that I needed psychiatric help but I kept putting it off with one excuse after another. My mother insisted that all I needed was rest. My father said I would spend a fortune and that I couldn't afford it, especially since "the effectiveness of psychiatry is still a 60-40 gamble against" as he put it.

I wrote to you and you said, "GO, girl." That clinched it. I went. The cost of treatment (14 months) was about the same as a major operation. This included a change of psychiatrists. I didn't get on well with the first one and changed after three visits.

Anyone who thinks psychiatrists are after your money should try to get an appointment. Furthermore, they are worth every dime they charge. It's the best money I ever spent.

My parents insist I would have been O. K. without therapy, and maybe they are right, but thank God I didn't take that chance. — N. Y. READER

Dear N. Y. Reader: Thanks for supporting psychiatric help.

I'm pleased you pointed out that you didn't get on well with your first therapist so you changed doctors. Too often a patient will write off the entire profession because his initial relationship with a psychiatrict is not satsifactory. I'm glad you knew better.

Confidential to SEARCHING AND SEEKING. You can tell a great deal about a person by what he does when he has nothing to do. Take a reading, Chum.

ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," gives sound and solid rules for teenage dating. To recieve a copy, enclose with your request 20 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Monroe Morning World, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Checks, Plaids, Stripes Create Fall Pattern

After a summer-ful of shy pastels and coy little prints, the honest, colorful patterns of fall are a refreshing wardrobe change of pace. For the girl going back to college, the careerist with a new job, or for the young-at-heart homebody, fall fashions are patterned boldly and brightly.

The all - time favorites — checks, plaids, and stripes — are now appearing in new fabrics with an upbeat appeal. Fashions made with Creslan acrylic fiber have the color-clarity on which these big, bright patterns rely for their effect. This fiber has a special talent for taking color, and holding it forever.

Stripes, for example, are no longer simply alternating bands of two different colors. They might be bias strokes of four or more wildly contrasting shades . . . of big, bold slashes of shade upon shade.

Plaids might be hugely exaggerated blocks in bright tartan colors, or they might be line upon line of subtle blending ones. And a check on checks reveals medium-to-large, make-no - mistake - about - it block checks sharing honors with the overgrown houndstooths.

Just one of these brave new patterns will add spark to a wardrobe. Have an offbeat poncho, for example, in the bias stripes, bordered with yarn fringe. Or a snug, warm plaid bathrobe might be just the thing for the dorm-ite. The new fabrics made with Creslan are warm and light in weight, so such a robe would see a co-ed comfortably through the longest study or gab session.

MISS JACKIE ARLENE BLACK

Jackie Black To Become November Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. John C. Black, Sterlington announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Jackie Arlene Black to Hayden Junior Pierson, with the U. S. Navy, stationed at Pensacola, Florida. He is the son of Mrs. Bill Williams, Brawley, Calif., and the late Hayden Harry Pierson.

The wedding is planned for November 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Sterlington, with Rev. Ray P. Raddin officiating.

The bride-elect has chosen Mrs. Bonnie Sue Buford as matron of honor and Miss Gale Carver, bridesmaid.

Miss Black is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orian Collinsworth of Ringgold and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Black, Sterlington.

Mr. Pierson received his education in schools at St. Louis, Missouri and is now in the navy.

Many Moods In Sleepwear

Your sleepwear for Fall '64 is going to have as many moods as your clothes wardrobe itself. Pajamas are as bright and exciting as sportswear. Gowns run the gamut from knee - length shifts in contemporary art color blazes to frankly feminine froths of lace and cobwebby tricot that fall to the floor like romantic evening costumes.

Many items double for smart loungewear — perfect for TV watching, roaming around the house or around the world.

Fishermen's Knits Newest Fashion Rage

A new knit style has come along to be added to the rage for Italian mohair sweaters. Called fisherman knits, they have a bulky, handknit look, big collars and a tunic length.

The original stems from Ireland, where they are really hand-knitted from bleached or natural wool. Naturally, they are expensive, so the machine knitters of Italy have begun turning them out in larger quantities at lower prices.

The first ones will be in the natural or bleached tones, but later versions will come in gold and pastels for the holidays. There will then be the usual fight between purists turning up their noses at anything but the original no-color and the girls who love colors whether authentic or not.

At any rate, the fashion upgrading of sweaters continues.

VITALITY!

The sensible shoe too smart to show it.

Vitality creates a temptress by flinging a veil of lace 'cross the vamp of the pump. A pulsingly exciting one with night black patent upper, mid low heel. Beneath the veiled vamp hides the innocent comfort of insole cushioning.

NEW MEMBERS of the Monroe Garden Club were honored at a tea given by the club Monday afternoon at Elsong, the garden of Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn on Riverside Drive. Among those introduced to the membership are from left to right, Mrs. A. T. Van Veckhoven, Mrs. A. E. Montgomery Jr., Mrs. Walter Rhodes, and Mrs. Alfred K. Christensen pictured with the tea chairman, Mrs. Charles H. Bird.

Monroe Garden Club Entertains At Tea Honoring 23 New Members

In honor of 23 new members the Monroe Garden Club entertained with a tea Monday afternoon, September 14. Scene of the occasion was Elsong, the formal garden at the home of Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn on Riverside Drive from 2 until 4 p.m.

Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. O. C. Jones, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. King Stubbs and Mrs. Allan Sholars greeted members at the gate with registration nearby in charge of Mrs. H. K. Touchstone Jr., Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Mrs. J. B. Parker and Mrs. August Danti.

The receiving line was formed by the officers, Mrs. Paul Ransom, president; Mrs. Harold Woods, president-elect; Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, first vice-president; Mrs. H. K. Touchstone Jr., secretary; Mrs. John Collins, treasurer; Mrs. Ralph Marionneaux, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. T. Heard, historian and Mrs. C. H. Bird, tea chairman, and by the new members.

New members are Mrs. Fred Amman, Mrs. James G. Aycock, Mrs. Arthur S. Brueck, Mrs. Mattea Colquette, Mrs. Alfred K. Christensen, Mrs. Milton A. Gorn, Mrs. Thomas R. Houghton, Mrs. A. W. Smart Shapes Featured In Fall Millinery

Starting at the top of the fall accessory picture is the hat, a must this season, say fashion stylists. Smart shapes that are "in" include the Scout or trooper hat, Garbo - type cloches, bowlers, berets, and the very newsy and new - looking scarf hat which is big in Europe, and expected to be even bigger here come fall.

Flattering, comfortable fur hats — in all shapes and skins — are more popular than ever. Leather looks light - headed in millinery this fall, both in colors and weights; it adapts beautifully, complementing the casual costume uniquely.

Compact Plants Lend Autumn Beauty To Home

You can have a lot of beauty in little space if you select "compacts" for your new fall house plants.

Favorites, of course, for autumn, are the new "compact" chrysanthemums. They're available in three to five-inch clay pots in a wide range of colors from yellows to russet shades. Another flowering plant that's coming into year round favor is the "compact" azalea. Professional growers have developed an interesting array of both these popular plants, with shorter stems, without sacrificing blossom size and fullness.

Miniature roses in red clay pots, and cyclamen, one of the most luxuriant of fall and winter plants will also make distinctive and colorful additions to your shelves, or coffee or lamp tables.

For locations that get little light, gloxinias in porous clay pots will do handsome decorative duty. Also they will tolerate higher temperatures than most flowering plants, which make them ideal for today's often overheated homes and apartments. You'll also find many types of small, low-growing begonias to vary your interiors without crowding them.

In the glamour department, many florists and garden centers are also offering small, clay-potted orchid and gardenia plants, which will do well in such humid areas as kitchens, bathrooms and even laundry rooms.

For lively green effects, try the many varieties of clay-potted ferns and ivies, or miniature pots of cacti or succulent plants, which will do very well in dry atmospheres, since they store their own water for long periods.

FROTHY DESSERT

An extra egg white in the refrigerator? Beat it until stiff, then beat in a couple of tablespoons of sugar. Fold in a teaspoon of lemon juice, a suspicion of grated lemon rind and a cup of drained crushed pineapple. Serve with lady fingers.

SWEET MOLD

Pitted and sliced fresh sweet plums are pleasant to add to a flavored - gelatin dessert. The tartness of the plums makes a fine addition to the sweet mold.

AIR WOOLENS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alice Linn, clothing specialist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, suggests that before storing woolens, take them outside for a good airing. Brush thoroughly to destroy possible moth eggs and larvae.

Better yet, have the clothes drycleaned. This kills all stages of clothes moths, she said.

Monroe, that most hospitable of towns, continues to entertain even during this slack season between summer holidays and winter parties. Whether honorees are visitors or newcomers, they find a hearty welcome here.

Up from Baton Rouge last weekend were BILLIE and JOE HAIR, LOLITA and LEON GARY. They were guests of JUNE and BREWER GODFREY in their home on Pargoud Boulevard from Friday through Sunday.

Honoring these visitors, VICKY and SHELBY HILL were hosts at a Friday night open house at their home on Marie Place. Vicky used a silver and crystal epergne filled with pink roses as central decoration on the dining room table. Standing buffet menu included turkey, ham, shrimp, and cheeses. Approximately thirty were invited to meet the Hairs and Garys.

Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of a luncheon honoring Billie and Lolita on Saturday, with ALLYNE PETTY as hostess. Fourteen guests were seated at the table which was centered with white Fuji mums. Vivid orange chrysanthemums standing on the window ledge formed a background for the table.

A boatride on the Ouachita was Saturday night's treat, with the Godfreys and G. L. MORGANS co-hosts on the Morgan's boat, the Playhouse. With some fifty guests aboard, the Playhouse departed at dusk, with supper served upriver after dark. The menu included barbecue ribs, boiled shrimp, baked beans, Cole slaw, and orange muffins for dessert.

On Sunday morning, June served quail breakfast for her visitors. The all-Southern menu included with quail, grits, sliced tomatoes, scrambled eggs, date nut coffee cake, and biscuits with orange marmalade or sloe jelly. Gardenias and English ivy centered the table.

Meanwhile, things were busy over at June's sister's home, where SARAH and RAY RHYMES were entertaining cousins from three states at a patio party last Saturday night. Occasion for the party was the visit of DR. HODGE SELLERS, his wife MINNIE, LEO ST. CLAIR, and KATHERINE SPENCE from Sulphur Springs, Texas. The first - named expressed a desire to meet with his cousins in these parts, and so the word went out throughout north Louisiana and southern Arkansas. Between forty and fifty attended.

Sarah's patio was lovely for the party, with moonvine blooming and ivy spilling from wall urns. Banks of green and white calladium edge the patio. Sarah served a standing buffet of outdoor-type food; Canadian bacon loaf, fried chicken, roast beef, assorted salads, devilled eggs, dips.

'Tis always a pleasure to welcome newcomers. Last Saturday night MARILYN and GEORGE SARTOR entertained at a patio supper party honoring the RICHARD ARMBRISTERS, who moved to West Monroe this summer. Red and white tablecloths covered the tables, which were set up outside. A large figure of a chef in tall white hat centered the buffet. Marilyn's menu included spaghetti, marinated green beans, fruit salad, and ice cream with brownies. Twenty-two guests attended.

On Thursday, BETTY HASTINGS was hostess at a luncheon welcoming MARTHA ANN HENRY. Martha Ann and her husband Henry are moving back to Monroe from Hammond after an absence of several years. The party was held at Bayou DeSiard country club. Six guests were seated at a table centered with pink carnations in a silver bowl.

And sometimes friends move away. JERRY ANDREWS leaves next week for Memphis (husband Andy is already there). ANN van VECKHOVEN complimented Jerry at luncheon Wednesday at Bayou DeSiard country club. The farewell theme was noted on the table, which was covered with a white cloth and centered with a green container filled with yellow chrysanthemums. Eight Barbie dolls, each wearing an appropriate costume and a banner saying "Au Revoir", "Goede Dag", or "Adios", marched the length of the table.

LETA OLIVER, who plans to move away around October 1, was named guest of honor when MAE WALSWORTH entertained at luncheon Friday at Bayou DeSiard county club. The table on the porch was covered with a green cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink roses, snapdragons, and ivy. Tiny cards ornamented with pink roses marked places for twelve guests, each of whom brought a handkerchief as going - away present for Leta.

The Miss America pageant was excuse and theme of a party at the home of JEAN and DOYLE HAMILTON last Saturday night. Fourteen guests were invited to watch the finals and to have dinner. One of these, BARBARA RIVERS, was once Miss Louisiana and a finalist in Atlantic City. Jean secretly "borrowed" Barbara's crapbook and used pictures and clippings therefrom in her decorations. A Barbie doll dressed in bathing suit, tiara, and royal mantle, and wearing the banner "Our Own Miss America," topped a tiered cake which centered the table. Leaning against the cake stand was noted a picture of Barbara with husband JIM and children STEPHANIE, CYNDY, CHELLE, QUINCEY, and JAY, and the caption "And then there were five."

Celebrating a real milestone, ALAN SUGAR was honored on his sixtieth birthday Friday evening. PAT invited fifteen for a family dinner in the private dining room at Bayou DeSiard country club. The tiered cake formed the centerpiece and was served by the honored guest.

This week we visited the new home of BETTY and WALTER HASTINGS on Deborah Drive. The house is of colonial brick in French provincial style with mansard roof. On the ground floor are long arched windows flanked by Wedgwood green shutters. Dormer windows are used on the second floor.

One enters through double front doors of antique walnut. The entrance hall has the off-white walls which are used throughout the house. Flooring is of concrete blocks, acidized and waxed in a finish called "burnished lime". This continues to the right through family room and kitchen.

To the left is the living room, which extends the depth of the house. Walls are off-white, carpet of celadon green, and windows "curtained" with shutters. This treatment is repeated throughout the house, giving a restful feeling of unity. The antique oak mantel with facing of thistle tile which was in Walter's family home is placed on the long wall of the living room. At the back of the room is a deep bay with long glass doors which open onto the patio at the rear of the house.

Both dining room and kitchen also have the bays opening onto the patio. Double folding doors lead from the living into the dining room. On the walls here is a flocked paper of white on gold, used above a white wainscoting. Draperies of pale gold raw silk with silk fringe draw over the bay. Furniture is French provincial in style.

Kitchen and family room are constructed as one large open room, separated by a peninsular of cabinets. Walnut stained birch is used for cabinets and for panelling in the living area. Draperies in the bay and wallpaper above the cabinets are printed with matching colonial designs in blue and olive green on a natural background. A hanging English lantern of cobalt blue is used over the round oak table with ice cream chairs which stands in the bay. Another family dining area is the built-in snack bar with its miniature ice cream chairs.

An open fireplace with raised hearth for seating fills one wall of the family room. Bookshelves at each side of the widow create a recessed window seat. Furniture includes a couch covered in blue and green tweed, two blue chairs, and an easy chair of green leather. Built-in cabinets conceal television and hi-fi equipment.

Gayest decor in the house is noted in the powder room located off the stair hall. Walls are covered in gold paper printed with black fleur de lis. The basin is recessed into a black marble counter, with a gold framed mirror above. On another wall hangs a black lavabo with gilded leaves.

Upstairs, the master bedroom is a spacious apartment roomy enough for a sitting area at one end. A loveseat covered in printed linen in shades of brown and green and a pair of green chairs stand in this corner, with antique maps hanging above. Another unusual feature in this room is the headboard of the king size bed. It was made from an arched panel framing the opening between parlor and dining room in a turn-of-the-century house. Turned posts and ornate carvings make an interesting pattern in oak against the white wall.

Betty's sewing room, which doubles as a guest room, is furnished with a couch which makes into a bed and a sewing machine which serves as a table when not in use. The closet conceals a chest of drawers for guests as well as sewing materials . . . Across the hall is the bedroom designed for DAVID and DAN, eight year old twins. They have maple twin beds with blue and green tweed spreads; double built-in desks; and chests built into a large closet . . . Eleven year old KAY's room also has built in desk and window seat. Conversation piece is an antique round table with claw feet, painted white . . . . Wrought iron beds, painted blue, are used with floral spreads in blues and greens in six-year-old JANE's room. Her desk is student desk from the old Ouachita Parish High school building.

Our poem for today is by Elizabeth Barrett Browning, based on verse 2 of Psalm 127.

Of all the thoughts of God that are Borne inward into souls afar
Along the Psalmist's music deep,
Now tell me if that any is
For gift or grace surpassing this —
"He giveth His beloved sleep."
What would we give to our beloved?
The hero's heart to be unmoved,
The poet's star-tuned harp to sweep,
The patriot's voice to teach and rouse,
The monarch's crown to light the brows?
He giveth His beloved sleep.
What do we give to our beloved?
A little faith all undisproved,
A little dust to overweep,
And bitter memories to make
The whole earth blasted for our sake:
He giveth His beloved sleep.
And friends, dear friends, when it shall be
That this low breath is gone from me,
And round my bier you come to weep,
Let one most loving of you all,
Say, "Not a tear must o'er her fall!
He giveth His beloved sleep."

Teenage Girl's Purse Ready For Anything

A man's home may be his castle, but a teen-age girl's purse is her arsenal.

In a recent spot-check of coeds' handbags at several schools, an inquiring reporter found everything from empty envelopes to left-overs from lunch. And while some did not carry compass and protractor (two of them actually did), almost every girl interviewed had a tin or small bottle of aspirin among the dozen or so miscellaneous items in her purse.

"I need all these things," was the almost invariable explanation. Usually it turned out that the empty envelopes or last year's class schedule were really not necessary, but the one thing that was considered vital by all was cosmetics. Comb and brush ran a close second, in a tie with car keys, house keys and aspirin. Bill folds came in a poor third.

Opinions differed among the girls on the number of ball point pens needed by the average high-school students—some said two, some said six. Only one girl carried more eyeglass cases than eyeglasses.

On two points all the girls agreed. They were certain that as they grow older their purses will become neither smaller nor less congested, and they all hoped they would never be called on to empty out everything to find some item in a hurry.

Old Time Bands Won't Fade Away

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Despite the popularity of discotheques, those dark, frenzied places where everyone dances to rock 'n' roll records, the old time band won't fade.

As one jazz buff put it, if it weren't for bands, you couldn't have discotheque. The music played at discotheques are records by the latest bands.

The yen to be in a big time band often begins in schools with the stage bands. And this summer for the sixth time, many stage band performers—14 to 19 — are going to jazz clinics on college campuses.

Guest stars are there for the full two - week period. Among the big names are Dave Brubeck, at the University of Connecticut and pianist Marty Paich, at Phillips University at Enid.

Marty, a writer - composer, has arranged for Ella Fitzgerald, Frank Sinatra and many others to appear. Woody Herman, is at the University of Nevada at Reno; trombonist Warren Covington and arranger-composer Oliver Nelson head the clinic at Western Reserve University at Cleveland. Covington took over from Tommy Dorsay at his death, then started his own orchestra.

While many young people further their musical education with the idea of working into a college scholarship (there are some around) a love for music is a common bond.

There isn't a vitamin lost either by the most devoted jazz buff attending the summer jazz clinics. Many find their appetites improved under the planned sessions. They start the day off with a big breakfast.

After scrambled eggs, the group sits down to a classroom session on theory, arranging and orchestra rehearsal. After lunch is a workshop with the guest artist conducting the session. Next is a sectional rehearsal, followed by a before - dinner practice or jam session.

EARLY AMERICAN CHARM: The enchantment of a well-designed Early American home is recaptured in this 1½-story, four-bedroom house, with a lot of modern "extras" never even imagined when this style of architecture first made its appearance.

TOUCH OF THE OLD: Much of the charm of this living room lies in its nostalgic features — fireplace with an arched hearth, a kettle hook and stand, wood slab mantle, wood storage bin, beamed ceiling and double Dutch doors leading to a private rear porch.

FLOOR PLANS: The center-hall foyer and the placement of the two downstairs bathrooms provide a desirable separation between the living and bedroom areas of this house.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Many Features Of Early American Always Popular

By ANDY LANG

There's a quiet, home-grown comfort about Early American design. Its traditional exterior features never go out of style. Many persons who set out to select one of the architectural creations developed in the 20th century find themselves choosing Early American because it so nearly expresses their ideas of what homes should look like.

An authentic representation of this ever-popular style has been designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern in the latest House of the Week. Even the "built-on" appearance of many Early American homes has been reproduced in Design H-49. Note the center, stone-faced portion of the house. This parallels the basic living quarters which would have been built first. As the family and its requirements expanded, so did the home with the left and right wings. Here, of course, the entire house is put together at one time.

The high-pitched roof, indispensable in the colonial days because of severe weather conditions, provides sufficient space here for two large bedrooms and plenty of closet and storage room. Where the headroom was very low in the original homes — just enough for storage purposes — it is a full eight feet in this modern adaptation.

The large chimney, centrally located, is also typical of the Early American hearth. This once was the only source of heat and the central location aided, to a minor degree, the heating of some of the other rooms. Here the fireplace in the living room is a focal point of interest. The living room has a large bow window looking out on the rear, as well as double Dutch doors providing access to a porch. Add the 25-foot length of this room to the 12-foot length of the dining room and you have a 27-foot sweep. Sliding glass doors in the dining room provide another entrance to the porch.

A large kitchen has an efficiency U-shaped area for food preparation and a separate breakfast section. Adjacent to the kitchen are a laundry and lavatory, with a front service porch that is out of sight but convenient.

The two-bedroom wing on the first floor, giving the family four bedrooms in all, is buffered from the living area by two well - sized bathrooms. One of the bathrooms is entered from the master bedroom, one from the hall leading to the other bedroom. The 1505 square feet of habitable area on this first floor contains an abundance of closet space, as a glance at the floor plan shows. Not included in this footage is a two-car garage, which has indoor-outdoor storage cabinets, accessible from the garage or the rear porch.

Exterior materials and little touches add to the Early American appearance. Among them are such things as narrow siding, native boulder stone, flush boards, shutters, a picket fence, lamp post and arched garage doors.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-49.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: I will be building a workbench for an area I have set aside in the basement for a workshop. Is it better to have a drawer for tools in the front of the bench or one of those tool troughs along the back of the bench?

I think the drawer will keep the tools from getting rusty, but feel that the trough will be a lot more handy, since it won't be necessary to open and close the drawer all the time.

ANSWER: I'm sorry to say that personal experience has made me deadset against either of your ideas. A tool drawer or a trough looks very nice — and some ready-made benches come with one or the other — but neither is very practical. Imagine yourself placing a piece of wood on the top of the bench and hammering nails into it. Tools in a drawer or trough will begin bouncing around and into each other. The same thing will happen every time you place a piece of wood in the vice and begin sawing. Tools can be hung up, placed in cabinets or laid in drawers, but storing them in anything attached to the workbench will only cause trouble.

The single most important factor in a workbench is its solidity. If it's strong and will take abuse it will be a good workbench, no matter how it looks. If it's weak and wobbles every time you use it, you won't care if it resembles an expensive piece of furniture.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Miniature Gardens

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Garden Center program was presented by Harvey Paige last Wednesday. "Rock Gardens" was the theme of the program. In order to give a good demonstration for the program, Mr. Paige displayed miniature gardens made of rocks of all types gathered from the roadside and from local nurseries (landscape material), and small tropical and bedding plants of all types.

Much interest was shown in this wonderful, informative program from all the comments that came to me. Rock gardens seem to be the present trend with the gardeners and it is necessary to know more about how to build them and where to place them in the landscape. Like the picture window it definitely needs it's proper place. Not all of us have the space required or the setting for such a garden.

However, it is well to investigate the landscape artists, or borrow books on the subject that will help us if we are interested. It is true that a lot of imagination can be used by the individual, but a need of landscape design is most important. The garden center has many helpful books on this subject, yours to borrow.

ONE OF HIGHLIGHTS

The Fifth District garden clubs of LGCF had a very successful meeting of all it's club representatives Wednesday at the Frances Hotel. One of the highlights of the meeting was the guest, Mrs. Jack Miller, accredited flower show judge, past LGCF president, and an artist in the field of flower arranging demonstration, especially tables. Mrs. Miller said that she was not a professional with this, but table designs happen to be her hobby. Her program started with the statement, "When brides say "I Do," they are saying this to many things, one being "table setting" three times a day. She complimented the young housewives of today, however, saying that they seem to have more interest and pride in this everyday chore that the brides of yesterday.

Another big highlight for the business session was the presence of our state president, Mrs. F. L. Jordan, a charming, forceful speaker who chose as her subject, "Conservation as a Way of Life." "Conserving our Natural Heritage" is the theme of the L.G.C.F. for 1964-65. We as individual garden clubbers should encourage the teaching of conservation in the schools, or to help send boys and girls go to 4-H camps. We could help with Boy and Girl Scout projects on this subject. Many other ideas were listed by Mrs. Jordan, giving as insight of how we as individuals could help with this all important subject so vital to us today. We need to think ahead for our present generation abouts ways to conserve this natural heritage that is ours. The garden clubs can be influential in preventing the harmful use of herbicides and insecticides. The use of biological controls is favored by the clubs, along with a thorough investigation of the effect that highly toxic chemcials have on both wildlife and man. This is so very important, we need to learn more about this one thing toward conserving our plants and wildlife.

When we are out in the woods looking for wild plants we need to know just which ones are on our own state conservation list. This is our duty, not just as garden clubbers, but as individual residents of Louisiana. Garden clubbers are given this list often. Many of us have this list printed in our garden club year books. Pity the club that does not stress this. Every club should include at least one program on conservation in its year's activity. If a species is scarce where you find it in the woods or along the byways, leave it, and find other ways to share your enjoyment. If the site or area in which the plant grows is of notable beauty or interest, it will uplift and inspire others who are sensitive to natural beauty. Find ways to conserve it. Even though the plant is not listed and we wish to take some for our own garden we can do this moderately. Be careful to leave part of it so that it can continue to multiply in it's own habitat.

MEMORANDUM

If you are interested in helping school children, members of Junior garden clubs, and other clubs for young clubs, write to the Nature Conservancy, 2039 K. Street NW, Washington 6, D.C., for the memorandum, "A School-Grounds Plant Exhibit."

In conclusion, as a reminder to leave with you, I will list the plant conservation list of Louisiana as follows: Azalea, Wild, Rhododendron canescens; Beard - flower: Rose pogonia, pogonia ophioglosslides; Bloodroot; Red puccoon, Sanguinaria canadensis; Dogwood, Flowering, Cornus florida; Gayfeather; Blazing - starm Liatris — all native species; Gentian, Closed, Gentiana Andrewsii; Holly, American, Ilex opaca; Hydrangea, Oak - leaf, Hydrangea quercifolia; Indian - pink, Spigelia marilandica; Jack-In-the-Pulpit, Arisaema triphyllum; Lady's - slipper, Yellow, Cypripedium pubescens; Magnolia, Cowcumber, Magnolia macrophylla; Orchis, Yellow-fringed, Havenaria ciliaris; Pitcher-plant, Sarracenia flava; Shooting - star, Dodecatheon Meadia; Solomon's Seal, polygontatum biflorum; Stewartia; Wild camellia, stewartia malachodendron; Trillium, Green, trillium viride; Trout - lily; Dog's tooth-violet, Erythronium americanum; Violet, Bird's-foot, Viola pedata.

Wednesday the West Oak Garden Club of Monroe, of which Mrs. Bette Mobberly is president, will present the Garden Center program.

Dig, Divide Native Iris

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

It is not too late to dig, divide and transplant native Louisiana iris and daylilies. Cut the foliage (fans) back to four to six inches from the ground level. Do not plant too deeply.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, have experienced trouble with nandina and other berrying shrubs holding berries, then feed the plants with one-half cup of high phosphate fertilizer such as 0-14-14.

This is an excellent week to clean all beds where spring and summer annuals have begun to die out. Spade eight to 10 inches and add peat moss to prepare the bed for fall and winter planting of cool seasoned annuals.

If you plan to move large evergreen plants (trees and shrubs) this winter, root prune them this month. The shock of moving will be less severe and the survival rate will be much greater.

Be sure to dig gladiola and caladium corms before frost. Store them in dry peat moss or hang the corms or tubers in old nylon stockings in a dry utility room not subject to temperatures below 40 - 45 degrees. Store only large sound corms or tubers. Discard all that are small, inferior, diseased and insect infested.

Continue to make cuttings of your favorite ornamentals. Remember warm moist conditions are necessary for rooting.

FAIR TIME

It's time to get those exhibits ready for our Ouachita Valley Fair, October 12-17. If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to know what to exhibit, come by our office, 704 Cypress, and pick up an exhibit card. You, Mrs. Homemaker, I know will want to exhibit your best jars of canned products and that luscious cake and pie that you bake. Practically every homemaking article can be exhibited, and if yours is the first, second, or third best, you will win a ribbon and cash award. Remember, if you want to enter your beautiful house plants if they are planted in buckets, tubs or etc., paint the container green.

Come by and get your exhibit card if you plan to enter articles in the Ouachita Valley Fair.

FASHION

There are new words in the fall fashion picture of '64. You, Mrs. Consumer, will want to know them. Asymmetric closing is the term for a double breasted front. It can be on coat, suit, jacket or skirt. Many blazier type asymmetric jackets have collars with generous lapels, others have no collar. Sometimes jackets are braid bound; often they have four pockets. The asymmetric closing may have one or two rows of buttons.

Living skirt is another new fashion word. This is the all new skirt which allows free and easy walking with pleats, panels, flare or soft folds. There's hardly a tight skirt in the news.

Skinny coats, means narrow lines, not boxy, and not tight fitting, identifies most coats as new. Watch for stand-up necklines or medium size collars. The asymmetric closing on these coats may have one or two rows of buttons.

Bus boy suit is another look in the fashion picture. This suit has a shorter jacket, about hipbone length. This suit jacket is shorter than most shown this season. It often has double pockets and double buttoning, too.

COUNCIL MEMBER

Mrs. Home Demonstration Council Member don't forget your important meeting Friday at 10 a.m. at the Agricultural Extension Auditorium in West Monroe. Your program chairman, Mrs. Ernest Grubbs, has a good program planned.

Mrs. Fred Riser, your president, wants you to remember that important decisions regarding the parish fair will be made at this meeting, so come and help make the plans.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Late Blooms From Bulbs

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

There is, somehow, a great deal more excitement about the late-summer and the fall blooming bulbs than there is about the daffodils and tulips of spring. Perhaps it is because we are so accustomed to the daffodils. After the long and trying summer weather, when the nights begin to cool us off and red and yellow leaves remind us that everything is soon going to sleep — to see brilliant violet colchicums, golden yellow sternbergias and red spider - lilies emerge from the bare ground and bloom in three days from "scratch" is really garden magic.

All kinds of spider - lilies started blooming earlier on the east coast this year than usual because of the heavy rains. In the drier areas, they have not started yet. Gardens which have yellow sternbergias will soon be full of them whether it rains or not, for these bulbs seem to flower well in times of drought. If it rains, the leaves come first. If the rains fail, the flowers just come up and bloom in the dust. Sternbergia bulbs will bloom in the sack if they are not planted, and so will colchicums.

FALL BLOOMING

Through this column, many Southern gardeners have become acquainted with the fall-blooming bulbs. First, we get requests for the names of nurseries which sell these various kinds of autumn bulbs, then we begin to get letters praising them. Incidentally, we now follow the policy so send your requests directly to the nurseries to save time.

It is not too late to look for colchicum bulbs in the seed stores. Plant them at once after an overnight soak, and they will flower right away if they are not already in bloom. Sternbergias are harder to find, but they are beginning to appear in some of the most popular nurseries' catalogues. They are worth any trouble to get a start of them. Look over the lists of spring bulbs and see if you do not find also some autumn crocuses offered. Any crocuses besides the regular spring flowering Dutch kinds will flower in fall or winter here in the South.

AT HOME

The true autumn and winter crocuses are perfectly at home with us in Dixie. Just remember to plant them four inches deep — even if the small corms look too small for that. The large colchicums can be set that deep, too, but they will do all right if they are no more than two inches underground. Crocuses have narrow striped foliage while colchicum foliage, which does not arise until spring, is sometimes as big as your hand. It should not be tampered with until it dies down completely.

What Would Happen If All The Electric Co-ops Ceased To Operate?

"Nothing," you say, if you live in town.
Think Again!

Member-owned Electric Co-ops are the only effective YARDSTICK to determine what electricity should cost here in Louisiana. Your rates would undoubtedly go up—in town and country!

Also, rural electricity, supplied by locally-owned and managed Electric Co-ops, has done more than any other one thing to raise the buying power of Louisiana's farmers. Thanks to low-cost power, the farmer can operate more efficiently, produce more and better crops—make more money to spend in towns and cities.

Take away rural electricity and you take away the buying power of rural Louisiana . . . and much of our main street prosperity. FARMING IS STILL LOUISIANA'S GREATEST INDUSTRY—BY FAR.

Non-profit, home-owned Electric Co-ops are the ONLY way ALL rural people can have electricity at rates ALL can afford. Think what that means to both town and country prosperity!

CURTAIN CALL

By JACQUE BIEGENWALD

We're happy to welcome our new technical director, Chris West, to Monroe. He comes well qualified to assist Executive Director Lonny Fraze in set design, lighting and the many technical aspects of putting on a play. Chris has had fine practical experience at Texas Christian University and Baylor University as well as some really creditable professional work. He and his lovely wife, Suzy, are both from Fort Worth.

How many of our readers remember Little Theater's production of "The Importance of Being Earnest," back in 1936? It was one of only four out of our first 25 shows not represented with a Green Room title. This week Owen McCleary reduced that number to three by purchasing a title for his leading role as John Worthing in that play. That still leaves "Love is All," "Tea for Three," and "Arms and the Man," without representation. We're also lacking a program for "Arms and the Man," for our collection.

Like the ads say, it isn't too early to be thinking of Christmas. If you have a friend or relative who appeared in one of those three plays, a title commemorating his role would be an unusual and inexpensive gift. And speaking of gifts, several of the patron memberships bought this past week were the gifts of friends.

NEW PATRONS

It's a pleasure to report that we have quite a few new patrons this year. As of press time, they included Mrs. A. J. Ensminger, Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hatten, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Keko, Dr. and Mrs. P. C. Reasons, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. McCarty, Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Dickenhorst, Mr. and Mrs. J. Austin Wink, Dr. and Mrs. Robert D. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCall, Miss Cecile Lacoste and Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Ritchie.

We've had a report that Theater Nashville took the plunge on summer productions this year with a rousing version of "Show Boat." Like our own first major summer attempt, "My Fair Lady," it was a smashing success. Some parties traveled as far as 140 miles to see the show, paving the way for an excellent membership for the coming season. We wish them the best of luck.

FASCINATION

The plays of Shakespeare hold a fascination for many in our audiences, those of us who are enchanted with the Bard's rolling prose and rich poetry and would cheerfully travel any distance to see a good production. Well, this winter, 30 short miles on the freeway will do it. The Louisiana Tech Concert Association Series is bringing the Dallas Theater Center with their company production of "Comedy of Errors" on November 30, followed by "Julius Caesar" on December 1. This group of players has toured Europe successfully with both of these plays.

In addition, there will be a repeat of "Julius Caesar" on Wednesday, December 2 at 9:45 a.m. for the children of the Tech service area, which extends for nearly a hundred miles. Perhaps t'would not be amiss for the Latin, history and literature teachers of Monroe to make up a bus load or two on that morning. For young minds, "Caesar" on the boards can often be more palatable than on the printed page.

The long arm of the law will be portrayed by three of Little Theater's most faithful actors in our first play of the season, "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" Hugh Matthews and Willoughby Thomas play the parts of "Powell" and "Doyle," the beleagered F.B.I. men, while John Goorley plays the role of "Parker," the man from C.I.A. Between them, these three stalwarts must have taken the parts of dozens of characters on our stage.

Little Theater is very happy to offer congratulations to the Masur Museum of Art on it's opening last Sunday. The museum is another substantial addition to the cultural achievement of the community, and we urge its wholehearted support.

'Hamlet' Will Be Shown At Paramount

"The part of Hamlet is the ambition of every young actor," observes a great Hamlet, Sir John Gielgud. Perhaps the greatest interpreter of the role is Richard Burton, whose portrayal will be offered here by Warner Brothers at the Paramount Theatre on Wednesday, September 23 and Thursday, September 24.

The widely-acclaimed Gielgud production, direct from the Lunt - Fontanne Theatre on Broadway, will be presented in the revolutionary new Electronovision Theatrofilm electronic-optical process. Tickets will be sold in advance on a reserved-performance basis at popular prices approximating those of first-run motion pictures. The limited engagement — there will be no "road" tour — will comprise one matinee and one evening performance on each of the two days, with every patron guaranteed a seat at the performance specified on his ticket. More than 1,000 theatres across the United State and Canada will offer the hit play simultaneously.

AP Newsfeatures

Electronovision Theatrofilm is a brand new term in the motion picture world. It is a process which combines and blends the advantages of motion pictures — high quality, permanence and wide distribution — with the immediacy of television and the authenticity of any event taking place before any audience.

Electronovision will make its official debut shortly (Sept. 23 24) when the Broadway production of "Hamlet" starring Richard Burton is brought simultaneously to audiences in more than 1,000 motion picture theaters throughout the country.

AVAILABLE LIGHT

The newsworthy feature of the Theatrofilm process, photographically speaking, is that it is filmed by available light only. We are aware of the vast amount of illumination normally required in shooting motion pictures and television. When we think of a movie or television set, we visualize actors and cameras surrounded by lights—spotlights, arc and boom lights, floodlights, front, back and sidelights.

Theatrofilm, however, photographs and records an event only by the light with which it is viewed by an audience. Thus its special cameras are able to retain the dramatic mood seen by spectators at stage plays, night-time spectacles, sports events or any once-in-a-lifetime public affair.

An Electronovision camera photographs a scene electronically, just like a television camera which it resembles. Many cameras are used to photograph an event simultaneously from different angles. The multiple images are transmitted to an electronic monitoring board.

The film director at this point must select one of the many views for permanent recording. By pressing a button, one selected camera angle is transmitted to an electronic converter. This changes the electronic impulses to an optical image on high-speed motion picture film. The images and camera angles are changed by the director as the action proceeds to provide the best views and to ensure a change of pace. Sound is recorded along with the visual image.

"Hamlet" was photographed by 15 strategically placed Electronovision cameras at a regular performance during its Broadway run. When the three-hour film is shown, a coast-to-coast audience will see the complete stage show. Showings are limited to just two matinee and two evening performances. It is the first in a series of state attractions slated for Theatrofilm production and Warner Bros. distribution in the nation's local motion picture theaters.

It might also point the way to an electronic future for the still picture cameras of professional and amateur photographers. It makes George Eastman's famous slogan, "You press the button; we do the rest!" a prophetic forecast of what lies ahead.

MOTOROLA

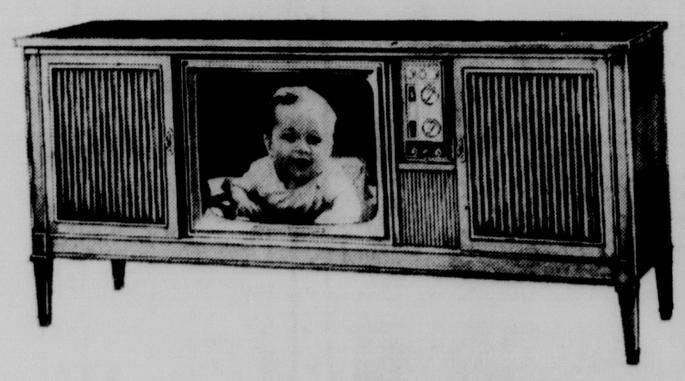

Color/65

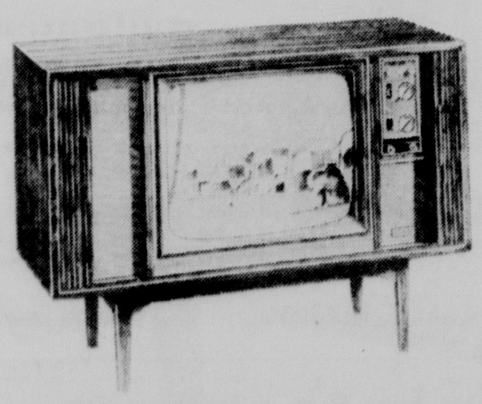

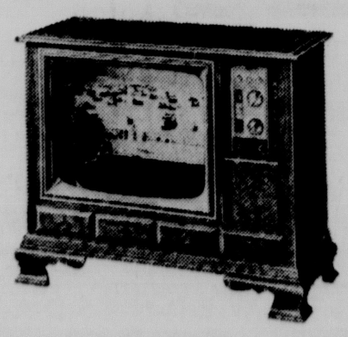

Trend House has never before offered a line of television because until now, we've never found a line that meets our exacting standard of fine quality, elegant cabinetry and superb craftsmanship! Here at last in Motorola is a line of fine television that meets our standards and will be equally at home among fine furniture in your living room, den, family room or bedroom.

Whether your decorative taste is traditional, contemporary or transitional . . . the new generation of Motorola Color television will blend beautifully with your furnishings. The exquisite detail of the cabinetry will thrill and please you. The engineering excellence of the rectangular Motorola color TV tube will satisfy your desire for hours upon hours of fine color televiewing. Visit Trend House soon and see color television . . . the look of tomorrow in Motorola Color/65!

Why wait? Get the look of tomorrow right now.

Don't buy a color set that may soon be obsolete. Buy a Motorola Rectangular.

NEW TUBE— The picture is rectangular, full, bigger, with a natural shape similar to color movies. All other color sets commercially produced in America today use a round tube shaped like black-and-white tubes of 10 years ago. Come in and see the difference.

NEW SLIM CABINETS— Cabinets are trim and slim. They fit closer to the wall than ever before possible with Color TV sets. The new Motorola Color/65 sets are available in many fine cabinet designs.

PROVED DEPENDABILITY— Manufacturer's full year guarantee covers free exchange or repair of any tube or part proven defective in normal use. Arranged through us, labor extra. All sets have hand-wired chassis, hand and dip soldered for high reliability.

Monroe District Methodists To Aid Centenary Campaign

Monroe District Methodist leadership will join the area phase of Centenary College's 1964 "Campaign for Excellence" on Wednesday, Sept. 23, with an advance gifts kickoff meeting to be held at the Hotel Frances.

Rev. Edward R. Haug, Monroe District Superintendent who will double as district chairman of the area campaign, announced Saturday that the dinner meeting will begin at 7 p.m. Campaign leadership at the state, district and local church levels will be present, as well as advance gift prospects.

The Rev. Mr. Haug said that the bulk of the program will be in the hands of Dr. Aubrey G. Walton, Resident Bishop of the Louisiana Area; J. C. Love Jr., of Ruston, campaign chairman; and Dr. Jack S. Wilkes, president of Centenary.

Assisting the Rev. Mr. Haug with the district organization will be W. D. Cotton, district lay co-chairman, and the Rev. George W. Harbuck, pastor of Monroe's First Methodist Church and district clergy co-chairman. Pastors and lay co-chairmen from each Methodist church in the district are also expected to attend.

The local meeting will be the third in a series to be conducted in all eight districts of the Louisiana Annual Conference this month. These will be followed on Oct. 18 by a general conference-wide solicitation in the individual churches.

The area campaign has a goal of $1,125,000, with $1,000,00 earmarked for Centenary's current $2,500,000 fund drive and $125,000 for the Wesley Foundations of the Louisiana State University system. Centenary conducted a civic campaign in Shreveport and Bossier City last spring with a goal of $1,500,000 and has realized well over $1,200,000 from that effort to date.

The funds from the drive are to be used by Centenary in upgrading itself in a number of academic areas, including its library book collection, laboratory and classroom facilities, faculty salaries, a modernized physical education plant and endowment funds.

The Rev. Mr. Haug said that the following leadership had been set up in the Methodist churches of the Monroe district, with pastors named first and lay co-chairmen, when known, second:

Bartholomew: Rev. George A. Duerson and Mrs. Noble Nelson; Hughes Chapel: Rev. George A. Durson and L. L. Robinson; Bastrop First Methodist; Rev. R. L. Peyton and Jack Warren; Bastrop Memorial; Rev. Masur Museum Program Today

An explanation of paintings on exhibit at the Masur Museum of Art, 1400 South Grand, will be given at 3 p.m. today by Ed Schutz, vice president of the art center, and assistant professor of art at Northeast State College.

The event is open to the public.

AT NORTHEAST COLLEGE

ROTC Enrollment Sets New Record

Enrollment in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Northeast Louisiana State College went over the thousand mark for the first time this semester, according to Lieut. Col. Meredith L. Shumaker, commandant of cadets at the college.

The ROTC program, designated a senior division in 1950, the same year as Northeast became a senior college, has a total enrollment this year of 1,078 cadets, an increase of 156 over last year's figure.

The Northeast ROTC Brigade consists of three battalions, each containing three companies. One of these companies, Headquarters Company, contains the ROTC Band and the "Fusileers", a precision drill team commanded by Cadet Robert J. Pfrimmer of Monroe.

The ROTC Brigade is represented on a national scale by its membership in the National Society of the Scabbard and Blade. The local chapter, Company B, 13th Regiment, is commanded by Cadet Richard E. Greene of Monroe. This society is organized for the purpose of fostering interests in military pursuits and for the promotion of national patriotism and citizenship.

The Military Department also sponsors three local organizations. These include the ROTC Band, which performs during parades and ceremonies conducted by the Cadet Corps; the "Fusileers", a precision drill team whose performances are featured during halftime activities of Northeast's home football games; and the Smallbore Rifle Team, which competes regularly with teams from other institutions in the Louisiana and Fourth Army area.

Highlights of the year will include the annual federal inspection and the Military Awards Day. The federal inspection will be conducted by officers of Headquarters, Fourth U.S. Army, to determine the standard of efficiency attained by the Cadet Corps during the school year. The outstanding cadets of the corps receive the recognition to which they are entitled on the annual awards day.

One of the outstanding social events of the year on the college campus is the Military Ball, sponsored by the ROTC Cadets. The evening's activities are climaxed by the crowning of the queen of the Military Ball.

District Meet Of VFW Today

The 14th District Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliaries will meet today at 2 p.m. at the Oak Grove Post Home.

A. E. Gossett, district commander, and Mrs. Earline Griffis, district president, urge all members to attend.

State Commander Weldon Talley of Metairie and state president Mrs. Mary Angelle of New Iberia will be on hand for today's meeting.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL NIGHT

Parents To Visit Neville Monday

Neville High School's annual Back-to-School night event for parents, students and faculty members will be held Tuesday.

A special assembly program will begin at 7 p.m. in the Neville auditorium, and will last about 30 minutes. Parents will be welcomed by Principal Sidney A. Seegars, and Van D Odom, city schools superintendent.

Honor students from last school year will be recognized during the assembly, and seniors who have maintained a "B" average for their first three years will also be honored.

Following the assembly, parents will accompany their sons and daughters to classes. Bells will be rung at short intervals to signal the changing of classes. This will be an opportunity for parents to meet individual teachers, and for the teachers to discuss their methods and procedures in each class.

"Through this first occasion this school year, we hope to establish an initial contact with parents of our new students, and welcome back the parents of our returning students," said Seegars.

"We feel that the interest and support which the parents of our students have given our school in past years have been important factors in the success of our undertaking. We cordially invite all parents to come with their children to take advantage of this opportunity to meet their teachers and become better acquainted with our school."

There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, FA 3-3660, FA 3-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.

DEDICATION of the new library of Fellowship Baptist Church of Monroe in memory of a former pastor, the Rev. W. E. Bennett Sr., will be conducted at 10 a.m. today. There will be an open house at 5 p.m. to allow the public to inspect the facilities, a portion of which is shown in this photo. There are more than 435 books in a wide selection of subjects for all age groups. A local doctor gave the initial gift in memory of the Rev. H. C. Wroten, and many have given books in memory of Rev. Bennett. The library has a filing system for pictures, maps, tracts, and other visual aids, including a historical file of the church. On the library committee are Mrs. Elaine Ramsey, Mrs. Delores Johnson, Mrs. Wista Lou White, Carolyn Fussell, Anne Holyfield, and Mrs. Ruth A. Johnson, chairman. The Rev. C. Roger Johnson is pastor of the church.

'GIFT OF TONGUES'

More Churches Try Glossolalia

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "The words I uttered were above and beyond my own intelligence.

"It happened three years ago. I had been praying for the experience.

"One day, here in my living room, I was kneeling in prayer. Suddenly I had a feeling of great and uninhibited joy.

"I began to praise God in English, then changed to another language. It was a beautiful experience."

The speaker is Vivian Bruner of Dallas. She is a Baptist. She takes part in one of the most controversial activities in Christianity today: glossolalia.

GIFT OF TONGUES

Glossolalia means "gift of tongues," which Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines as: "Ecstatic speech that is usually unintelligible to hearers and is uttered in worship services of various contemporary religious groups laying great stress on religious excitation and emotion fervor."

Proponents see it as a religious prairie fire sweeping the grass roots of American religion. They say they hope it will breathe new life and vitality into what they call "the cold and sterile" church.

Many church leaders differ. They fear that growth of glossolalia could deal great harm to organized religion because of its dividing nature.

It is related in the New Testament in the second chapter book of Acts, when the apostles gathered at Jerusalem 50 days after Easter:

"And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place.

"And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

"And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

"And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the spirit gave them utterance."

Speaking with tongues has been a characteristic of the Pentecostal movement since it sprang up shortly after the turn of the century.

Members of the movement believe the blessings of the Holy Spirit permit them to speak in tongues, heal and have visions.

In the past five years, the practice appeared in some Baptist, Presbyterian and Episcopal chuches.

Some ministers of non-Pentecostal churches who have practiced and condoned speaking in tongues have resigned under fire from congregation members.

One such minister, a Baptist, quit his pastorship in New Mexico and set up a youth center adjacent to the Texas Technological College campus at Lubbock.

The Rev. J. Samuel Phillips says his "Lubbock Christian Youth Center" was established "to do the real business of God. Nothing is happening in our churches today."

Glossolalia participants at his center range from college students to millionaire businessmen, he said.

Rev. Fontenot Answers Call To Liberty Post

The Rev. W. L. Fontenot has accepted the pastorate of Liberty Baptist Church, 401 Slack St., West Monroe.

Formerly pastor of the Fundamental Baptist Church of Palmer, Texas, he is married and has two children. He is 38 years old and a native of Collinston. He will preside at his first services as pastor today. The church schedule of services is Sunday school, 9:45 a.m., morning worship, 11; evening service, 7, and mid-week services, 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Judge Barham Guest Speaker At Fellowship

District Judge Mack E. Barham will be the guest speaker for the regular meeting of the Christian Men's Fellowship of the First Christian Church of Monroe, 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The judge has served as a trustee and Sunday School teacher in the First Baptist Church of Bastrop. His topic for the evening will be "Religion and Law."

Members of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury are being sent invitations to be special guests at the dinner meeting. Two members of the Police Jury, M. W. Montgomery, and Curtis Joiner, are active members of the Christian Men's Fellowship.

CHURCH JOURNALS

Preaching Art Hit By Critics

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Two nationally-circulated religious magazines have finally said out loud what some long-suffering laymen have been muttering to one another for years.

The great art of preaching has fallen into low estate.

There are notable exceptions. But many of the sermons inflicted on faithful church-goers these days run the gamut from boring to banal.

There are some parts of the United States, says Christianity Today magazine, where "one would have to drive for several hours, if not a day, to find a preacher who makes God talk to men in direct, authentic and quotable sermons."

An article in The Living Church is equally pessimistic. "What too many of today's sermons exemplify," it says, "is not decorum or restraint or good taste or anything of the sort, but just downright dullness, timidity, perhaps even sloth."

That word "sloth" will raise some ministerial hackles. The average pastor puts in far more than a 40-hour week, and he takes it unkindly when someone accuses him of laziness in sermon preparation.

The trouble is that he may be so busy doing other things that he has no time or energy left for the creative agony of writing first-rate sermons.

Special Day At Methodist Home Slated

The third annual Hospital-Home Steward's day will be held on the campus of the Methodist Children's Home, Ruston, Sunday, Sept. 27. District and local church Hospital-Home stewards and any other interested persons may attend, officials said. Members of the Board of Directors of the Home will be present.

Visitors will be given a complete presentation of the work and the problems of the Home. The Board of Directors and the administration of the Home believe that this visit on the ground takes the story of homeless children back to the local churches most effectively.

There will be conducted tours of buildings and grounds, and lunch will be served at noon. Visitors will begin registering at 10:50 a.m. and the entire program will be completed at 1:45 p.m. Rev. Harry E. Ezell is superintendent of the Methodist Children's Home.

New Woodlawn Church Slates Revival Series

Revival services will start today and continue through Friday in the new Woodlawn Methodist Church building in Woodlawn community on Jonesboro Highway.

Sunday services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and weekday services at 7 p.m. A different speaker will be featured at every service. The Rev. Hardy Carroll is pastor of Woodlawn Church as well as pastoring Walnut Grove Methodist Church.

The Woodlawn church came into being recently, growing out of the Lapine Methodist Church, which is located in Lapine Community. The new facilities were occupied several weeks ago. The new building is of red brick finish.

Sunday school is held at 10 a.m. and Methodist Youth Fellowship meeting at 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Dr. F. J. Taylor Will Speak At Parkview Baptist

The president of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Dr. F. Jay Taylor, will speak at both the 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services today at Parkview Baptist Church, 1001 Forsythe Ave.

A native of Gibsland, La., Dr. Taylor earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of California and Claremont Graduate School and his Ph. D. from Tulane University. He was dean of Louisiana College, at Pineville, immediately before becoming the 12th president of Louisiana Tech.

Dr. Taylor is pulpit guest at Parkview in the absence of the church's pastor, James R. Edwards, who was conducting revival services during the past week at a church in his home town of Tullahoma, Tennessee.

Gambling Ills Discussion Set This Evening

At the 5:30 p.m. Vesper Hour today, the Commission on Christian Concerns of the First Methodist Church of Monroe, will sponsor a program on the subject, "Gambling and How It Affects Our Community."

In order to present a realistic picture, the Commission has invited Ouachita Parish Sheriff Bailey Grant; Monroe Police Chief James Kelley, and Assistant District Attorney Gilbert Brown, to participate in a panel discussion which will be moderated by the pastor, the Rev. George Harbuck. Following the panel discussion there will be a question and answer period.

The event is open to the public. Officials said that statistics show that America has gambling fever. Fifty million Americans gamble moderately, and four million to six million gamble because they can't stop the habit, and lives are blighted.

NORMAN E. HODGES, associate Training Union secretary for the Louisiana Baptist Convention, will be a conference leader during a Training Union Improvement Clinic sponsored by Ouachita Parish Baptist Association September 28 through October 1 at the First Baptist Church in Monroe. He will conduct conferences for adults and adult Training Union leaders.

REV. PAUL KOLB, of Winnsboro, district missionary of the Deer Creek and Richland associations, will be featured evangelist at a revival series opening today at Faith Baptist Church, 513 Sunnyside Drive, Monroe, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. Raymond Howe. Sonny Newcomer will direct music for the meetings, which will continue through Sunday, Sept. 27. Sunday services will be held at 10:50 a.m. and 7 p.m. Services Monday through Friday will be held daily at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. A nursery will be open during services.

REV. BILL MASON, young evangelist from Port Neches, Texas, will open a revival at Central Assembly of God Church, Hall and Calypso streets, this evening at 7:30. Rev. Mason, who has conducted revivals in many sections of the nation makes a special appeal to young people, it was announced by the Rev. William Blair, pastor. Mrs. Ralph Humble will direct the choir, Darrell Pilcher, Northeast Louisiana youth director, will serve as pianist. Mrs. Frank Woolie will be at the organ.

Central Baptist Sets Coronation

A Girl's Auxiliary Coronation Service will be held 7 p.m. today at the Central Baptist Church, 3400 Lee Ave. Shelia McGee will be crowned in the ceremonies.

President of the Women's Missionary Union is Mrs. Marvin Foster. Counselors are Mrs. Harold McGee, and Mrs. Troy Williams.

CENTRAL ASSEMBLY OF GOD

Church Edifice Symbol Of Work And Progress

The Central Assembly of God Church in Monroe had a modest beginning, but the beautiful edifice housing it stands as a symbol of the progress that has been made.

The Rev. William R. Blair, pastor, who came to the Central Assembly assignment September 13, 1959, has seen the church make many gains. Payments on the educational building were completed, representing only one-third of the valuation of the structure, he said.

A beautiful new organ has been placed in the church, debt free, new carpets installed in the main auditorium, and the Sunday School department has been completely remodeled and air conditioned.

MAIN SECTION

The main section of the red brick sanctuary has seating accommodations for 750 persons. It is 136 feet by 58 feet. There is a wing at the back of the building which houses a kitchen and some of the Sunday School classes.

Membership of the church is around 200. Many area youth meetings, as well as revivals and other special events are held at the church. The church is located at 501 Calypso, and the parsonage at 509 Calypso.

Telling about the organization of the church, an official said, "The burden for a church in this locality generated in the hearts of a few people who realized the great potential which presented itself in the heart of the city."

It was in the fall of 1944 that the Louisiana District Council of the Assemblies of God purchased property at the corner of Hall and Calypso streets for the purpose of erecting a church building. For many years this had been the property of the late Judge Schultz.

ASSUMED TASK

The Rev. L. O. Waldon resigned from the office of state district superintendent of the Assemblies of God, and assumed the responsibilities of building the church. Since there was no congregation, he solicited and received help from ministers of nearby churches. Financial help came from various sources, including people of the same faith living in the immediate area.

A building contractor in Bossier City sent a skilled construction worker to be the head carpenter, and paid his salary.

World War Two was going on and building materials were hard to obtain. There was a church building in Cotton Valley which was scheduled for demolishing. A crew of men from Monroe and vicinity took over the job of dismantling the building and moving it here.

In October of that year, the first service was held in the small building. Two years later a building was purchased at Camp Claiborne and disassembled to make an addition to the church.

In 1950, the old residence which was being used for the minister's home was demolished and a new pastorium built. Construction was started on another educational building in 1951, but before its completion Rev. Waldon accepted a call to a church in Malvern, Ark.

NEW AUDITORIUM

He was succeeded in the pastorate here by the Rev. G. E. Chambers on October 1, 1952. During Rev. Chambers six years of service here a new auditorium was erected where the old church plant had been. The first service was held in the new building on Easter Sunday, April 18, 1954. Rev. Chambers resigned in 1958. The Rev. A. N. Trotter served the church for one year, to be followed by the present pastor, Rev. Blair.

Those serving on the church board are Harmon West, Barney Howard, Jack Hammons, Toy Humphries, and M. B. Lane. Frank Woolie is secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Frank Woolie, organist; Darrell Pilcher, pianist, and Mrs. Ralph Humble, choir director.

Rev. Blair was born in Bienville Parish, and spent most of his youth in Winnfield, where he met and married the former Merle Franks. They have two children and four grandchildren. A son, Bill, lives in Baton Rouge, and their daughter, Mrs. Jerry Ann Anderson, lives in Monroe, and serves as assistant pianist and organist for the church.

He first felt the call to the ministry while residing in Orange, Texas, where he was employed by a steel company, Rev. Blair said. He received most of his theology training through correspondence courses from the Assemblies of God headquarters in Springfield, Missouri.

His first ministerial work was in organizing a new congregation in Vinton, La., where there was no Assembly of God Church. After pastoring the work there for more than three years and seeing the organization well established, he accepted a call to Jennings, where he served for nine years, and saw the church more than double in attendance.

From there he came to his present pastorate.

Observance Opens Today At Sundown

The ancient Jewish harvest festival, Sukos, will be observed starting at sundown today. Also known as the Feast of Tabernacles, it is described as one of the most joyous of the Jewish holidays, and immediately follows the serious penitential "Days of Awe."

In connection with the observance, services will be held today at 7:30 p.m. at Temple B'Nai Israel, 2400 Orell, it was announced by Rabbi Sylvin L. Wolfe.

Sukos is essentially a thanksgiving festival, rooted in the agricultural history of ancient Israel, in which Jews express their joyousness to God and their gratitude for the autumn harvest.

OFFERING

Children of B'Nai Israel will lay cans of food on the altar as a thanksgiving offering to be distributed through local charities.

The observance will run through September 28. Another service marking the closing of the Sukos observance, as well as the ending of the High Holy Days Season, will be held Sunday, September 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Temple B'Nai Israel. At this time there also will be a consecreation of the children in the first grade of the religious school.

Sukos also has a symbolic relationship to the liberation from Egyptian bondage and the long journey toward the land of Promise. It is described as having a dual purpose, an expression of thanksgiving for the liberation from Egypt, and the gratitude for the fruits of the earth.

SPECIAL PRAYERS

Sukos is observed by special prayers and rituals, in the synagogue and the home. Fragile booths called sukkas are built of wood and decorated with boughs of trees and the fruits of the harvest, and special prayers of thanks for the splendor and bounty of nature are recited in them. The American pilgrims, who identified themselves closely with the ancient Hebrews, consciously patterned Thanksgiving upon Sukos, say Jewish religious leaders.

The final day of Sukos is spent by both Orthodox and Reform Jews in rejoicing over the gift of the Torah, the holy teachings which came to the Israelites during their long, wandering journey through the desert.

Mission School Scheduled In Union Parish

The Union Parish Baptist Association will conduct a School of Missions, today through Friday.

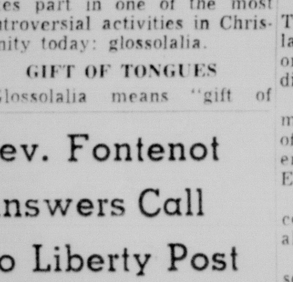

There will be 13 churches cooperating in the school. They are Bernice First, Bethel, Spearsville First, Mount Union, Camp Creek, Farmerville First, Liberty, Pleasant Hill, Marion First, Dean, Cross Roads, Springhill, and Enterprise Baptist churches.

Every phase of the Southern Baptist Convention Mission Work will be represented by 13 different missionaries. Each church will have a different missionary each night. Time of meeting will be 7 p.m.

OAKRIDGE BOYS

In 1962 the famous Blackwood Brothers the Stamps Quartet Music Company and organized the present Stamps Quartet to work out of Memphis, Tenn. The Stamps Quartet is made up of Smiling Joe Roper, Pianist; the big Texan John Hall, Bass; Jim Hill First Tenor; Maylon Levere (the author of "Without Him") Baritone and Rodger McDuff sings Lead and is Emcee for the group.

A few months back Dad Speer had a heart attack and after 39 years with his famous Speer Family that the nation loved so well Dad and Mom Speer had to drop out of the quartet and many of us felt we would never see them sing again, but through the Grace of God they are back singing in the group and will be here (the Lord willing) on Sept. 24th. Along wtih Dad and Mom Speer are Brock and Ben Speer, Brock's wife, Faye, Ann Sanders and Jerry Redd. The demand for public appearances of the Speer Family is greater than ever.

Featuring:

The present Oakridge Quartet organized in January, 1958. Singing in the quartet: Herman Harper, Bass; the Baritone, Jim Hammil (formerly with the Rebels Quartet); Manager and Emcee, Smitty Gatlin; "Little Willie" Wynn sings First Tenor and Tommy Fairchild is the Pianist. They are heard in all night singings, concerts, churches as well as on records, radio and television.

What Jesus Thought Of The Church

Jesus was not blind to the real character of church membership of His day

There are few subjects on which we people have such discordant views as we do on the church. There are those who do not care for the church in any form. Others like one kind and despise all others. Some seem to like them all and support none. Some say the church is full of saints, others say it is full of hypocrites.

Some say the church suffers from too much sociability, others say from not enough. Some say preachers are too worldly, others say they are too sad. Some say there is enough preaching on future punishment, others not enough.

READ CHARACTER

Jesus was not blind to the real character of the church membership of His day. He read character as we read a book, yet he did not quit the church. The church was more to Jesus than a rendezvous for people of uncertain character. It stood for the faith that makes men brethren. It was a house of prayer.

Whatever God intended the church to be, the church is bound to be what the members make it. When the church is perverted, it is not God or the church as an ideal that is to be blamed, but we, as people in the church.

REMEMBER

After all let it be remembered that one of the last public services Jesus performed was for the church when he sought to defend her against those who would pervert her ideals and drag her standards through the dust.

We have many good organizations in the world and they are to be commended highly, but Jesus committed himself to only one and that was "The Church." He loves her and wants to be identified with her. "Upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell will not prevail against her."

Week's Business News Almost Solidly Bullish

NEW YORK (AP)—Signals of continuing economic growth, possibly through the 1960s, were sounded from several significant sources this week.

Aside from the labor-management question marks including auto, rail and mining negotiations, the business news seemed almost solidly bullish.

—Industrial production rose the 12th straight month.

—Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon announced that the nation's gold stock was up at the end of August, indicating some success in the effort toward balancing the nation's international payments ledger.

—The National Industrial Conference Board, a trade research group, predicting a continuing, noninflationary growth that could carry to 1970.

—The steel industry reported plans for another round of heavy spending for plant and equipment, supporting surveys that indicate there will be more economy-fueling capital investment next year.

All week long, however, the rosy flow of rising indicators and optimistic projections had to contend in business minds with concern over possible work stoppages in pending labor disputes, and concern over possible inflationary effects of settlements already reached.

The copper industry struggled back toward full production that would permit it to take full advantage of brisk, backlogged demand. Major labor questions have been settled but several contract difficulties persisted into the week.

A familiar threat of a nationwide rail strike was raised by a job security dispute involving the railroads and six craft unions. Federal mediators sought to reconcile differences.

The increase in the industrial production index to an August level of 133.5 (1957-59 equals 100) reflects gains in all three of its components, manufacturing, mining and utilities. The figure compares with 132.7 in July and 125.4 per cent in August last year.

The month-to-month rise was about the same as in the last several previous months, suggesting continued, broad-based growth.

The only important weak spot was construction, down 1 per cent from the record levels of July and June with public projects the biggest factor in the decline. Separately, the Census Bureau reported that sales of one-family residences in July were 8 per cent lower than a year earlier at 56,000 units, though the median price was up at $19,100 against $18,400 a year earlier.

The balance of payments report by Treasury Secretary Dillon came at a meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board, whose economic projections were announced at the same time.

Dillon said that the August gold stock figure showed a rise from the August 1963 total of $15,633, billion. An exact figure for the gain will be released later this month.

In recent years, the United States has spent, lent and donated more money abroad than it has earned back. Gold stocks have been drawn down by foreign banks exchanging their dollar surpluses. Dillon said this outflow has been "stemmed."

The Conference Board report on the long-term economic outlook said there could be inflation in the future but that "it is very difficult now to establish economic grounds" for it.

It said that growth through the 1960s should come from rising population and technological developments. It termed the current mid-1960s period "a period of delicate transition from a dying postwar boom to a new, more natural, but less impressive and less inflationary boom whose real strength will not be reached for many years."

New car sales in the first 10 days of September were up 16 per cent from a year ago to a rate of 16,865 cars a day . . . The Pennsylvania railroad announced it will divest itself of its 31.3 per cent interest in Norfolk and Western railway after that line merges with the Nickel Plate railroad . . .

Sales of manufacturing companies rose 6 per cent in the April-June quarter from the same span a year ago and profits gained 17 per cent, a government report said . . . property damage by Hurricane Dora in Florida and George will total some $17.5 million in insurance claims, the National Board of Underwriters said . . . Tiffany's, and the jewelry firm, has tried selling campaign buttons and reports that its first supply of the $5 silver pins sold out on a ratio of 53 per cent President Johnson, 47 per cent Sen. Barry Goldwater.

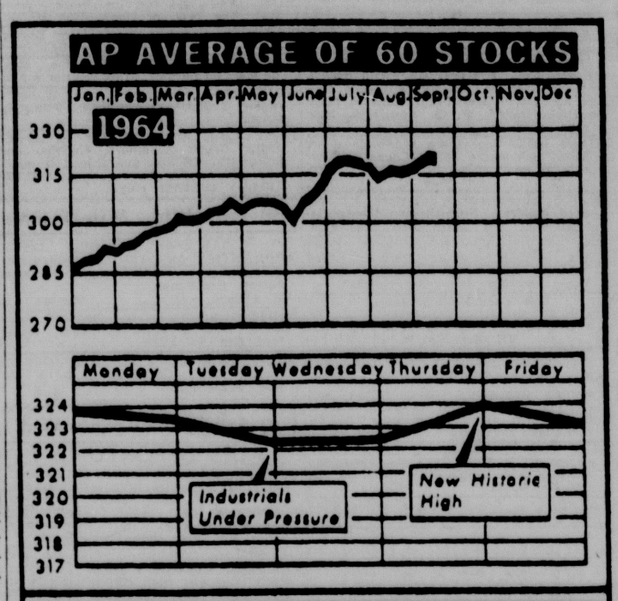

JOIN IN BOYCOTT

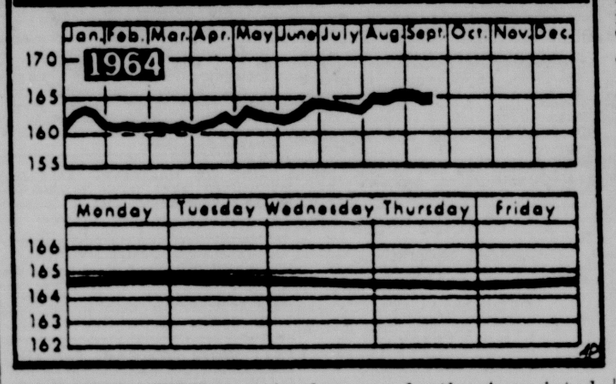

MIAMI (UPI) — Two Puerto Rican unions joined organized Venezuelan workers Thursday in calling for a boycott against ships, companies and nations trading with Communist Cuba. The boycott was proposed by the Venezuelan stevedores union. The Puerto Rican Federation of Democratic Unions and stevedores union joined the move Thursday.

Sunday, September 20, 1964 — Three-D

FOR THE FIRST time in three weeks the Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined, closing Friday at 323.1 from 323.8 of a week ago. The weekly turnover was the heaviest since April. The commodity index moved lower for the second straight week, closing at 164.6 from 164.7 of a week ago. Livestock was conspicuous on the downside. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Stocks Close Week Lower; Trading Brisk

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market went through a slight correction last week, showing a lower edge in very heavy trading.

Volume of 27,850,830 shares compared with 20,904,600 in the previous week, which was cut to four days by the Labor Day holiday. It was the heaviest weekly volume since the week ended April 25 when 29,083,081 shares were traded.

In spite of the easy performance for the week as a whole, the market showed one big flash of power on Thursday when it roared to historic new highs of 868.67 in the Dow Jones industrial average and 324.0 in The Associated Press average of 50 stocks.

Another shooting scare in the Bay of Tonkin triggered a brisk selloff on Friday, otherwise the market might have posted a gain on the week.

The Dow industrials this week declined 2.01 to 865.12.

The AP average fell .7 to 323.1.

Both declines were trifling. They occurred in a week which brought very encouraging news from the broad economic front and from corporations.

IN MONROE DISTRICT

Concordia Sets Pace In Finals

Five completions — three of them in Concordia Parish — led activity last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District. The level of drilling remained high, but little changed from the previous week's.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook's weekly report listed the remaining two completions in Tensas and Union Parishes, while there were 28 rigs active, drilling or testing, at the end of the week.

A total of 33 new locations were staked in seven of the district's 15 northeast Louisiana parishes.

The nine parishes with active rigs included Concordia and LaSalle, with seven each, Avoyelles, Catahoula and Tensas, all with three, Rapides with two, and Grant, Richland and Union, one each.

Concordia led the total on new locations with 10 new sites, followed by Catahoula and LaSalle with six each. Rapides and Tensas Parishes had four new locations each. Franklin Parish had two, Union had one.

Twelve wells were plugged and abandoned during the week, leaving 59 inactive sites in the district.

Cook's report gave these details on the completions, active rigs and new locations:

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Square Dance Partner Found With Want Ad

A Want Ad brought pleasure into the life of lonely 5 ft. 6 in. widower. His young son helped him find a new interest in life through square dancing, then placed this ad:

SMALL female square dance partner wanted. 362-9608 evenings. Object fun!

The ad brought many callers and father and son found a partner who passed the "short" test and whose interests "squared" away with those of the father.

IT IS ALMOST IDENTICAL TO MAHNAY, CAPITAL CITY...

...OF THIS NEW MIDDLE-EASTERN COUNTRY...

"THERE THE TWO RIVERS FLOOD THE PLACE REGULARLY—SO THE HIGH-RISE PALACE IS SURROUNDED BY SLUMS AND SQUALOR...

...IF WE CAN PERSUADE THE KING AND QUEEN TO DAM THE TRIBUTARY RIVERS, AS WAS DONE IN DAYTON, OHIO...

...AND BRING BACK THE AREA AROUND THE PALACE AS THEY DID IN PITTSBURGH—THE AREA WOULD BOOM!

AND STAY PRO-WEST INSTEAD OF SLIDING INTO THE LEFT-OF-MOSCOW CAMP!

WHAT'S THE LATEST SCOOP ON HOW WE STAND RIGHT NOW?

KING DIT IS REPORTED CONFINED TO THE PALACE WITH A COLD...

WHILE QUEEN BAY IS ENTERTAINING A 'CULTURAL MISSION' FROM PEKING! GOOD LUCK!

I REMEMBER PRINCE DIT AS A GUTSY YOUNG PILOT...

AND FROM WHAT I HEAR OF QUEEN BAY, HE MUST STILL BE BRAVE—TO EVEN ASK FOR HELP FROM THE U.S.

AND SO IT COMES TO PASS...

SIRE, I LEARN THAT YOU HAVE REQUESTED A TECHNICAL MISSION FROM AMERICA!

WHY, YES, MY QUEEN, THIS I HAVE DONE!

hints from Heloise

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
To clean a man's felt hat, brush it with a foam-rubber powder puff, such as women use to put on make-up.

The soil comes off, the hat is clean, and all you have to do is wash the puff every now and then.

This is also the best method I know of to wipe suede shoes. There are no wire bristles to damage the leather.

Carl Camp

* * *

And it also works on women's slightly soiled felt hats . . . not those which need professional cleaning and blocking.

Heloise

STRAIGHT CANDLES

DEAR HELOISE:
I have discovered a new way to keep candles in their holders. Just cut a piece of nylon net the size and shape of a half dollar (the color can match your candle), and then place this in the candlestick. The candle will fit firmly inside, and no more wiggling!

Grandma

* * *

Gals, this works like a charm. Cut off any excess nylon net. Just cut a small enough circle to fit down into your candlestick. Great idea.

Heloise

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS

DEAR HELOISE:
I have some very lovely artificial flowers. A thought occurred to me to drop a bar of highly-scented soap into the vase (the bar may be left either whole or cut up in little pieces). I was amazed at the way the fragrance added "aliveness" to my attractive bouquet of artificial flowers!

B.A.C.

THREE-MINUTE SHINE

DEAR HELOISE:
When boiling eggs, I always use the aluminum pot or pan which needs cleaning the most and add one teaspoon of cream of tartar to the water!

The cream of tartar removes the dark marks from the aluminum pot, and my eggs are boiled . . . both in one operation. The cream of tartar does not harm the eggs.

Matilda

MAGNETIC RECIPES

DEAR HELOISE:
Attaching a clothespin to the inside of a cabinet door (or on the top of your recipe box) is an excellent idea for holding recipes when baking. However, I have an even better idea:

Those who have magnetic door-catches on their cupboards can put a paper clip on the recipe card and it will "stick" to any of the magnets. Use the cupboard nearest your working area.

Olivia

DIAPER PINS

DEAR HELOISE:
If you have safety-pin trouble and a baby, here's a hint:

Take an ordinary key chain, fasten it on your bathinette, and just snap your pins to the key chain. Be sure the chain is safely out of baby's reach. You will always be able to find the diaper pins.

Carolyn Callison

SAVE THAT DIPLOMA!

DEAR HELOISE:
To preserve wedding certificates, high school diplomas and college diplomas, just save the tubes from foil or waxed paper, roll the document carefully, and insert it in the tube!

I have some documents which I have kept this way for years.

Label each tube on the outside so you can refer to them without having to remove the contents of the others.

Kansas

USE OLD NYLONS

DEAR HELOISE:
Old nylon stockings make excellent containers for moth balls, crystals and repellents. The stockings can be tied in a knot and adjusted to any length for hanging on the wall or a coat hanger, and the thin nylon allows the fumes to escape.

If your children are sensitive to rough-textured wool sweaters, line the sleeves with discarded nylon stocking legs. This also serves to reinforce the elbows, making the sweater last longer.

When refinishing furniture or woodwork, you can make sure the surface which you have sanded is completely smooth by pulling an old nylon stocking over your hand and rubbing the surface with it. If there are any rough spots, they will make themselves known because the stocking will snag.

Blanche Campbell

SHOWER ROD TIP

DEAR HELOISE:
Do you hate the squeak when you pull the shower curtains aside? Nerve-racking, isn't it? Here's how to solve the problem:

Take a small amount of petroleum jelly or an old bar of soap and rub it across the top of the metal bar and the sides of the curtain rods. Result: Squeak-free curtains and steady nerves.

S.L.M.

MAYONNAISE DISH

DEAR HELOISE:
If you should break the creamer of your good set of dishes, use the sugar bowl for a mayonnaise dish. It will be real attractive and you will love it. The lid on the sugar bowl makes a good cover and keeps the mayonnaise from drying out.

HOME PRESERVES

DEAR HELOISE:
When I make jellies and jams I melt paraffin for covering jelly in an old coffee pot. This holds the wax beautifully, is easy to melt and is easily poured.

Belle Henderson

CROCHET TRICK

DEAR HELOISE:
I use my sewing machine with a large needle . . . no thread . . . to sew around scarves to be finished with a crocheted edge.

The small crochet needle slips right into the little holes made by the big needle of the sewing machine. Very neat trick.

GEE! DID ROLLO MAKE THESE PICTURES? THEY'RE SWELL! BEE-U-TI-FUL!

OH, YES, HE'S REALLY A VERY GOOD PAINTER!

HE TOOK A LOT O' BRUSHES AN' STUFF DOWN TO TH' BEACH. S'POSE HE'D LET ME WATCH HIM PAINT?

ANOTHER TIME, ANNIE. HE SAID TODAY HE WANTS TO BE ALONE!

OH-OH! HE'S SURE NOT ALONE NOW! IT'S THOSE GUYS!

WOULD I BE HERE, SEEKING SOLITUDE TO PAINT, IF BRATS AND MONGRELS INFESTED THIS BEACH?

AR-R--CUT TH' FANCY CHAT! WE KNOW TH' BRAT COME BY HERE, SEE?

SHE HADDA GO THIS WAY! BUT WHERE DID SHE GO? THAT'S WHAT YOU'RE ABOUT TO TELL US, FELLA!

OH, WELL, IF YOU MEN FEEL THAT WAY ABOUT IT, I SUPPOSE I CAN ONLY DO .....

....THIS!

AI! MY EYES!

TURPENTINE! WHICH WAY'S TH' WATER?

JACK! JACK! WE CAN'T SEE! HOLLER SO WE CAN FIND TH' WATER!

THIS WAY! THIS WAY!

LOOK OUT! THIS IS TH' SWAMP! WE COULD GET KILT IN HERE!

SHE GOT OUT, DIDN'T SHE? KEEP DOWN AND RUN! HE'S GOT MY GUN!

AI-I-I! I STEPPED INTO.....

Y'WHAT? WHUP! JACK! COME HELP US! QUICK!

THOUGHT I HEARD YELLING. OH, ROLLO'S COMING UP, I SEE! HE MUST FEEL HE'S DONE ENOUGH FOR TODAY!

UH-HUH! GUESS HE COULD FIGGER THAT WAY!
